Commission Studies Plan In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The prime ministers of Britain and Rhodesia agreed Saturday on a proposed royal commission to study the African colony's demand for independence, easing slightly the deadlock that has gripped negotiations.

Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia warned, however, that if the commission doesn't deliver results, "it would be the end of the road" and his white minority government would resort to "the other step," a unilateral declaration of independence.

GIVES WARNING

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, in a statement before leaving Salisbury after a week of talks, also had words of warning to both the black nationalists and the white Rhodesians. He told the nationalists Britain would not use force to bring in a one-man, one-vote law, and he told the whites that if Rhodesia should unilaterally declare independence, Britain would counter with economic, political and constitutional measures.

Smith told a cheering crowd in Rusape that if Wilson had not flown to Salisbury for the talks, "the country would have taken its independence — it would have been done and over."

He said Rhodesians must be patient and wait several months for a negotiated independence.

He added: "If negotiations break down, we will carry out the inevitable step."

There was wild cheering and shouting.

The Rhodesian leader indicated a decision could be forthcoming sooner than several months, however. He said the royal commission's most difficult step would be to produce an agreement regarding the present Rhodesian Constitution, adopted in 1961.

"It is possible that this exercise may fall down over this step, in which case we will know in a couple of days whether we have come to the end of the road," he said.

Smith spoke to a ruling Rhodesian Front party rally.

Wilson, at his final news conference here, said, "The door is open for agreement."

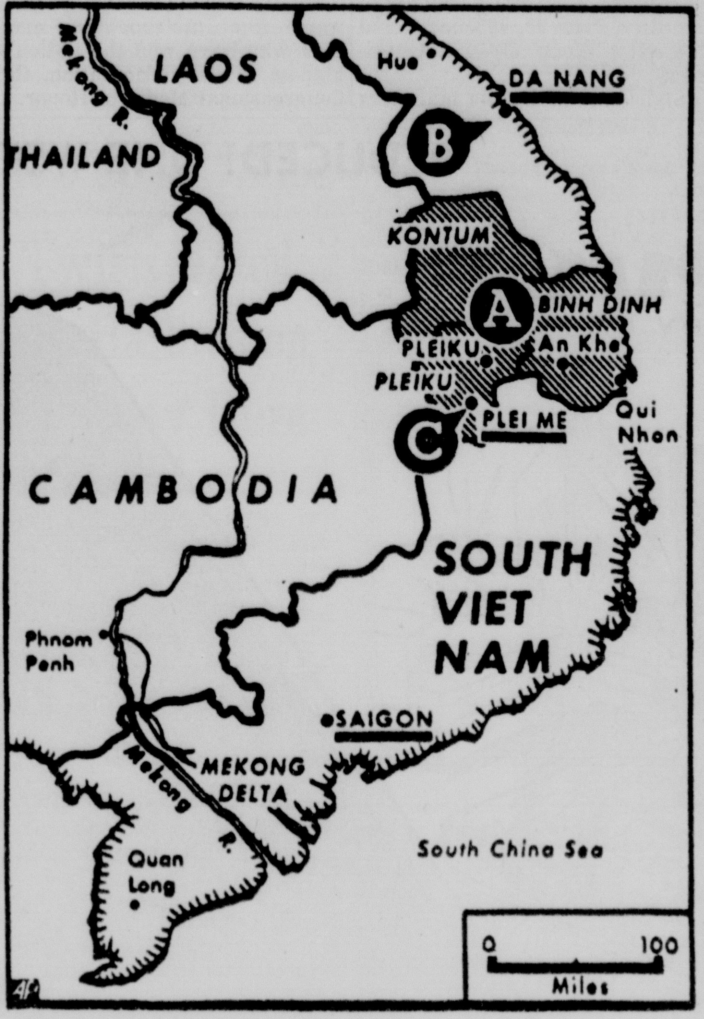
He said hopes lie in a proposed royal commission that would solve the constitutional problem that lies in the way of Britain's granting independence to this self-governing colony.

Month Closes On Mild Note

The Twin Cities will close the month today on a mild note, with generally fair skies and balmy daytime temperatures. Today's high should reach 74 to 78. The low tonight will be a crisp 40 to 46. Saturday's high was 76 with a low of 44.

No rainfall was recorded Saturday by FAA at Selman Field, and with no precipitation seen in the forecast, the area will probably end October with only .09 of an inch. This is 3.2 inches below the monthly average. The last rainfall reported in the area was Oct. 7.

Nearly 100 per cent sunshine and variable 5 to 15 miles per hour winds are predicted today.



COMMUNIST VIET CONG are reported building up their forces in highlands north of Saigon, shaded area (A), perhaps for what could be a showdown in the Vietnamese war. U.S. Marines Saturday killed 56 Viet Cong in a "numan wave" assault on their position south of Da Nang (B), while another guerrilla force again fired mortars at the U.S. Special Forces camp at Plei Me (C). Cash Prizes Set In Yule Contest

Christmas decorators in Monroe this Yuletide will have the opportunity to shoot for a total of $1,350 in cash prizes for outstanding residential displays.

The News-Star—World Publishing Corporation and City of Monroe, sponsors of the annual Christmas Home Lighting Contest, in the competition's 1965 renewal will more than double the prize money awarded last year.

Rules of the new contest also have been simplified, Monroe Chamber of Commerce officials announced Saturday, to make participation and judging easier.

KING-SIZE DISTRICTS

Contest leaders presently are dividing the city into 12 king-size districts, with a top winner, who will earn $100 for his efforts, to be selected in each district.

A grand prize winner, chosen from the city overall, will receive $150. The city's best Christmas-spirited decorator, therefore, stands to gain $250—that is, $100 for excelling in his district, plus $150 for earning the top prize citywide.

Last year, more than 150 entrants competed for $550 in cash prizes, a response which, officials said, led them to decide on the substantial boost in the contest jackpot.

Christmas, 1964, competition was based upon three levels of lighting displays, related to the cost of materials used in the displays.

The 1965 judging, in its simplified form, will take aim on a "common denominator," in laying attention on homes in specific areas, compared with other homes in the same area.

The new "zone approach" is expected to stimulate a wider range of participation, as well, resulting in "galaxies" of lighted homes throughout the city. Participants can "get a look at their competition" more easily. Overall the purpose is to make Monroe the best lighted city in Louisiana.

Plans call for the assignment of judges in each of the 12 districts.

Officials stressed that residents throughout the city will be eligible to participate, plus those living in adjoining built-up areas.

Full details will be published in the News-Star and World in the next few days, plus a map showing how the city will be divided into the 12 districts.

China Deals Death Blow To Relations

LONDON (UPI) — Red China Saturday firmly reiterated its opposition to Russia's peaceful coexistence policy in a move viewed as the death blow to any possible Sino - Soviet reconciliation in the foreseeable future.

The restatement of Peking's hard-line policy came in the broadcast of the text of a statement by the Albanian Communist Party, Red China's acknowledged mouth piece.

"No illusions should be cherished about the new Soviet leaders and the struggle against Khrushchev's revisionism must be carried through to the very end," it said.

RALLY IN MOSCOW

The broadcast significantly coincided with unconfirmed reports that Russia was seeking to rally the bulk of Communist Party representatives in Moscow for Nov. 7 commemorations of the anniversary of the Russian revolution. Moscow hopes to line up a broad front of support for its stand in the Sino-Soviet feud.

An Albanian attack of Moscow —ostensibly masterminded by Red China —had appeared in a shortened version in a Chinese publication in Peking a week ago.

The broadcast of the full text of the two-week-old Albanian attack was considered in diplomatic circles as proof that Red China means business and is determined to block any possible truce of the kind Kremlin leaders have been advocating recently.

Loss Is High Here As Fire Strikes Mill

By VERNON GUIDRY
World Staff Writer

Fire ravaged the C. A. Albright Sawmill and Lumber Co. near West Monroe for the second time in six weeks in the pre - dawn hours Saturday. Damages were estimated at $30,000.

The blaze, fought by a West Monroe fire department pumper truck, destroyed the operation's main mill, located 2.5 miles from the West Monroe city limits on White's Ferry Road. No one was at the mill at the time of the fire and no injuries were recorded.

C. A. Albright, owner of the mill, credited firemen, on the scene from 2:40 a.m. to 5:35 a.m., with saving $8,000 worth of cut lumber around the mill and other facilities. After sifting through the still smoldering ruins late Saturday, Albright said he didn't "know what caused the fire, but it must have started in or near the main mill itself."

TOTAL LOSS

"We didn't have any insurance on the mill and it's a total loss but I'm still in the lumber business. This is the second big fire we've had in 23 years. The first was about six weeks ago when my kiln burned and we lost about $3,000 worth of equipment and lumber. I guess lightning does strike twice in the same place," he said.

Albright said he shut down the mill and other operations at 4:30 p.m. Friday, made a routine inspection of the plant and found nothing amiss. He added that the fire burned through the main power line and stopped a clock in his office at 2:25 a.m., indicating the fire started sometime around 1 a.m.

The fire marked the first time the West Monroe department has answered a major blaze outside the city limits under a newly-adopted plan whereby Ouachita Parish foots the bill for firefighting until a recently approved parish fire protection plan can be implemented.

Concentration Set On State Spending

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Sen. Jamar Adcock said Saturday he will ask his Legislative Budget Committee to streamline operations and focus on the big four in state spending. The Monroe senator, one of Gov. John McKeithen's top legislative leaders and committee chairman, hopes to gain approval of colleagues for a new approach.

The 17-member committee, powerful in deciding money requests of state agencies, meets next Thursday and Friday to map annual hearings in spending ideas for the 1966 legislature.

"We want to see if we can agree on cutting down on countless committee hearings on hundreds of budgets," Adcock said. "Instead, the State Division of Administration would take over much of this and make recommendations.

ON BIG FOUR

"My idea, and many committee veterans have encouraged the step;" Adcock said, "is to use the full committee for concentration on the big four — education, public welfare, highways and institutions."

"The four take a very heavy slice of the tax dollars, and that's why we need to concentrate on them — not the smaller agencies," he said in an interview.

Legislative budget committees actually came to life under the late Gov. Earl K. Long, designed then to lend political weight of key legislators to the state budget office in its struggle to fit spending demands to revenues.

Under former Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, the committee grew in power.

Just after he was elected, McKeithen talked of getting rid of the numerous interim committee sessions—including the budget committee—to save expenses. But he was persuaded that the Budget Committee was an effective watchdog to prevent runaway spending by politically astute state agencies.

In recent years, its members have spent several weeks each fall and spring going over state agency budgets.

This, Adcock would return to the state budget office, except for major spending programs.

"I think our committee should spend much more time on the big four," Adcock said. "For highways—and state hospitals, too—constantly are coming up with new federal aid programs."

"At first, these programs make their bow in a blaze of glory backed by lots of federal cash," Adcock said. "Then in two or three years we find the state has to take over, putting up most of the money."

Rebels Seized During Mopup In Indonesia

JAKARTA (UPI)—Indonesian paratroopers have captured 342 rebels, all members of the Communist Youth Front, in mopping up operations in Central Java, Radio Jakarta reported Saturday night.

The Army - controlled radio said some of the rebels were members of an attack force that was preparing to mount an operation against the town of Bojolali.

Quoting Maj. Suroso, the military information officer in Central Java, the broadcast said 38 of the rebels were killed when they tried to ambush navy personnel patroling the Surakarta district.

Here in the capital police fired into the air Saturday to break up a near-riot between pro and anti - Communist factions of the Indonesian Nationalist Party staging a rally.

The police acted quickly to avert violence and disperse the crowd as the two factions poised to fight.

The incident was the latest evidence of the unsettled conditions in Indonesia since a Communist-inspired coup failed to unseat President Sukarno Oct. 1.

Skyraiders Questioned Strike Order

SAIGON (UPI) — Two U.S. Air Force A-1E Skyraiders inadvertently bombed a friendly village 40 miles north of Qui Nhon, killing at least 48 persons and wounding another 55, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

Twenty-seven of the most seriously wounded villagers were flown by helicopters to the American Military Hospital at Qui Nhon. The others were treated at a village hospital.

FLYING AIR COVER

The spokesman said the Skyraiders had been flying air cover for elements of the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Division headquartered at An Khe, about 35 miles to the southwest.

The incident occurred Friday. The spokesman said preliminary reports indicated the two planes were diverted from their mission with the Air Cavalry to make an immediate strike.

The spokesman said the village had been targeted by the Binh Dinh province chief as a Viet Cong stronghold. He said that while in the air the Americans questioned the order to strike but it was reaffirmed.

"The strike was under the control of an Air Force FAC (Forward Air Control) pilot who had been flying in the area for about 30 minutes prior to the strike," he said.

The spokesman added, "He marked the target although he questioned it because it was near Bong Son," a district town.

"The FAC pilot called the division air liaison officer who in turn checked with operations which once again approved the target," he said. "This information was relayed back to the FAC pilot. A few minutes later the Skyraiders started their bombing and strafing."

U.S. Marines Saturday night, anticipating new sabotage and terrorist raids by the Viet Cong, clamped an early curfew on servicemen in and around the base city of Da Nang.

Military policemen roamed the town, sending U.S. soldiers back to their units well in advance of the normal 9 p.m. curfew. They also tightened security precautions in the wake of a series of devastating Viet Cong attacks in the Da Nang area.

The precautions were ordered only hours after U.S. Marines killed at least 56 Communist in hand-to-hand combat. With the odds at four - to - one against them, the Marines smashed a Viet Cong human wave attack on a leatherneck position guarding the Da Nang air base.

The Viet Cong — about 300 strong —drove as far as the Marines own tents before they were driven back.

Young Richland Men In Danger From 4-6 p.m.

By DIANE TAYLOR
World Staff Writer

A Richland Parish man, 25 to 34 years of age, hurrying home to his wife and kids after work, driving on a state highway route, is more likely to become the next traffic fatality in Northeast Louisiana than a cross - country salesman on I - 20, according to statistics compiled by state police.

This situation may be altered, state police said, when the Interstate - 20 Highway is completed through to the Mississippi River.

Captain M. E. Kidd of Troop F, State Police, headquartered at Selman Field, said most traffic fatalities in the 12-parish area served by his troops occur in Richland Parish and most accidents happen between 4 and 6 p.m.

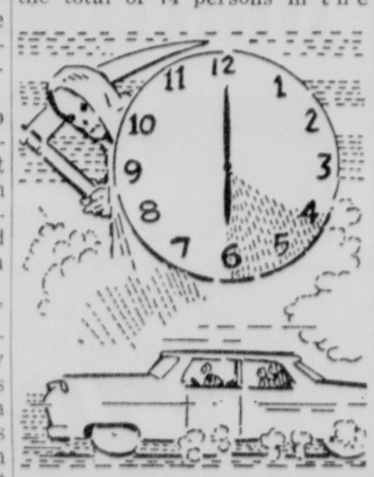
"For some unknown reason," he said, "we had 11 traffic fatalities in Richland Parish by June 20 of this year. There is no definite traffic hazard in that area. Most of the accidents take place in the daytime, on the open road, and the greatest percentage of them involve only one car.

"We have placed extra troopers over in that area," Capt. Kidd explained, "but it hasn't helped. We can't seem to find the problem there."

He said he believed the completion of I-20 through Northeast Louisiana will accomplish what adding extra troopers in the Rayville - Delhi area has not done — cut the number of traffic accidents by 50 per cent.

"We think when I-20 is completed on through to the Mississippi River, the total number of accidents and fatalities in the district will be reduced by 50 per cent. This proved true in Lincoln Parish, the only parish around here which has I - 20 running completely through it."

The state police official said during the first six months of this year, his troops investigated 35 fatal accidents in which 43 persons were killed. Some 769 were injured in the outlying area.



DANGEROUS HOURS

These figures compare with the total of 74 persons in the area who were killed as the result of traffic accidents during 1964.

Some 23 persons have been killed in this area since July 1, the captain added, bringing this year's total thus far to 66 persons who died in Ouachita, Richland, Lincoln, Jackson, Union, Morehouse, Caldwell, East Carroll, West Carroll, Madison, Tensas and Franklin Parishes.

The 12 parishes include all of the Fifth Congressional District except Catahoula and Concordia Parishes, which are patrolled by the Alexandria units.

Within the state most traffic fatalities this year have occurred on state and U.S. routes, with the third greatest number of fatal accidents occuring on parish roads. Toll roads, local streets and interstate routes claimed the least number of lives, in that order.

For the most part, these traffic deaths were caused by collisions between two vehicles. The second greatest number of fatalities resulted when the motor vehicles in question ran off the road. The charts show that speed, loss of control (caused by speed), drunk driving and failure to yield were the four major contributing factors in all these deaths in Louisiana.

Most of those killed were men, 25 to 34 years of age, statistics kept by the Louisiana State Police Department of Accidents and Enforcements show. In the female columns, those killed were mostly 15 to 19 years of age. The second highest age groups in each category were ages 20 to 24, male, and ages 45 to 54 and 54 to 65, female.

The highest percentage of drivers killed in these accidents fell in the 25 to 34 years groups, and most of these drivers were men.

Entering the lane of traffic at an angle and headon collisions were shown to be the direct causes of most fatal accidents in which two vehicles were involved.

"Most of our non - fatal wrecks," said Capt. Kidd, "are caused by following too close and not paying attention, therefore not stopping in time to prevent the accident.

"Another big problem we're having with motorists," he continued, "involves their children under age 15 whom they are allowing to drive their automobiles. It is the law that a child must wait until he is 15 to obtain his learner's permit. Then it is permissible for one adult driver to accompany him while he is learning to drive and to control the automobile. People here plead ignorance of this law, but it is certainly not a new one."

The home - going hours, when most employes are headed home for supper, home to mom and the kids, claimed 3,929 lives in Louisiana last year and have been the death hours for 1,866 through June 30 of this year, state police said.

ON THE SITE WHICH is now used for a parking lot once stood this impressive brick structure which was the first official sanctuary building of the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe on the corner of Catalpa and Grammont Streets. Constructed later was a building used for Sunday School classes and education offices. The sanctuary was constructed in 1901. Local historian, John R. Humble, said the church was first organized in 1855 and met alternately with Methodist and Episcopalian groups in the old Union Hall on Walnut St. The group later became incorporated as an official church and rented a lot on Wood Street. Afterwards, the lot on the corner of Catalpa and Grammont which is the present site of the Southern Bell Telephone Company, was chosen for the church's wooden structure. But a charter member, an elder and trustee, persuaded the church members to buy the property diagonally across the street where this building was constructed. First pastor of the church was the Rev. William D. Spurlin. This photo is the property of Mulhearn Funeral Home of Monroe.

Pay Raise Inked For Federal Workers

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson said Saturday reports on the nation's economy for the first 10 months of 1965 indicate this will be "the most propserous year in our history."

"During the past 10 months we have achieved new records in almost every part of the economy," the President said in a statement issued by the Texas White House.

Acting Press Secretary James H. Moyers, substituting for his younger brother, Bill, also announced Johnson signed into law Friday night the 3.6 per cent pay raise for federal employes.

Johnson also issued a statement about this, hailing the pay boosts as remaining with the anti-inflationary wage-price guideposts established by his Council of Economic Advisors. The President said:

"We are now in the 56th month of the longest uninterrupted peacetime economic expansion in the history of our country. Wages, profits, and other income continue to increase significantly, these gains have not been diluted by inflation."

The civilian pay bill amounts to boosts of $641.5 million annually, retroactive to Oct. 1.

The total is about $225 million more than the President recommended but far below the $1.5 billion figure originally approved by the House.

The threat of a Presidential veto prompted the House to agree to drastic cuts made by the Senate.

The across-the-board raises will go to classified and postal workers in the executive branch and employes of Congress and the federal judiciary.

There are no pay boosts for government executives, members of Congress or federal judges.

Also in the bill are $153 million worth of fringe benefits, including liberalized overtime and holiday pay provisions, additional relocation expenses, increased allowance for employes required to wear uniforms and improvements in severance pay.

Johnson had recommended a straight, one-year 3 per cent pay increase, to go into effect Jan. 1, 1966. It would have cost about $416 million.

Moyers said Johnson's statements on the economy and on the pay raise bill were the major items of business in an otherwise quiet day at the ranch as the President began his second week of convalescence there. He is on an extended say to regain strength following his Oct. 8 gall bladder surgery.

Moyers, 38, whose 31-year-old brother was at Marshall, Tex., visiting their ailing father, did not indicate whether the quietude of the LBJ ranch was broken by Luci Johnson's reported romance. Moyers would neither confirm nor deny reports from friends of the 18-year-old Luci that she had flown to the ranch with Pat Nugent, her 22-year-old beau from Waukegan, Ill., to seek her father's permission for them to be engaged to marry.

Moyers said Johnson "is progressing very well. He continues to have the pain in his back he has had for the last several days, in the area of the incision.

Navy May Get Approval For Nuclear Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy probably will get Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's approval of funds for a second nuclear-powered carrier in the new military budget, but the prospect for more A-powered destroyers still is dim.

Indications Saturday are that McNamara will adhere to his statement to a congressional committee last winter that he believed "we will request your authority to construct a carrier" with nuclear power in the fiscal 1967 budget, which is now being worked on in the Pentagon.

But there is nothing now to suggest testimony of Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover made public last week had changed the opinion of McNamara that the cost of atomic destroyers still is too high.

McNamara's position on a second nuclear carrier in the fleet is this:

The present carrier Enterprise has eight atomic reactors in its propulsion plant. In 1963, the Navy proposed one with four reactors.

Advances in the design of more efficient nuclear power production mean a carrier could require only two reactors. This, said McNamara, "so increases the efficiency of the carrier and reduces the cost that I think it will make it possible to justify nuclear propulsion for that vessel."

But on the question of building another nuclear-powered destroyer-type ship now — the official designation is "frigate" — McNamara's contention has been this:

It would cost at least $50 million more than conventional power "and it doesn't add that much to the performance of the vessel."

Americans Demonstrate Stand For U.S. Policies In Viet Nam

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Americans across the nation found ways Saturday to show their support of U.S. policy on Viet Nam—the ways ranging from an "Operation Fruitcake" in Richmond, Va., to a mass march down New York City's Fifth Avenue.

Through demonstrations, gift collection campaigns, letters, and blood donor drives, young and old citizens came forward to express support for American troops in Viet Nam and approve their presence there.

The Fifth Avenue parade, like most of the other expressions of support of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy, came about as an answer to recent draft card burnings and other demonstrations against U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Ten thousand marched against American involvement on Oct. 16. An estimated 25,000 paraded under sunny skies Saturday in support of the opposite view—that the United States does have good reasons for fighting in Viet Nam.

The crowd estimate was made by a policeman at the scene. The police did not release an official estimate.

Members of veterans' groups, labor unions, student and civil organizations joined the parade, sponsored by City Councilman Matthew Troy Jr. of Queens and the New York Journal-American.

Signs carried by the marchers read "Victory Over Viet Cong" and "Fight the Reds in Viet Nam and New York City." Many marchers held small American flags.

The sign carried by one girl read "I Wish I Had a Draft Card."

There were several incidents when antiwar demonstrators appeared on the sidelines with a sign or a remark against Vietnamese involvement. One man with a sign reading "Profits Equal Murder" was pummeled by about 40 marchers and suffered head and rib injuries.

At the head of the parade were five metropolitan area men who have won the nation's highest military decoration, the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Man Who Will Head COMSAT Is Area Native

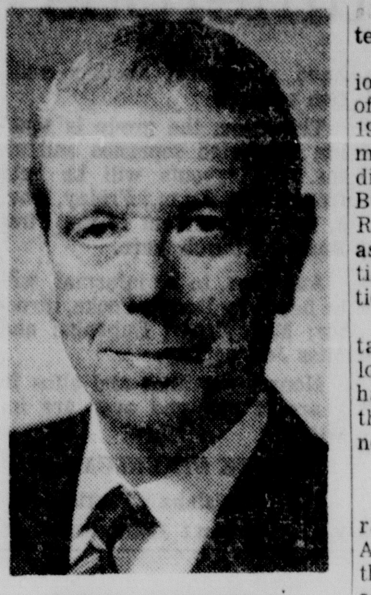
By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Major financial journals have described James McCormack, who takes over Dec. 1 as chief executive officer of the Communications Satellite Corporation, as a man who thinks five thoughts at a time. Probably one of those thoughts is at all times of Chatham—his home town.

Storybooks are full of country boys who make it big in the big city, but in real life such tales don't frequently come true. It did, however, in McCormack's case—in spades.

Not quite 55, his story might well have come from fiction, so varied is it, so full of broad responsibilities in key decision-making positions on jobs that affect hundreds, thousands, now perhaps millions of people.

Communications Satellite Corporation (COMSAT) is a private corporation created by Congress to develop and operate a world-wide system of space communications satellites. McCormack, in the $125,000 post of chairman of the board, will become the second man to hold the spot, succeeding Leo D. Welch.



JAMES McCORMACK

In it, the "down to earth" Chatham native, who went to seek his fortunes at West Point in the late 1920s, will be charged with decisions sure to influence materially what people around the world will witness in years to come in global communications — military, business, entertainment, ad infinitum.

As president of the prestigious Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Boston since 1957, the retired Air Force major general will resign as a director of Eastern Air Lines, Bulova Watch Co., the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, and as a trustee of Mitre Corporation and Aerospace Corporation.

This only begins to tell the tale of the eventful and fabulously successful life of Chatham's country boy—now one of the idols of eggheads and yet not really one of them.

DATA PROCESSING

He also holds the retired rank of brigadier general in the Army. At M.I.T. he supervised the institute's two largest research program — the Lincoln Laboratory and Instrumentation Laboratory, which work in data processing, communications and space and missile technology.

He was director of research and development in the Air Force headquarters when he retired in 1955. As well, McCormack had been director of military applications for the Atomic Energy Commission, and was the organizer and first president of the Institute for Defense Analyses.

A West Pointer, one of the top 10 graduates of his class, and a Rhodes scholar, the easy-going "steel trap" played a major role in the widely-hailed modernization at Boston as director of the Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority, as well as president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Analyzers of the man find a raft of reasons for McCormack's success in characterizing him as the New American Dream of an organization and administration man, a master of modern technology.

But most settle on the precise thinking of a serene mind, and he does indeed follow five trains of thought simultaneously, follow them so that listeners strain every faculty to keep up with his conversation.

It has been called McCormack's ultimate talent, one possessed by Newton, the ability to hold an idea and scruitinize all its aspects and relate it to other ideas.

He will rely on such thinking heavily in contending with a virtual avalanche of innovations surrounding COMSAT, fitting them into perspective with older ideas and values. "The real problem is the uniqueness of it all," the five foot, 10, 150 pounder, has said himself.

Nearly everything McCormack has done, adds to an impressive list of credentials, but, as they say, what do the home folks think?

The intellectual globe-trotter frequents the Twin Cities, as a matter of fact, paying several visits a year to his mother, Mrs. Mike "Miss Molly" McCormack, of West Monroe.

'DOWN TO EARTH'

The commonest expression insofar as the impression the visitor makes on those visited here, is "grassroots," and again, "down to earth."

McCormack is wont to describe himself as "A Chatham Boy In Orbit."

Other area relatives—cousins—of the former White House consultant also are intimates. McCormack has a first cousin living in West Monroe — Mrs. Harry Carpenter, the former Wilma Garner — and a similar relation who's Ruston's basketball coach—Denman Garner.

All in all, as everyone admits, the McCormack story goes a long way back, and there's no debating the point that it's a long step from prowler around his dad's Chatham restaurant to COMSAT chairman. "New American Dream" seems an aptly turned phrase.

James McCormack, in a word, is a Horatio Alger story incarnate.

Building Permits In Monroe Reach Total Of $97,400

Permits issued for building and remodeling projects within the City of Monroe during the past week totaled $97,400, according to the records of Dale B. Martha, coordinator of City Building and Eelctricity Inspection.

Martha said $41,000 of the total was for erection of private homes here, with $4,100 estimated for costs of additions to residences.

A single commercial construction project will cost $22,500 and the subtotal for commercial additions was $29,800.

During the month of October, Martha's record books show $512,490 worth of building projects was sought in the city. Twenty -one one - family dwellings for which permits were granted will cost $333,450 and two four - unit apartments will total $40,000. A high school athletic building will cost $55,000, a service station $23,970 and a grocery store $22,500. Residentail alterations and additions will total $24,420 for 41 projects and seven commerical alteration jobs will add up to $13,150.

Twists Noted In Halloween Holiday Here

There were ghosts on North Fourth Street and witches on South Grand, not to mention goblins and gremlins on Natchitoches and Trenton. Cries of "Trick or treat!" echoed around the town, sometimes shrill and sometimes muffled by the old bed sheet that was pressed into service but would forever more be useless because of the eye slits.

The rush that started at the first hint of nightfall Saturday diminished to small groups of older children pushing their curfew hour and finally the Twin Cities were still, having safely passed through another siege by the creatures of darkness — on other days, known as children. Halloween was over for another year.

Precautions taken by the police turned up few and minor incidents requiring their attention. West Monroe officers were really prepared for the night, they carried bags of candy in their prowl cars.

The Glen O. Temples of 13 George Breece Circle, Monroe, turned the tables on the tricksters. Glen, with the aid of a cousin from Atlanta, dressed as Frankenstein's monster—complete with a knife in his heart—and dispensed candy and scares from a closet.

Saturday nights Halloween romp will have a twist this year. Since it was pushed up a day in the Twin Cities, All Saint's Day won't arrive until Monday.

New Approach School For Troubled Youth Described

By JOE RIGERT

PROGRAMS ARE geared to students' individual abilities and enthusiasm is high among pupils and faculty at the new Garrett Heyns High School at Shelton, Wash. Most of the 80 students, 17 to 20 years old, were school dropouts, now learning the way to useful citizenship. They are prisoners at the modern Washington Corrections Center. Here William Hartline, auto mechanics instructor, teaches two students the use of a micrometer for measuring wear of engine parts. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

SHELTON, Wash. (AP)—You walk along the grassy mall, past the snapdragons and petunias, up the stairs of the modern, two-story building and hear Miss Burright's typing class clacking away to the rhythm of music.

This is newly opened Garrett Heyns High School, much like any other school in many other small towns across the country.

But the guard towers and double wire fence around the campus remind you that the locale for this one is a prison — a new and upbeat prison, but still a prison.

NOT UNUSUAL

There is no longer anything unusual about high school classes in prisons to help young convicts learn their way back to society as useful, law-abiding, employable citizens.

But there is plenty about Heyns High to make it stand out — its striking location in the heart of the year-old, $13-million Washington Corrections Center, the four women on its faculty, its inclusion in the Shelton public school system, the philosophy and dedication of teachers and officials.

"Our job is to change attitudes," says Prison Supt. Ernest Timpani, 46, "and school is the way to do it. If they had stayed in school, many of these boys wouldn't be here."

In the bright, airy second-floor classrooms of Heyns High, students can look through an attractive grillwork — no bars — to thick forests and the rugged Olympic Mountains.

But there is little time for window-gazing, what with the prodding and encouragement of an enthusiastic corps of 16 teachers in a program geared to student needs rather than school schedules.

"I tell my teachers they can't go in there with a defeatist attitude, because it will show up in their students," says George Hermes, the balding, bespectacled headmaster. "They have to be enthusiastic and positive."

Hermes is like the others; he came to the prison school after 21 years as principal of the high school in Shelton. At 60, he says he feels like 39, and his attitude is infectious.

80 STUDENTS

Nearly all of the 80 students at Heyns High are dropouts, and they learn at their own speed with individual attention from each teacher, without the pressure of being forced to compete beyond their abilities.

You get the picture of the Heyns High approach as you sit through some of the classes, unnoticed in the lively discussions, the individual counseling, the shop work in the vocational courses.

Miss Burright goes over a test paper with the 14 students In her general business class, prods Dick for questions about his paper, congratulates Joey on his grade, asks Jimmie if she can borrow his book.

Two doors away, Mr. Gulden, youngest on the staff at 23, explains to a half-dozen pupils grouped in a semicircle what they can expect in their world history test. "One thing you learn fast," he says, "is that you can't con these guys."

It's the same story of student interest and teacher enthusiasm at the vocational classes in the large, multipurpose building. Inmates are huddled around an engine in Mr. Hartline's auto mechanics course, checking over each other's work in Mr. Tumin's welding class, smoothing out a table top in Mr. Deibert's carpentry course or working out a complex formula on the blackboard in Mr. Flem's electronics class.

THE MISSING

Missing is the horseplay in the halls, the loud talking, the long-haired boys of the public high schools.

As Headmaster Hermes explains it: "They're a little older, for one thing. And they probably tried to get a job and couldn't because they didn't have a high school diploma. They've had to face up to this and they now realize how important that diploma is."

Nearly all Heyns High students are first offenders or probation violators, with records of auto theft, burglaries and minor robberies. Ages range from 17 to 27, and a fourth of them are married.

"We catch them at an age when they can change," says Leo Schmiege, assistant superintendent for classification and treatment. "Their habits are not ingrained; they have not become hardened and they don't have feelings of hostility yet."

The students have been carefully screened and tested for aptitude and attitude to make certain they will benefit from the schooling. Then they are sent into programs of their liking, either straight academic, vocational, part-time work or all three.

Informality pervades the school area, even to the lack of bells to signal class periods. Students live in low-slung dormitories and can earn their way with good behavior from the locked rooms of Spruce Hall to the honor system at Cedar Hall where they carry the keys to their own cells.

Area Concerts Numerous

By ROBERT SIMONTON
World Staff Writer

A glittering and well-proportioned evening of entertainment, featuring the music of Richard Rodgers, opened the Northeast Louisiana Concert series Monday.

If this is a sampling of productions to come during the season, the success of the series is certainly assured.

The only critical observation cannot be directed to the brilliant production directly, but rather at the students of Northeast Louisiana State College. A matinee performance of this program was cancelled because of lack of interest shown by students. This is an apparent indication of a "cultural lag" at the local college and one wonders what is found to fill the vacuum void of cultural enlightenment.

SYMPHONY OPENER

The Ruston Civic Symphony will be presented in concert at 3:30 p.m. today at the Louisiana Tech Student Center.

This will be the opening concert of the season and will feature selections ranging from Beethoven to Jerome Kern.

Memberships may be obtained at the event.

AUDITIONS SET

The Monroe Civic Singers have announced another audition session.

This time, the group is seeking interested sopranos and altos. The tryouts will be held from 7 until 9 p.m., Friday, Nov. 5, in the basement of the First Baptist Church here.

Auditions, to be informal, will be heard by Dennis Cooke, director; Mrs. Ernest Eubanks; and Miss Joanne Lay.

Monroe sopranos and altos 20 years of age and over are invited.

SEEK STREETCAR

The Louisiana Tourist Development Commission is searching for an old streetcar.

What in the world for?

The commission wants to use it for a proposed international mobile exhibit — "Streetcar Named Desire."

SHREVEPORT EVENTS

A matinee performance at 2:30 p.m. today is the final presentation of the Ice Capades at the State Fair in Shreveport.

Lynn Bari will star in a production of the Broadway hit, "Barefoot in the Park," at 8:15 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 8 and 9, at the Shreveport Civic Theatre.

And, if you're inclined, the Rolling Stones, British rock and roll group, will appear at the Hirsch Youth Center, Louisiana State Fair Grounds, Nov. 20.

HERE AND THERE

The great La Scala Opera Company's world-famed production of Puccini's "La Boheme" will be shown for four performances at the Paramont Theatre in Monroe on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 3 and 4 . . . Louisiana Tech's department of music has announced plans to present "The Mikado" on March 18 and 19 . . . The McNeese State College Concert series opens Thursday with a concert by Korean pianist Tong Il Han at 8:30 p.m. in McNeese Auditorium . . . Jose Molina Bailes Espanoles troupe will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Howard Auditorium to get the Louisiana Tech Concert Association series off to a rousing start . . .

COLETTE DAIUTE
. . . Miss Teenage America

Young Queen Stunned With Winning Title

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Colette Agnes Daiute, her dark eyes sparkling despite only three hours' sleep Friday night, admitted Saturday she was stunned when she won the Miss Tenn-Age America title.

"No, I really hadn't expected it," she said. "But when I made the finals I decided I was going to be real happy for whoever did win."

The tall, curvaceous 16-year-old said the congratulations from her home town of Paramus, N.J., and from New York City which she represented here were still arriving.

Saturday afternoon, Colette and two runners-up were guests of honor at the Southern Methodist-Texas University football game here. They are Cynthia Anne Byrum, 17, Charlotte, N.C., and Judy Jacob, 17, Southfield, Mich., but competing as Miss Detroit.

Colette said at a news conference she hoped to keep most of the students she teaches in baton twirling even though her schedule will be hectic this year. She has taken twirling, ballet and modern jazz dance lessons for up to seven years, and teaches professionally.

In answer to questions, Colette admitted that despite her dancing she has to watch her weight and exercises every night.

She dates but not steadily and is determined to use her $10,000 scholarship toward a degree in languages, eventually becoming an interpreter. She wants to marry and rear a family but no time soon.

After dancing until 2 a.m. at a coronation ball, Colette and her best friend, Marjorie Susan Sirgo, Miss Teen-Age New Orleans, spent the night together.

Monday Colette will go to Dearborn, Mich., to learn her responsibilities as national spokesman for an automobile firm's youth safety program. Misses Byrum and Jacob and another finalist, Linda Sullivan of Dallas, also will appear as teen-age highway safety spokesmen this year.

Colette also will choose her personal car — but under New Jersey law she won't be able to get behind the wheel until she turns 17 on Nov. 30.

Women's College Fund Drive Slated

A Monroe area drive to help raise $2,700,000 for Randolph-Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg, Va., will be launched here Saturday when local alumnae and other interested persons will attend the 75th anniversary dinner at 7 p.m. at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

The dinner will be one of 50 being held across the nation.

Speakers will include Dr. William Fletcher Quillian Jr., president of the college, and Mrs. Mary Stuard Wood of Tulsa, Okla., national vice chairman of the anniversary campaign.

Local co-chairmen for the drive will be Mrs. James Wade and Mrs. John Salisburg.

The two - year fund - raising campaign produced $2,182,755 of its goal during its first year. Randolph - Macon is now beginning construction of a library addition, completing plans for a chapel, installing new seating in its auditorium and boosting faculty salaries.

The main emphasis this year is upon funds for faculty salaries and student scholarships. Other objectives include a foreign studies center and a dramatics workshop.

Randolph-Macon, rated among America's ten best woman's colleges, was the first accredited women's college in the south and the first south of the Potomac to be awarded a Phi Beta Kappa charter.

The year - long anniversary celebration at the college will be culminated during Founders' Day Weekend, March 11-13, which includes a convocation address by Pearl Buck, an R-MWC alumna and a Nobel Prize winning author; a conference on education in international affairs; the opening of a one-man show of paintings by Ben Shahn; and a concert by the Esterhazy Orchestra, with Gerard Souzay, French baritone.

The school, founded in 1891 and opened in 1893 is a four-year, Methodist - related liberal arts college in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

RANKS EIGHTH

R-MWC ranks eighth among private colleges for women in the nation in alumnae listings in hte current edition of Who's Who in America and is among 21 colleges and universities of all types which have at least one of every 100 alumnae in the current edition of Who's Who of American Women.

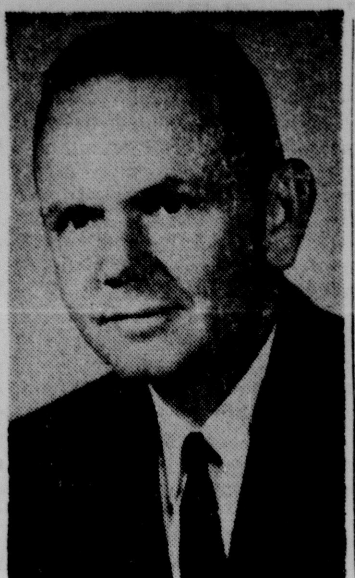
The featured speaker, Dr. Quillian, became president of the school in 1952. During his administration, the college's endowment and total assets have doubled, faculty salaries have increased more than 100 per cent and the percentage of faculty with Ph.D degrees has been raised from 38 to 60 per cent. Major improvements to the physical plant have included a physical education and recreation building and a dormitory. The latter addition will enable the school to boost its enrollment from 720 to 850.

He is past president of the Virginia Foundation for Independent Colleges, the Southern Association of Colleges for Women, and the Association of Virginia Colleges.

He is author of numerous articles for philosophical, religious, and educational journals. A book entitled, "The Moral Theory of Evoluntionary Naturalism," published by the Yale University Press in 1945, was written by him.

He is an ordained minister of the Methodist Church. Dr. Quillian belongs to a family of educators. His father was president of Wesleyan College in Georgia from 1920 to 1931. Two brothers-in-law now serve as college presidents and a cousin is dean of the school of theology at Southern Methodist University.

Dr. Quillian is married to the former Margaret Hannah Weigle, a Vassar graduate and the daughter of Dr. L. A. Weigle, dean emeritus of the Yale Divinity School. They have two sons and two daughters.



DR. WILLIAM F. Qullian Jr., president of Randolph-Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg, Va., will be the featured speaker at a fund-raising dinner scheduled Saturday night at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Klan Guardsmen Patrol Streets In River Town

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — A security guard of uniformed Ku-Klux Klansmen patrolled the streets of this racially-torn city Saturday as nearly 1,000 Negroes staged a protest march through the downtown section.

The 15-man security guard was wearing green uniforms with white web belts and helmets. They carried heavy flashlights, strapped to the belts.

"We're here to help keep the peace," Maj. Jack Seale, a commander of the KKK guard, said. "We don't want any trouble." He said they were there to protect Negro marchers from whites.

The guards carried walkie-talkie radios. The march from a downtown church to the Adams County courthouse was climaxed by a 20-minute prayer meeting with freedom songs. There were no incidents.

NAACP field secretary Charles Evers, of Jackson, said "we're going to walk until we can talk."

Cars with rebel flags fluttering from their antennas patrolled the streets. One car carried a sign saying "We fight Communists in Viet Nam, why not here?"

The United Klans of America, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, scheduled a march of their own to the courthouse later in the afternoon.

Mississippi Grand Dragon E. L. McDaniel said the march would be followed by a rally at a city-owned baseball park tonight.

'Once A Senator, Always A Candidate'

WASHINGTON (AP) —"Once a senator, always a candidate" seems to be the slogan of 34 Senate members whose seats will be at stake in the 1966 elections.

There may be a couple of dropouts, but nearly all of the 20 Democrats and 14 Republicans whose terms are expiring already are busy mending the fences at home in preparation for a battle at the polls for a new six-year lease on office.

Apparently there will be no voluntary retirements for the members who already have reached, or will reach before next Election Day, the Social Security landmark of 65.

Recent announcements by Sens. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., and Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., that they will seek re-election have emphasized that senators who are approaching it or already have passed it don't regard 70 as any age for quitting what they like doing.

Elender, who is 74, has made serving in the Senate a lifetime habit. He first showed up to claim his seat on Jan. 3, 1937.

Anderson didn't arrive until 1949, having had some Cabinet business to take care of earlier as secretary of agriculture under President Harry S Truman. Still, for him the senatorial habit is a strong one, too.

The Democrats, who bragged about the "youth movement" which brought several young men of their persuasion into the Senate in 1964, seem likely to have six candidates next year already in their 70s or who will reach that mark before the voters go to the polls.

Besides Anderson and Ellender, they include Sens. A. Willis Robertson of Virginia, 78; Pat McNamara of Michigan, 71; and B. Everett Jordan of North Carolina and John L. McClellan of Arkansas who will have their 70th birthdays next year. Paul H. Douglas of Illinois, 73, hasn't indicated whether he'll run again.

In contrast the only Republican in this age bracket likely to seek re-election is Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, 73.

Siege Of Plei Me One Of Worst Viet Cong Defeats

EDITOR'S NOTE — John T. Wheeler, an Associated Press war correspondent, joined a relief column that went to the besieged garrison at Plei Me. Here is his summary of that battle.

By JOHN T. WHEELER

PLEI ME, South Viet Nam (AP) — Pvt. Nguyen Xuan Trinh must have laughed as he dug his foxhole in the rain-softened red clay only 30 yards from the barbed wire perimeter of the Plei Me special forces camp.

Through the night air came the soft, sing-song voices of Vietnamese defenders and the occasional commands of American advisers.

Trinh and other members of his North Vietnamese regular army regiment were digging deep positions all around the camp. They set the scene for one of the epic battles of the Viet Nam war.

The regiment dug for two nights. They hauled the dirt into the jungle, pulled brush over the holes and hid and slept in the nearby jungle during the day.

By Tuesday morning, Oct. 19, the work was complete. More than 15 machine guns along with mortars were zeroed in on the special forces camp and its 250 defenders. Ten of them were Americans commanded by Capt. Harold M. Moore, 24, of Pekin, Ill.

Trinh knew his regiment's attack would bring a government relief force from Pleiku, 25 miles to the north and 235 miles north of Saigon.

As the time for attack drew near, elements of a second North Vietnamese regimnet began digging holes for a massive ambush of the relief column.

Trinh did not know that months of planning and laborious carrying of equipment and arms and ammunition through the jungle would end in one of the worst defeats for the Viet Cong.

Trinh's last entry in his diary was Oct. 21. His body was found after the week-long battle in a bomb crater outside the camp.

American officers estimated 750 Viet Cong had been killed. More than 300 weapons, including dozens of heavy and light machine guns and automatic weapons, had been captured.

Government forces suffered only a small fraction of the Communist toll of dead and wounded.

But the future was unknown to both sides the night of Oct. 19 when a small special forces ambush patrol ran into one element of the North Vietnamese regiment and fled when the size of the enemy force became apparent.

The camp gates were locked quickly and Americans and Vietnamese defenders dived into bunkers and slit trenches. Mortar rounds already were crashing into the camp. The battle was on.

Flights of American jets began a series of napalm, bombing and strafing runs that were to last eight days.

The Communists apparently felt they were fairly well protected, since they had massed a large concentration of antiaircraft machine guns.

They shot down two American jets, two propeller-driven Skyraiders and one armed Army helicopter. Sixteen other American planes suffered major damage.

Each time the planes swept in low, arcs of tracers rose to meet them. The Communists did not dive into their holes but kept up the fire as long as the planes were in range.

But the bombers exacted a heavy toll. Napalm splashed along the barbed wire outer defenses during Communist attacks and 500 and 1,000-pound bombs turned huge segments of jungle into wasteland.

The entrenched Communists kept up the pressure knowing that the ambush of the relief force soon would come.

Two companies of airborne rangers led by a gravel-voiced American major managed to slip into the camp as reinforcements.

Maj. Charles A. Beckwith of Atlanta, Ga., said he never expected to get his men through the jungle and into the gate. But he did. He credited American air power with saving the camp.

In Pleiku, Vietnamese and American officers formed the relief force of two infantry battalions, two howitzers and a platoon each of tanks and armored personnel carriers.

The Plei Me action clearly was following the pattern of the battle for Duc Co, another special forces camp. The relief column was ambushed and took heavy casualties in the Duc Co action.

This time things were different. Intelligence had pinpointed the ambush site about five miles outside Plei Me along the rutted dirt road.

Sub. Brig. Gen. Vinh Loc, 2nd Army Corps commander, committed the last of his reserves to the relief operation and a brigade of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division was called in to replace them.

Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23, the armored column moved out and the 22nd Vietnamese Rangers were lifted by helicopter to outflank the ambush site.

When the first armored personnel carrier nosed over the rim of a hill one mile from the site, the American adviser riding in it recalls he said, "Well, this is it. Now we'll see who gets waxed."

The tanks carried canister rounds, the equivalent of grape shot, loaded in their cannon.

The ambush exploded near the head of the column first, and the tanks fired round after round into the underbrush as fast as the sweating crews could load their weapons.

U.S. jets appeared and began bombing and strafing the ambush site, but not before the rear of the column 2½ miles from the armor, was surrounded. Two companies of infantry guarding the howitzers scattered. Both guns were damaged and eight trucks were destroyed or damaged.

Survivors dug in for the night as the armor drew up a perimeter. A major Viet Cong push at 3 a.m. faltered and then was hurled back with heavy casualties on the enemy side.

At dawn, the column counterattacked and overran the North Vietnamese positions. Some of the Communist troops were ground under the treads of the column's vehicles.

By Monday morning, the column was reformed, the dead and wounded were evacuated by helicopter and the way was clear for the final scene of the battle for Plei Me.

Artillery of the U.S. 1st Cavalry walked a continuous barrage in front of the column until it reached Plei Me Monday night. Inside the camp, the relief force and the battle weary defenders exchanged salutes and shook hands. There were whoops of delight.

The smell of death in the camp, where bodies wrapped in ponchos awaited helicopters to take them out, was almost unnoticed in the elation.

But the North Vietnamese weren't through. They continued to mortar the base during the night and to rake the camp with machine guns. The main infantry force was pulled out to the west toward Cambodia while one last ambush was set.

In the quiet of the next day, Tuesday, Oct. 26, the armor and an infantry force pushed slowly south on a clearing operation while the camp defenders went out to count the enemy dead.

A reception for a Vietnamese general and other officials from Pleiku was prepared for the afternoon.

Shortly before the group was to arrive, heavy firing broke out in the direction the armor had taken. Machine guns sliced down the infantry which retreated, followed by the tanks and personnel carriers.

At the same time, guns still overlooking the camp opened up. They had remained silent when the armor passed by. More men died in the camp and the armor streamed back with dead and wounded covering the tops of the vehicles.

More Americans were among the casualties.

The decision finally was made to commit U.S. infantry and the next morning helicopters began pouring 1st Cavalry troops into Plei Me. They immediately began sweeping to the south and west of the camp.

But the Viet Cong forces had pulled out. It was one of their worst defeats of the war.

Soviets Begin Test Of Huge Space Rockets

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union begins a two-month series of tests Sunday of huge space rockets. The rockets will hurtle 7,500 miles toward an 80-mile-wide watery bullseye in the Pacific west of Hawaii.

The tests, announced Friday night, are scheduled to last until Dec. 30. The second this month, they will feature a "new modification of a space vehicle booster."

The Soviet news agency Tass said the firings would be held "for the purpose of further exploration of outer space and to accumulate experimental data."

The Russians have admitted that past Pacific Ocean rockets with a similar 7,500-mile range have had ICBM atomic warhead capability.

The Tass announcement indicated that if the firings succeed the rockets could be used to put future Soviet spacemen into orbit.

Tass said the rockets would be aimed at an 80-mile-wide circle located at 19 degrees 8 minutes north latitude and 178 degrees 46 minutes west longitude.

It urged all planes and ships to stay out of the area between noon and midnight, local time, between Sunday and Dec. 30.

This put the bullseye about 1,400 miles west of Honolulu, northwest of the Soviet's last Pacific tests which ran from July 18 to Oct. 12 and were acclaimed by the Soviets as having achieved "high precision."

Open House Set At Homer Day Care Center

HOMER (Special) — Open house will be held at the Claiborne Day Care Center, near Homer, today from 3 to 5 P.M. The center is operated by the Claiborne Assn. for Retarded Children. George Tigner is president of the Claiborne Parish Association Mentally Retarded Inc.

It is located about four miles south of Homer about a quarter mile off the Athens highway. It is on the southern edge of the North Louisiana Hill Experiment station property. Signs will be posted on the Homer - Athens highway to direct traffic at the proper turn.

An appropriation of $7,500 to operate the center was made in December 1964, by the Louisiana Department of Hospitals. Class opened January 4, 1965, with Mrs. Kenneth Dean the teacher. Mrs. Dean is presently instructing four students.

The school operates on a schedule similar to that followed by public schools, Tigner said.

Claiborne parish citizens have been contacted by the Department of Hospitals in regard to a regional meeting on mental problems to be held in Shreveport December 7.

Tigner has been named chairman for Claiborne Parish and has been informed that all seven parishes in the region will report on problems relative to the handicap of mental retardation.

Fraud Trial Headed Toward Conclusion

CHICAGO (AP) —After nearly seven months of testimony, the trial of four men accused of fraud and conspiracy in the promotion and distribution of Krebiozen appears headed toward conclusion.

While interest among the general public may have waned during the long, drawn-out court proceedings, thousands of cancer sufferers throughout the nation continue to watch developments with avid interest.

Krebiozen, brought to the United States in 1950 by its discoverer and since used on an experimental basis, is a substance which its promoters contend is beneficial in controlling cancerous growths.

But the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, after laboratory tests of samples, has declared it worthless in treating cancer and has banned it from interstate commerce.

Long and bitter controversy between the drug's promoters, the American Medical Association and the government resulted in the current trial.

All of the defendants are charged with conspiracy, mail fraud, mislabeling and giving false information to the government.

The chief defendants are Dr. Stevan Durovic, 60, the drug's discoverer, and Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, 73, physiologist and former vice president of the University of Illinois.

The other defendants are Marko Durovic, 64, a lawyer, brother of Stevan and a financial backer of the drug, and Dr. William F. P. Phillips, 52, a general practioner who prescribed and administered Krebiozen.

A jury of seven women and five men, none with medical backgrounds, has been hearing evidence—much of it highly technical—since April 28 in the U.S. District Court of Judge Julius Hoffman.

They have heard prosecutors describe the promotion of Krebiozen as a profit-making venture and defense lawyers hail the drug as probably "the discovery of the century."

Referring to the conspiracy charge, defense counsel charged early in the trial that the real conspiracy was "between certain people in the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and a nationally recognized medical association to scuttle and defame" the drug.

The American Medical Association as well as the Food and Drug Administration, a part of HEW, has held Krebiozen to be of no value in reating cancer.

SPANISH DANCERS will be featured in this number entitled "Fiesta de los Pescadores," which is a highlight of the Jose Molina Bailes Espanoles to be presented as the initial offering of the Louisiana Tech Concert Association season at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Howard Auditorium. A Tech student performance will be given at 2:45 p.m. Jose Molina and troupe have been acclaimed as the reigning favorite among touring Spanish song-and-dance companies.

Concert Series Opening At Tech

A spirited production with the vitality and brilliance that spells Spain will open the Louisiana Tech Concert Association series Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Howard Auditorium.

The Jose Molina Bailes Espanoles has been acclaimed the reigning favorite among touring Spanish song-and-dance troupes by audiences and critics throughout the United States.

The colorful and exciting production is exclusively for members of the Tech Concert Association at the evening performance, and a student membership presentation will be given at 2:45 p.m., according to Prof. L. V. E. Irvine, chairman.

Featured in the beautiful two-hour show will be songs and dances of the Spanish provinces, the court of Charles III, Spanish operas and ballets, and from the gypsy camps of Andalucia.

The unusually handsome and talented company of young Spanish dancers, singers and instrumentalists offer a glittering program so stunningly staged and lavishly costumed it never fails to bring ovations and encores.

The $80,000 wardrobe of costumes is created new each summer in Spain and is unquestionable the most opulent to be seen on any stage in America today.

Musical accompaniment is provided by piano and two of Spains foremost guitarists.

Bailes Espanoles avoids the tiresome foot - stomping, heel-clicking and castinet-smacking performances with which American audiences have been subjected for so many years and instead offers a fresh and pure production representative of the entire gamut of Spanish dance.

Jose Molina has a remarkable record of forty-weeks of touring — the longest played by any dance company in the history of American show business.

Two Students Indicted For Maiming Boy

DENTON, Tex. (UPI) —Two young men were under indictment for maiming Saturday and a third youth for aggravated assault. Beatings of three fellow students at North Texas State University led to expulsion of all three plus a fourth student who was not indicted.

The grand jury returned indictments of maiming yesterday against Robert Harold Glenn, 22, of McKinney and Ernie Bovio, 19, of Galveston. Another indictment charged Byron McClellan, 22, of Gatesville with aggravated assault causing serious bodily harm.

The three defendants remained free on bond they had made earlier after their arrest.

Michael Portmand, 19, of Dallas, was beaten when he opened the door of his apartment early this month. He said four young men beat him and hit him with a bottle. His left eye was so severely damaged that it had to be removed by doctors.

Two other youths were hurt, less seriously.

Dist. Atty. Johnny Lawhon said he expects the trial to be sometime in November.

The beatings brought about the activities suspension of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity at North Texas State.

Yousuf Resigns

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI))—Doctor Mohammad Yousuf has resigned as Afghanistan's prime minister for what a royal proclamation called "health reasons." King Mohammad Zahir accepted the resignation and asked former Press and Information Minister Mohammad Hashim Maiwandwal to form a new cabinet. It was believed Yousuf resigned due to public resentment following the killing of eight student demonstrators by police.

'Satchmo' Visits Old Home Town Of New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The living legend of jazz, his chops well-oiled, makes a stylish visit back to his old home town today.

A bushel basket of honors await Louis Daniel Armstrong — not to mention a brass band to greet him at the airport.

At Satchmo's request, lunch will be a regional delicacy called red beans and rice. And, for snacks after the concert, "po' boy" sandwiches, the New Orleans version of New York's hero.

The flying trip from Houston is to play a midafternoon benefit for the New Orleans Jazz Museum.

"It has been a fabulous thing for us," said former New Orleans Jazz Club President Harry Souchon. "The only trouble is, everybody wants to do something for him and we've had to hold it down. He must get some rest."

New Orleans has always been fond of "Satchmo," the Negro waif who learned to blow the horn in a home for delinquent boys and went on to become a world fame jazz genius.

At the age of 65, Armstrong's lips bear the scars of countless hours on the trumpet. He rubs them frequently with a mixture of witch hazel, oils and salts.

"Gotta take care of those chops — that's the secret," he growls.

The nine-hour visit will include a private meeting with jazz museum officials.

Armstrong, whose career stretches back to the days when Dixieland was fermenting in Storyville, is a major figure in the museum. Exhibits include his first bugle and first cornet.

The bugle was supplied to Armstrong by the Colored Waifs' Home, where he was sent for one year after enlivening a New Year's Eve at the age of 11 by firing off a revolver.

The Armstrong talent was so overpowering the superintendent of the home, which no longer exists, came up with a cornet. And the waif was on his way.

Though he talks of the old home town with nostalgia, Armstrong doesn't get back very often.

The last time he spent much time here was in 1949, when he reigned as "King Zulu," monarch of a Mardi Gras Negro organization which has fallen upon slim days in recent years due to criticism by Negro civil rights forces.

As America's unofficial ambassador of jazz on his foreign tours, Armstrong continues to avoid politics, foreign or domestic.

"I don't know about politics or other things," he once explained. "Folks have to be talking about music to interest me. There's only two kinds — good or bad, no matter where in the world you are."

Gang Fight By Negroes Leaves 1 Dead, 2 Hurt

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — A Negro gang fight after a rock and roll show at city auditorium Friday night left one youth dead and two others wounded, police said Saturday.

Fatally shot was 19-year-old James Donald. He had a .22 caliber bullet wound in his chest.

Frizell Keeton, 18, was shot once in the leg and Theodore Nelson, 17, was stabbed in the back.

Detective Vernon Cross said the argument between about 10 Negro youths started inside the multi - million - dollar auditorium while the performers were playing before a predominantly Negro audience. City police broke it up.

Later, after the show ended, the fight was renewed outside. More joined in the dispute.

Witnesses told police one Negro drew a pistol, pointed it at Donald, Frizell and another youth and a fight began for possession of the gun. Two shots were fired.

Resignation Asked In Fraud

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag asked Minnesota Insurance Commissioner Cyrus E. Magnusson to resign Saturday, one day after Magnusson and 16 other persons were indicted for fraud by a federal grand jury probing an insurance scheme.

In a letter delivered to Magnusson's home by a member of the governor's staff, Rolvaag said:

"I make this request because it is imperative that public confidence in all matters pertaining to insurance be restored. In my considered judgment, your continued presence as commissioner of insurance can no longer effectively serve that highly desired goal."

Rolvaag said in the letter he is making no prejudgment of the charges against Magnusson.

The letter said the governor seeks the "immediate resignation" of Magnusson, 61.

There was no immediate reaction from Magnusson, who had declared Friday he was "astonished" by the charges and felt they were based on misunderstandings.

The grand jury returned an 11-count indictment against Magnusson and the other men, all allegedly linked to the collapse of an insurance empire under the control of Philip Kitzer Sr. of Chicago and his sons, Philip Jr. and Joseph.

Magnusson was appointed in 1959 by former Gov. Orville L. Freeman and was reappointed to a six-year term by Rolvaag.

Richmond Flowers Victim Of Assault

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, an outspoken moderate on the racial issue and frequent critic of Gov. George E. Wallace, is nursing a sore jaw and some loosened teeth Saturday, after being slugged at a football game.

Flowers reported that he was the victim of a hit-and-run fist attack by two young men as he left the Dothan-Lee high school game Friday night.

The tall red-haired attorney general, his speech slightly slurred by a cut and swollen jaw, related the following events:

He, his brother Dr. Paul Flowers of Dothan, Ala., and Dr. Flower's wife had left the game and headed toward the exit, when a man between 20 and 25 years of age emerged from the crowd, called him by name, and extended a hand.

Flowers extended his own hand. The young man suddenly grasped the attorney general's hand in both of his, and another man stepped up beside Flowers and sent a fist crashing into his jaw.

"It hit right on the button," Flowers said. "I was out on my feet for a few seconds, staggering backwards."

He said that the man who had grabbed his hand "said something like 'Who was that? Why did he do that?' Then dropped my hand and ran into the crowd knocking people aside."

Flowers said he was "addled for about 20 minutes" by the attack which he did not report to the police.

Flowers, who recently acted as prosecutor in the murder trial of a Ku Klux Klansman in Lowndes County for the slaying of a white civil rights worker, Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit, declined to speculate on the reason for the attack.

However, he speculated that his assailants had planned it in advance.

Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-NH, said after a visit to Alabama that the killing of civil rights worker Jonathan Daniels was a wanton slaying. But he added that he is convinced, after a talk with Flowers and Gov. Wallace, that law and order have not broken down in the state.

McIntyre visited the state to consider the possibility of federal legislation covering crimes against civil rights workers.

Daniels, an Episcopal seminary student from Keene, N.H., was shot fatally at Hayneville, Ala., and a part-time deputy sheriff, was acquitted of the slaying.

"What the solution is I can't say," McIntyre said. "We can't legislate on the minds of men."

"The big thing I take away," the senator said, "is that this is a wanton slaying."

"I still can't get over the guy with the shotgun in the middle of town," McIntyre said in reference to Coleman. "The attitude of the community sanctions people running around with pistols and shotguns in the middle of day because of what they call tension. I see nothing in the whole situation that involved tension in which a man could have been shot down in the middle of the day."

Vote Scheduled For Selection Of College Beauty

Northeast Louisiana State College students will elect 15 finalists in the competition for the "Miss Chacahoula" title at the College Monday.

Miss Chacahoula, to be featured in the 1966 edition of the college yearbook, the Chacahoula, will be selected by judges from the 15 finalists in a reception Nov. 13, along with four runnersup.

Students will be voting on the finalists for the first time this year. Previously all candidates were judged at the annual Miss Chacahoula reception but the rising number of candidates prompted the yearbook staff to ask the student body to select finalist by ballot, according to Suehanna Richmond, yearbook editor.

The voting Monday will be held from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the trophy room of the College Union Building. Each voter will vote for 15 of the 41 candidates in the running for the title.

Last year's Miss Chacahoula was Sara Lewis of West Monroe.

What's in it for ME?

"I live in the city. I'm not a member-owner of a Rural Electric Cooperative . . . don't use their electricity. What do they mean to me?"

They mean a great deal to you, friend. They enable farmers to produce more, better and cheaper food and fibre. Their members buy one-billion dollars worth of appliances every year from home-town merchants, like yourself. Here in Louisiana, they provide a broader base for industrial growth and the total economic development of both town and country.

Serving areas nobody else would serve, Electric Co-ops have opened countless new horizons and opportunities for businessmen, new jobs, recreational facilities, etc.

And, very important to you, these non-profit rural service institutions offer the only tiny spark of healthy competition (by example) in a monopolistic industry. They provide the only effective yardstick to assure low electric rates — in both town and country.

In short, everybody benefits from home-owned and managed Electric Cooperatives.

NATIONAL AERONAUTICS and Space Administration astronaut Donn F. Eisele, U.S. Air Force Major, checks out the interior of the Gemini Procedures Trainer at the Mission Control Center at Cape Kennedy, Fla. Maj. Eisele will be one of the speakers at the Fifth Regional Aerospace Education Symposium at Louisiana Tech, Nov. 4-5. The symposium will be open to students and teachers in the Ark-La-Miss and Texas area. Top speaker will be Chris Kraft, NASA's Gemini flight director.

Astronaut To Be At Tech For Aerospace Symposium

Donn F. Eisele, U. S. Air Force Major and a National Aeronautics and Space Administration astronaut, will be among the NASA dignitaries scheduled to appear at the Fifth Regional Aerospace Education Symposium at Louisiana Tech, Nov. 4-5.

Maj. Eisele, 35, was named one of the third group of astronauts chosen by NASA in October, 1963. In addition to participation in the overall astronaut training program, he has duties including monitoring the Apollo Command and Service and the Lunar Excursion Modules.

He had logged more than 2,900 hours flying time, including more than 2,500 hours in jet aircraft.

During the two - day symposium at Tech, illustrated lectures will be presented by some of the nation's foremost space scientists.

Included in the subjects to be discussed are bioastronautics, rockets and rocket propellants, guidance and navigation systems, lasers for communications, test and evaluation facilities for space flight, systems engineering, Project Gemini, Project Apollo, space age education challenges, scientific literacy and peaceful and military applications of space probes.

Achievement Rewards for College Scientists Foundation of Houston, Tex., is the group which is sponsoring college students and professors from colleges in the Houston area to attend the space symposium.

OPEN TODAY

Space age exhibits will be open to the general public at no charge for admission. The exhibits will be located at several points on the Tech campus and are open for inspection today through Nov. 7.

Educators, education administrators and students and parents may also register for attendance. Students and teachers will be given certificates of enrollment for the time they attend lectures. They will be mailed to registrants after the symposium.

MAJ. DONN EISELE

College officials have said that due to the limited space, they will be unable to accommodate symposium registrants on the campus overnight. Overnight visitors will be required to make arrangements at hotels and motels in Ruston and Monroe. Information about accommodations can be obtained from Lt. Col. D. S. McClellan at Tech.

N. W. deBerardinis, public relations director of The Shreveport Times, a vice president of the Air Force Association which is one of the sponsoring agencies of the symposium, was named "Man of the Year" for the AF Assn., in 1963 for his activities in the space education programs. He is also a Trustee for the Aerospace Education Foundation.

Grover Trammell of the Tech faculty, heads up the College Symposium Committee while assistant chairman of the committee is Col. Jefferson Kidd and others on the college committee are Charles Killgore, Lt. Col. D. S. McClellan, Lt. Col. Fay Glen Adams, Dr. P. B. Mosely, Dean S. X. Lewis, Kenneth Hewins, Dr. Roland Abegg and W. H. Bernard.

A main attraction at the two-day conclave wil be the appearance and speech of Chris Kraft, NASA's Gemini flight director. His lecture will be the main event of Nov. 5 at the symposium.

Spacemobile Set As Attraction At Symposium

RUSTON (Special) — Among the attractions at the Aerospace Education Symposium at Louisiana Tech Thursday and Friday will be a Spacemobile from the Marshall Space Flight Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Huntsville, Ala.

The Spacemobile panel truck is scheduled to arrive in Ruston Friday, according to Richard B. Pratt, chief of the educational liaison branch of the public affairs office at Huntsville.

Several experiments are used during demonstration lectures accompanying the NASA Spacemobile. Speakers trace the development of rockets and explain how certain principles were recognized as physical laws by Isaac Newton and others. Equipment is used to show a satellite in orbit, to explain forces acting upon the electrical power in space.

The Spacemobile lecturers for the Tech appearance will be William A. Lockard, II, assisted by William McGann.

Lockard received a B. S. degree from Madison College in Harrisonburg, Va., and served in World War II with the Marines, where he became acquainted with aircraft technology. He has graduate credit from Louisiana State University, Indiana University and Arizona University. He is listed as a science education specialist in the Spacemobile program.

McGann obtained a B. S. degree from Frostburg State Teachers College of Maryland and has done graduate work at the University of Maryland. During the past few years, he has taught mathematics in junior high schools in Maryland. He also is a science education specialist in the Spacemobile program.

The AES program at Tech will be the second of the regional programs held here. The first was conducted in 1961. Outstanding speakers in the field of aeronautics and allied areas from various parts of the United States are scheduled for the two - day meeting.

Seas Claim 2 More Of Cuba's Refugees

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)— Treacherous seas in the Florida Straits claimed the lives of two more Cubans Saturday and bottled up a fleet of more than 200 small boats waiting to bring refugees to freedom.

A Nicaraguan coastal freighter docked at Miami carrying two survivors of a small boat and the body of the wife of one of the men.

The men said another man had apparently gone down when their small boat foundered while racing to reach Cuba before a deadline set by Fidel Castro.

Five other Cubans have died in the disorganized refugee exodus.

Eight-foot seas driven by northeast winds up to 30 miles an hour lashed the straits between Cuba and the Florida Keys. Small craft warnings were up.

Two boats carrying a total of 43 refugees reached Key West early in the day, but the Coast Guard reported there were no more boats en route across the spume-blown gulfstream.

An announcement was expected at any time that the United States and Cuban governments had reached an agreement on a plan for airlifting refugees off the Communist Island.

This would bring to an end the rag-tag shuttle of small boats across the dangerous straits.

The airlift would bring out about 3,000 to 4,000 refugees a month.

So far, the small boats have brought around 2,400 refugees out of Cuba since Castro opened the doors Oct. 7. The latest estimate was that about 225 small boats were jammed into the embarkation port at Camarioca as of Friday waiting to make the voyage to freedom.

Hill 22—Site Of Vicious Fight

(EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI correspondent Martin Stuart-Fox and UPI photographer Dirck Halstead watched the fighting at a Marine outpost early Saturday from Da Nang and at dawn were the first newsmen allowed to go to Hill 22 — the scene of the battle. Here is their story).

By MARTIN STUART-FOX

DA NANG, VIET NAM (UPI) —Dawn was just breaking as we arrived on Hill 22. It was littered with bodies. Less than two hours before it had been the scene of one of the most vicious battles of the war for U.S. Marines.

The Viet Cong had pulled out, dragging many of their dead comrades along with meat hooks.

With daylight came the Air Force and Marine warplanes. Less than a half mile away, rockets streaked down, bombs exploded and machineguns chattered. Some of the guerrillas were not fast enough and had been caught before they reached protective jungle cover.

The Viet Cong came close to overrunning the outpost where Alpha company of the 1st battalion, 1st Marine division had dug in five weeks ago. For a time, the Marines were fighting hand to hand — outnumbered about four to one.

"It was so dark you couldn't see a d— thing other than the flash of weapons." said 1st Lt. Frank C. Soltz of Pottsville, Pa., commander of the third platoon.

It was his platoon that the Viet Cong hit first as they swarmed up the hill over the stones and above-ground coffins of a Vietnamese graveyard.

The attack started at 2:20 a.m.

"I had just checked the line," Stolz recalled. "One Marine in each position was awake. They buddy up and one sleeps while the other stays awake. It started with a 3.5 inch rocket that hit the command post. The rocket went in one wall of the tent and out the other side.

"Then the mortars came in. The Viet Cong had infiltrated the area from the northwest and then swung around south and attacked the hill with automatic and small arms fire. They made no noise at all, but those that were hit, you could hear moaning."

Within minutes the fight had spread throughout the camp, even into the tents on top of the hill where minutes before Marines had been sleeping.

Hill 22 is about 10 miles from the Da Nang airbase. Two nights ago suicide squads of Viet Cong destroyed or damaged 40 helicopters at a Marine field near Monkey Mountain just outside of Da Nang.

The hill is the farthest outpost assigned to protect the base from attack. Just one mile to the west is another hill occupied by Mike Company. When the attack started the Communist lobbed mortars at Mike Company to pin it down while they stormed Hill 22.

The mortars and a number of 57 mm recoilless rifles opened up from Duyen Son No. 2, a thatched-hut village of about two dozen structures located one-half mile to the southwest.

Between the village and the hill are rice paddies —some with ripened rice and others with stubble where it has recently been harvested. It was through these paddies that the Viet Cong attackers moved quietly — hardly making the water ripple.

The guerrillas moved in from the south, up the 40-foot-high hill, attacking the third platoon. One of the platoon's ambush positions was overrun with every man a casualty.

Mortars and recoilless rifles from other sides opened up.

"It looked like the officers' tent and the command bunker was the number one target," Stolz said. "When they hit, I yelled 'That's it' and ran to the communications bunker to get in my listening post of four men and contact my squad leaders. But the lines were all down."

As the Viet Cong moved past some of the third platoon positions, others set up machineguns by a two-foot high rock wall half-way up the hill and laid down a devastating field of fire. Other guerrillas drove on toward the Marine ammunition dump where crates of ammunition and small arms and bullets and grenades were stacked.

They smashed open the crates and handed the weapons and ammunition and grenades around.

Forward they went in waves. The first rank carried grenades and meat hooks. They hurled the grenades and then fell to the ground. The second rank fired automatic weapons and rifles over the heads of the first rank and advanced. The first rank then looked for Viet Cong bodies, speared their fallen comrades with the hooks and dragged them off.

By the time the Marines regrouped around their tents on top of the hill and the half-buried sandbagged command bunker, the Viet Cong was using more of the Marine fragmentation grenades than anything.

A Vietnamese interpreter attached to the Marines was in one of the tents with six Marines. He heard some of the Viet Cong calling back for more grenades.

"Come on in here," he called. "We've got plenty here."

About a dozen of the Viet Cong ran toward the tent . . . and into a murderous hail of fire from behind the tent flaps that killed every one of them.

Capt. Jack Mitchell of Fort Collins, Colo., company commander, was asleep when the first mortars hit. He rolled out of bed and called the command bunker.

"It seemed to me that mortars, automatic weapon fire and grenades were coming in all around us," Mitchell said. "My first concern was to get illumination into the air so my men could see where to shoot and who to shoot. The situation at the time was confused. When we got the flares, we returned the fire with good effect.

"It was the guys with the rifles that did the most damage and they were the ones who bore the brunt of the attack in the initial stages. They reacted pretty damned well . . . as good as you could possibly expect them to react. They did an outstanding job. It was a wild, wild situation."

Explosion Rips Colombian Town

CARTAGENA, Colombia (AP) — At least 50 persons were killed and more than 200 injured Saturday when powder for fireworks exploded in Cartagena's covered central market.

Police said the death toll may go much higher since "there are more dead under the debris than in the morgues or hospitals."

A fire touched off the powder which had been collected in the market by fireworks manufacturers preparing for Independence Day celebrations Nov. 11.

The great market building was destroyed. It included many shops and stalls under its roof.

Radio stations issued urgent appeals for blood donors.

The Man Behind THE CHANT

FAMILY GROUP of Hamiltons shown in the West Monroe home looking over auctioneering mementos are, from left, Ginny, 12, Sara, 18, Ike Hamilton, Hank, 16, and Mrs. Hamilton. Although Hamilton spends a great deal of time on the road and appearing at sales, he relaxes with his family at their home at 2025 Hicks St. whenever the opportunity arrives.

The rapid - fire language of the auctioneer is a special art in which a West Monroyan has excelled to the point where his services are in demand in many states. Here is the story behind the colorful career of Ike Hamilton.

By ROBERT SIMONTON
Staff Writer

"Auction cried by Hamilton."

This phrase has become familiar to folks all over the United States who are interested in live stock auctioneering and it refers to a dynamic and intense Ike Hamilton of West Monroe.

His colorful and successful career in the auctioneer's box has won him the admiration and respect of thousands, many unaware that an unfortunate accident resulted in his entering this profession.

Isaac Henry Hamilton, born, raised and educated in West Monroe, had been a rodeo clown for eight years. In 1936, his leg was broken while riding a Brahma bull at a rodeo in Florence, Ala. His attention was then forced in other directions, but his love for rodeo life kept him fairly close to that vocation.

Why did he become a rodeo clown?

"Well, it was during the depression years and I needed work. West Monroe has had a long history of rodeos and was one of the first towns in the nation outside the West to hold the annual roundup spectacles. Boys in the area were just naturally interested in horses and rodeos. I tried riding, but couldn't do that very well. So I decided to become a clown."

RODEO CLOWN was Ike Hamilton's first job — and his first love. He appeared at many rodeos in the area and southeastern United States until an accident forced him to consider another vocation.

After the injury, he was out of circulation for awhile, but Clifford Benson, a West Monroe auctioneer, gave him encouragement and the needed inspiration. Benson taught him the art of auctioneering and invited him to some of the area sales just for an outing.

NEW VENTURE

For two years, Ike Hamilton sold peanuts in the winter and frozen bars in the summer. All of this time, he hobbled about the rodeos and sales with a cast on his leg.

Soon, auctioneering got as deeply into his blood as rodeo life had done and he embarked with dedication upon his new venture.

This was in 1938. For about 15 years, his work was confined mainly to Northeast Louisiana, where he made five or six sales a week. Travel in those days averaged about 1,000 miles a week.

His reputation gradually caught on and in the past five years he has traveled extensively via the demanding auction circuit.

"Publicity and word of mouth have helped my reputation," Hamilton says rather humbly. "Then my friends have given me a good boost."

These factors have been helpful no doubt, but long and hard work must be attributed with the magic "Ike Hamilton" now holds in his field. In fact, diligence has followed him through life: As a boy in West Monroe he delivered Monroe News-Stars on horseback.

Many people favored with good fortune have set formulas for success. Ike Hamilton simply has a profound faith in his fellow - man and his keen insight, understanding of people and contagious zest for life are his trademarks of character.

In 1964, he traveled between 100,000 and 125,000 miles and will travel more than that this year. He handled about 100 auctions in 1964.

About half of his travel is done by plane, the rest by automobile.

TRAVEL HABIT

"One gets into the habit of traveling," he said when asked if he likes his frequent jaunts to places far and near. "Scheduling is pretty complicated so one has to be a good travel agent in order to keep places and dates straight."

A recent typical Hamilton tour: Sept. 11 — Crockett, Tex.; Sept. 13 — Lenapah, Okla.; Sept. 15 — Stockport, Iowa; Sept. 18 — Houston, Tex.; Sept. 20 — Amarillo, Tex. On a Thursday he might be at Winston - Salem, N. C. and Friday in Houston, Tex.; or in Warrington, Va. on a Friday and in Dallas, Tex. on a Sunday.

When asked to name states in which he'd auctioned, he rattled off — "California, Nevada, Iowa, Virginia, Washington, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and, of course, Louisiana." But this is just an idea of states where he has gone to add his special talents to the proceedings.

Hamilton already has dates all through next year and tentative dates for 1967.

A typical auction? Well, most of them have similarities. Perhaps one that was not so typical was a horse auction held in September at the Rex Cauble Ranch near Crockett, Tex. There were 1,500 people present and it was somewhat of a social event — private planes lined a nearby airstrip and cadillacs jammed the corral. Hamilton slammed down his gavel on the rostrum, began his lightning chant, and in less than two hours 44 horses had been sold. That's an average of one horse sold in about every three minutes!

Another not so typical auction was the James E. Kemp Dispersion Sale held last week at Dallas. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton attended the affair, where he sold $578,995 in horses and $250,000 in land. One thoroughbred horse brought the top price of $46,000.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 people thronged about the auction box, where Hamilton held forth. Mrs. Hamilton said the entire event was "absolutely fascinating" and that at the very end, people bid in frenzy upon almost anything and the prices soared.

LOOK AT AMERICANA

"Auctioneering gives a person a real look at Americana," Hamilton notes. "People of all types and from all stations in life attend auctions and sales." He was quick to add that people all over are basically the same and they have been very kind to him.

Just what does a master auctioneer sell?

Hamilton's sales include quarter horses, Angus bulls, Brahmas, Herefords, dairy cattle, market sales, thoroughbreds, farm machinery, real estate and heavy equipment.

He has sold small items for as little as 50 cents and horses for as much as $46,000.

He has handled livestock shows at Delhi, Shreveport, Baton Rouge, Ft. Worth, El Paso, San Antonio, Houston, at the Texas State Fair at Dallas, Mississippi State Fair at Jackson, and Louisiana State Fair at Shreveport. He appeared at the State Fair at Shreveport last week and will appear at the International Livestock Show at Chicago.

He is a partner in the Bastrop Livestock Auction with T. P. Kelly and W. T. Carpenter and also the DeMent Auction Company of Indianola, Miss. and is associated with the Clark Livestock Auction at Bossier City.

AUCTION CHANT

What about that fascinating chant, the rapid - fire language used during an auction. Hamilton said it is merely rapid repetition of the bid you are calling for and the price you want, with use of filler words at a fast clip. He gave a sample of a chant and it seemed incomprehensible until he slowed it down and indicated what he was doing. However, on the auction circuit the chant is as familiar as everyday language.

Sometimes people actually bid on items they do not want. The auctioneer usually just laughs it off and goes on. Hamilton told of a lady who waved across the audience at a friend.

"Lady, were you bidding?"

"No."

"Well, you've just helped raise the price anyway." Hamilton chuckled and then reverted to his sales pitch.

He also told of the 1964 Pan American Livestock Show held in Texas. Two-thirds of the people there were foreigners. They needed interpreters and he needed an interpretor in the auction box, therefore English, Spanish and chants were flying fast and furious.

Besides the hectic schedules, there is such a thing as occupational hazard in Hamilton's type work. He found this to be painfully true when in 1954 he developed polyps on the vocal chords. He became extremely hoarse and finally had the swollen mass of calloused tissue removed. For awhile he couldn't talk and carried on conversations by way of a slate, upon which he wrote messages.

FAMILY MAN

"I guess I have some gypsy in me," said Mrs. Shirley Hamilton, the charming and gracious wife of the auctioneer. "I went with Ike on all his travels before the children came and still go when I have the opportunity. There is something fascinating about auctioneering and the people you meet. It just becomes a part of you."

She told of an interesting event she attended, where her husband was to auction off farm machinery. It rained. In fact, it poured that day. She thought the inclement weather would ruin the sale. Not so. A big crowd appeared, geared out in slickers, boots and umbrellas. The secret — because of the rain the farmers couldn't work in the fields, so they came to the auction. All items were sold in little time.

"My one baby," said Mrs. Hamilton is the Retarded Children's Association. She is on the Board of Commissioners of the G. B. Cooley Hospital, local residential home for trainable retarded children. She has worked extensively in the retarded children program for about 12 years on the state and local level.

Ike Hamilton and his wife have three children, Sara, 18; Hank, 16; and Ginny, 12. They reside at 2025 Hicks St. in West Monroe in a spacious, comfortable home whose interior reflects the momentos of an auctioneer's life and the efficiency of a devoted housewife.

They are members of the First Methodist Church of West Monroe.

Besides his role as auctioneer, Hamilton is very busy in civic activities. He is on the Board of Directors for Ouachita Federal Savings and Loan Association, First National Bank, and American Foundation Insurance Company. He is a member of the Livestock Brand Commission, and actively supports projects of the Association of Retarded Children, 4-H and FFA.

If this isn't enough to keep an already busy man even busier — he also teaches. He helped establish the Superior School of Auctioneering at Decatur, Ill. and during the school's two sessions, one in July and one in January, he instructs would - be auctioneers in livestock markets and quarter horses.

CROWDS THRONG about the auction box at the State Fair in Shreveport as Ike Hamilton demonstrates his master technique. He points out that most auctions are similar, typical Americana; but some — like those in Texas — turn out to be gala social events. His sales range from one end of the United States to the other — both ways.

High Grades Count

"A man is a man for all of that," and "It's better to be a big frog in a little pool than a little frog in a big pool." Success in college presages success in business.

Those are conclusions reached by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and they seem to be based on solid facts. If these conclusions are as true as they seem to be, then we must abandon the idea that all anyone needs to do to attain success in business is to obtain a college diploma.

In an article entitled, "Where Are Tomorrow's Leaders?" Frederick R. Kappel, A. T. and T. board chairman, said in part:

"Our figures show that the single most reliable predictive indicator of a college graduate's success in our company is his rank in his graduate class. A far greater proportion of high-ranking than low-ranking students have qualified for the large responsibilities.

"Of the men in the top academic third of their class, 45 per cent were in our top-salary third. Of those in the lowest third of the class, only 26 per cent made the top-salary third."

It was found that, although the quality of the college makes some difference, it is less than the difference in the quality of the men. Top students from average colleges were more successful than average students from top colleges.

Somewhat contrary to general belief, it was discovered in the survey that extracurricular activities in college bore little relationship to career success. "It is only real campus achievement that seems to have significance," Kappal said. "Mere participation in extracurricular goings-on does not." There has been a tendency to believe that a student with a "well-rounded" college life and somewhat better than average grades is better equipped for grappling in the business world than is the student with high grades who takes no part in other activities, but the survey tends to discount this belief.

It has often been demonstrated that a man who is a leader in a little town will still be a leader when he goes to a big town, and, conversely, it has been shown that a little man in a big town will still be a little man if he goes to a little town. The same qualities of leadership are required in big towns as in little ones.

As a clincher to his statement that students who rank high in their grades in college will also rank high in business ability, Kappel said:

"When you hire a high-scholarship man, your bet is that a drive already demonstrated will be sustained."

Silverless Quarters

Treasury withdrawal from the use of silver in coins will begin about November 1 and will be extended rapidly thereafter. The first departure from silver in the coins now in use will come with the putting into circulation of the new-style copper-nickel quarters. Silverless dimes and half-dollars possibly will be ready for circulation before the end of the year.

As far as trade is concerned, most people are not expected to notice any difference in the new coins. They will buy the same things and the same amount or number of things as the present coins. Those who give a great deal of thought to intrinsic value may cringe at the idea that the silverless coins are not worth as much as they were before as far as the metal in the coin itself is concerned.

Despite William Jenning's Bryan's famous "Cross of Gold" speech, this nation eventually went off the gold standard and even went so far as to make it illegal to own gold other than in rings, other types of jewelry and in tooth-fillings. Even gold tooth-fillings, once so popular, particularly among Negroes, have virtually become things of the past. It used to be possible to demand and obtain gold in exchange for any other coins or paper currency but many of those living today cannot remember that far back.

Now the departure of the United States from the silver standard is attributed to a worldwide silver shortage, the pressure of rising silver prices and an insatiable demand for silver coins. It is contended these things made the debasement of America's silver coins unavoidable. Existing silver coins will remain in circulation but no new ones will be made after the copper-nickel coins become available in quantity.

This withdrawal from use of silver in coinage presents delicate political and psychological problems. Until Congress last July approved the change, the silver coinage system had been in use with relatively minor changes since the first coinage act was adopted by Congress in 1792. The high silver content of the dime, quarter, half-dollar and silver dollar not only gave United States coins high intrinsic value but also helped to support public confidence in paper money.

But Treasury officials believe the public will adopt the new silverless coins with a minimum of trauma. It will take a lot of hoarding to absorb a significant number of the old coins. The Treasury estimates there are presently three billion quarters, one billion half-dollars, and seven and one-half billion dimes in circulation. It will be years before these coins attain any value as collectors' items. Nevertheless, a public that has never known anything except silver coinage can be forgiven if it puts a few of the silver pieces away in a drawer — just for old time's sake.

Medicine In South

Evidence that the physicians and surgeons of the South are medically alert and that they probably are not generally exceeded in skill by physicians in any part of the United States is found in the fact that the Southern Medical Association, which will meet in Houston November 1, is the second largest general medical organization in this country.

This may come as a surprise to many, but the Southern Medical Association is exceeded in size only by the American Medical Association.

Upwards of 8,000 registrants are expected to converge on Houston from 16 Southern States and the District of Columbia. The meeting will be held in the Sam Houston Coliseum. This will make the largest medical and scientific meeting ever held in Houston.

Six of the 22 special section programs will be highlighted by live, closed-circuit color telecasts of operations being performed at Hermann Hospital and transmitted to a large screen at the Coliseum.

Incidentally, this really would have been a show if President Johnson's operation could have been telecast but, anyhow, pictures of his scar were carried.

Health statistics indicate United States doctors, on the whole, are far more medically advanced than those in most other countries, despite a few dramatic performances in Russia. Both British and Russian medical development has been retarded by government-enforced practices of socialized medicine. It is to be hoped the present Medicare program in this country will not have a similar demoralizing effect.

Agaba, Jordan's only outlet to the sea, boasts a modern, air-conditioned resort hotel, long stretches of white beach and facilities for water skiing, skin diving and fishing.

Views Of Our Readers

English Government

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Having been a student of Government and Political Economy for many years I thought that I would give you some ideas upon the American Government. I would like to give you some comparative data later comparing our Government with the English Parlimentary form of Government which I think is the finest Government in the civilized world. I correspond regularly with a good friend in Liverpool England, and we exchange tapes. He gives me a good briefing on the English System, and being a graduate of Oxford he has some very good ideas. This friend also sent me a tape on Dickens which was one of the finest discussions of English Literature that I have ever had the opportunity to listen to. He also sent me a rare book on the Life of Dickens. Well, I am getting into English Literature, and away from my subject of this letter.

When our forefathers founded this country they were very jealous over power, and they established three main branches of our Government, viz: The Executive, The Legislative, and the Judicial. The purpose of this division of authority was to prevent one branch from encroaching upon the powers of the other or others, and thus abrogate the rule of the people.

Now, what do we have? The Supreme Court has made Laws that Congress did not enact. The Executive has made rubber stamps out of our Congressmen, and just button-hole them in the cloak room or elsewhere and say "Pass This". If this is not rubber stamp activity I do not know what it is.

It appears that we have sent people to Congress who do not have the stamni to stand up and be counted, and to advocate the things that the people want. They fall into a groove, fall for this soft talk, and being anxious to get home and enter into political activities pass anything.

In my opinion, the people of the United States should carefully examine their representatives at Washington when they come home, and if necessary elect an entire new assembly.

Under the Common Law, precedent or Judge made law has prevailed for many years, but this is presumed to record the customs of the people, but our Supreme Court has flouted the cheerished customs of the people of the South, and not recorded their customs in precedents, but made Law which is within the province of Congress.

Viet Nam Marches

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

(This is a copy of a letter I mailed to the President of the University of California. I would appreciate it very much if you would print it in your newspaper.)

Sir:

In earnest appeal I ask you: What has happened to our young people to make them have marches and parades in disfavor the fighting in Viet Nam? Where are the principals that were instilled in their parents? During World War II, as you will remember, even children were patriotic enough to buy liberty stamps. What has happened to this spirit; this spirit to repel an invader?

I am no warmonger. I live in fear of war, but when a country — a country in the right — asks my country for help — help that was previously promised — are we wrong to give it?

I highly desire some kind of answer to these questions. Am I wrong or has the standard changed?

On Klan Investigation

Start, La.

To the Editor:

(The following letter was mailed to Chairman Edwin Willis and the House Committee on Un-American Activities and a copy sent to this paper for publication.)

As you embark upon the investigation of the Ku Klux Klan, we feel that in view of the week - end anti-American demonstrations on the Viet Nam War, we the Ku Klux Klan feel that it is fitting that we make this statement about the war. Regardless of whether our government is right or wrong, after the chips are down as they are concerning the Viet Nam War, we will and are backing it to the hilt. This is the lifeblood of the Klan — Our God, Our Families, and our Country in this order. Wherever need be, if God will give us grace, we will die for either our God, our Families or our Flag. However, we will bitterly oppose man or men who sit upon the Court Benches and are elected to the halls of Congress who insist upon passing or upholding laws that are unConstitutional such as the 1954 School Integration ruling, the so-called Civil Rights law, the voting rights law, etc.

We are not sending this telegram to play upon your sympathies. All we ask is a fair investigation of the Klan on its merits and not on the actions of some hot-heads that might be members of the Klan or some Klan haters whom the Klan might have thrown a road-block in some of his unAmerican activities.

E. W. Pace

Classless Society

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I would like to express my opinion in regard to Mr. Henry E. Nettles' article which appeared under "Views of Our Readers," on Sunday, October 17.

In his article he stated, "In my opinion all fraternities, and sororities should be banned from our schools and colleges in that they are not democratic." Nothing could be more undemocratic than to ban such organizations. This would be a step towards forming a "Classless Society" which is the ultimate goal of Communism according to the "Communist theory" written by Karl Marx and followed by Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev. On the other hand, one of the basic principles of democracy is the freedom of the people to discriminate between classes and to belong to any class they desire, provided they meet the requirements of that class. The only justifiable restriction to this freedom in our country is the requirement that all men be treated equal under the law.

Mr. Nettles also made this statement, "They are clannish, and imbued with the idea that 'I am better than you', and this sort of attitude will not promote a democracy." If no one considered himself any better than anyone else, there would surely be no democracy. There would be no competition, and no one would run for public office because he would not consider him self any better qualified than anyone else. If members of fraternities and sororities do consider themselves better than non-members, this opinion is certainly not shared by the non-members; therefore, representing a good democratic example of differing opinions.

I am a senior in high school and have never been asked to join a sorority. If I were asked, I would refuse, simply because I feel that neither sororities nor fraternities serve any worthwhile purpose, but I do believe in their right to exist and the right of people to join them if they so desire. This is the type of freedom on which democracy thrives.

JUDY FREEMAN

Dedicated Pastors

West Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

For several months I have served as Supply Minister at a different church in the Twin Cities area. One exception was the Faith Baptist Church of Monroe where I served as Interim Pastor for over three months.

These various churches have impressed me with their wonderful programs and educated, dedicated pastors. Also the good adequate comfortable air conditioned buildings and Christian Educational Programs.

Mr. Editor, the spiritual values offered by these churches and the impact these churches have on the life of the cities and communities they serve cannot be measured or valued in dollars. I am sure this could be said for other churches all over the area and in our nation.

This letter is written with the hope and prayer it will help people who might read it to appreciate their churches more, attend the services of their churches, support and back the churches. Our churches are the hope and have the answer for a confused world.

The love of God offered to mankind by Christianity can be the force and power to provide a future for our world.

RALPH de TOLEDANO

Genovese Speech Seen As Treason

IN HIS ROLE AS the peripatetic spokesman of the Republican Party, former Vice President Richard Nixon has run into some interesting controversies. In New Jersey, where he recently took issue with Democratic Governor Hughes and Senator Robert F. Kennedy, he was clearly and eminently on the side of the angels.

In question was a statement by Professor Eugene D. Genovese of Rutgers, a New Jersey state university. At a teach-in on the university campus, Mr. Genovese demonstrated his patriotism and his fitness to teach by proclaiming: "I do not fear or regret the impending Viet Cong victory in Viet Nam, I welcome it!"

In this he was going far beyond the crocodile tears of the protesters and demonstrators who weep for the Vietnamese people and implore the President to preserve the Communist sanctuary of the Hanoi regime. He was calling for the defeat of American arms in a war that has cost American lives. This is called "giving aid and comfort to the enemy" — a phrase frequently used by people who refrain from mentioning that this is the Constitution's definition of treason.

Professor Genovese, in another and healthier day, would have been shown the contempt of the American people. He would have been branded for what he clearly is. Not so today. When State Senator Wayne Dumont, the Republican gubernatorial candidate, called for Mr. Genovese's dismissal, Governor Hughes refused on the ground that this would be a violation of free speech.

SENATOR BOBBY Kennedy went even further. With cold illogic, he charged that Mr. Dumont's demand was no different from Governor Barnett's insistence that the professors at the University of Mississippi who advocated integration should be fired.

Mr. Nixon, in entering the lists against the Messrs. Hughes and Kennedy, very properly quoted Justice Learned Hand who said: "A society in which men recognize no check on their freedom soon becomes a society in which freedom is the possession of only the savage few." And Nixon also is quite right in pointing out:

"The victory for the Viet Cong which Professor Genovese 'welcomes' would mean ultimately the destruction of freedom of speech for all men for all time not only in Asia but in the United States as well.

"The question at issue, therefore, becomes—does the principle of freedom of speech require that the state subsidize those who would destroy the system of government which protects freedom of speech?"

But Mr. Nixon misses the point when he argues that the professors at the University of Mississippi, in advocating integration, were speaking out in peacetime, whereas Mr. Genovese, using the forum of a state university which pays his salary, was giving aid and comfort to an enemy of the United States in wartime.

THE WARTIME qualification is important only because it is a necessary qualification of the Constitutional definition of treason. The essential difference, however, is this. The Mississippi professors were expressing opinions on matters involving domestic policy and on which the ultimate legal authority had similarly ruled. They were giving their side of an issue then in open public controversy. Mr. Genovese was calling for the defeat of his own country and expressing no regret over the death and destruction of American life this would mean.

Putting aside such questions as the Constitutional definition of treason, there is another point to be made. It is not only that Professor Genovese is a public servant, and therefore in duty bound not to attack his employer. He is also a teacher, entrusted with the rare and delicate task of educating the young. When he espouses victory for America's enemies — and for a system so repugnant that it can only triumph by murder and repression — he seriously casts doubt on his fitness to teach.

Mr. Genovese has since said that he only meant a "political" victory. "Such a statement," Mr. Nixon remarks, "is both a reflection on his scholarship and an insult to the intelligence of his listeners. He knows and the American people know that the war in Viet Nam involves a battle of bullets, not a battle of ballots. He also knows that in no nation of the world have the Communists, whose victory he advocates, come to power through a political victory at the polls."

Mr. Genovese should be fired — and the Messrs. Kennedy and Hughes should be ashamed.

Ways Of Beating Draft Suggested

THERE EXISTS, we discover, a committee that will inform young draftable Americans how to beat the draft. Among the quaint suggestions being offered is that a draftee feign homosexuality. I expect some of those who would try this dodge could make pretty convincing demonstrations. Or, if for some reason you find that a little tough going, you can pretend you're a psycho. Again, I shouldn't think that would be difficult for some of the young gentlemen attracted to the expedient. Or, it is said, there are ways by which, if you take certain drugs a few hours before your medical examination, you can develop a heart flutter that will knock the stethoscope out of the examining doctor's hand. And so on.

There has been draft dodging for centuries. Right through the Civil War, a draftee could, by paying a few hundred dollars, exempt himself from service. During the Second World War there were many people who contrived to fight the war at home. The classic dissimulator was the man who, asked by the examining physician to read the lowest line on the eye chart, asked innocently, "What eye chart?" He was dismissed and, as legend has it, went happily to the movie house across the street only to find to his horror at the intermission that he was seated next to the eye-doctor to whom he had moments before feigned blindness. But he rose to the occasion by tapping the doctor on the shoulder and asking, "Is this the bus to Baltimore?"

WHAT IS DIFFERENT about the current situation is that there is an effort by serious people to justify these evasions of duty. Before, it was the individual shirker, who knew he was shirking, who was put in jail if he was caught, and who was condemned by his company if he was spotted as a shirker. What is distinctive, in other words, is that a philosophical justification is being offered to men who, while accepting the freedoms this country is providing them, refuse to take their turn, when it comes, to help assure those freedoms to others. Murder, Inc. was one kind of a threat for as long as everyone knew that the kind of thing it went in for was inexcusable. It would have been a very different kind of threat if professors and students were bustling about the country defending its activities on high moral grounds.

There needs to be hard thought given to the problem by the Goverment of the United States and by those who, like myself, presume from time to time to instruct the Government. To begin with, the young shirkers must be deprived of any shred of legal justification for what they do, and this in turn requires that we find a totally satisfactory solution to the imprecision of our legal position vis-a-vis the Viet Cong. Senator Wayne Morse, who is hardly a strict - constructionist of the Constitution when it doesn't serve his purposes to be so, now ups and raises the point that we are in fact at war in South Viet Nam, but Congress has taken no action to declare war; that therefore those who oppose fighting in that war have some constitutional grounds to lean on.

AS A MATTER of fact, I believe they do. The opposing argument, to be sure, is at least plausible, and at best conclusive, namely that the President of the United States, as commander - in - chief of our armed forces, is granted the power by the Constitution to deploy our forces in whatever theater he chooses, and to perform whatever deeds he orders them to perform for so long as something short of a true war situation exists. And something short of a true war does indeed exist in South Viet Nam. However, the technicality could probably be taken care of by a properly formulated resolution in Congress explicitly granting to the President wartime powers in connection with prosecuting the action in South Viet Nam designed to live up to our commitments there.

Then let us treat the young shirkers as the seditionists they are, conspiring to aid the enemy, and to break the law. Too many of our youth gloat in the apparent immunity they feel from the responsibilities of adulthood.

SUNDAY POEM

I will do more
When others do me serious wrong,
I will forgive to keep me strong;
When others speak an unkind word,
I will forget what I have heard.
When others fail to do their part,
I will do more with loving heart;
When others fail to give me praise,
I still will go the loving ways.
When some are praised for what I do,
I will do more, and praise them too;
I will do more so I may know
God's peace and joy where'er I go.

OTHER PROGRAMS— Down in Houston recently, a columnist, taking note of Medicare and Renticare aid programs for the elderly and destitute, suggested other programs might be in order.

He went on to outline such programs as:

"Biteacare, to make sure everyone has the same food on the table.

"Nipicare, ditto for those who enjoy a nip now and then . . .

"Pregacare, for the expectant, and Sitacare for afterward when mama wants to go bowling or bridging.

"And Soothacare, for anybody who might just possibly get left out of the other programs."

These may be well and good, but just wait to the first week in January and see what a bite the first two are going to take out of your paycheck.

AIN'T IT SO—Secretary to the office manager: "I've taken all the criticism of my work that I'm going to take. How do you spell "quit?"

A WIFE, complaining her husband hadn't taken a good look at her in five years, remarked, "If anything happened to me, I don't think he'd be able to identify the body."

FROM A MOTHER— Someone who signed "A mother," sent in the following poem the past week, called "Why?"

Beyond those mountains
Benevolent mountains — lie
Brutal Cong
Biding their time,
Beneath tufts of grass
Besides paddies of rice.
Between mountains and bay,
Busy town - city,
Bizarre little people
Buddha protected.
Beautiful home —
Beyond lies the beach.
But, why am I here, world
Between me and home?
Bemused, I ponder, in my heart I know —
Because, I am an American.
But — how do I know? My heart is there."

QUITTING TIME— Have you ever hesitated long enough around a business — that is you didn't lead the parade out the door —to watch what goes on around quitting time.

It's a daily ritual in American businesses — as much so as coming to work.

And if you check the lowering herd in your own white collar zoo, you might note a number of very usual characteristics.

For example, there's always one — maybe more— who starts getting ready 15 minutes before time to leave, such as putting on the coat etc.

Then there's the methodical one — who actually begins preparation 30 minutes before quitting time. Somebody stole a paper clip over night from him 15 years ago and he's determined never to let it happen again. He puts everything that is on top of his desk inside his desk, checks each drawer carefully to see that it is locked, then locks his file cabinet, padlocks his typewriter and hides the cushion of his swivel chair in his locker . .

Next is the fun - loving one. As soon as the methodical one has gone, the office boy opens his desk, puts a well - chewed apple core in the top drawer, then relocks it. The methodical one will then worry for a month about how the apple got there.

Then comes hangover Harry — He has spent the day hiding out in the washroom. At 5:29, still a bit foggy, he wheels in and calls out, "Anybody ready for lunch? I found a great place —the house buys every third martini.

Next is the madcap one— She's the office Cleopatra who never gets much done after 4 o'clock. From then on she tours the place, sitting on the desk of one junior executive after another, swinging her shapely legs and indulging in gay banter.

There's wheelhorse Wilbur —The quitting hour of 5:30 is only an interruption. He wipes his myopic eyes and begins to stack up the work he intends to take home with him. He no longer uses a briefcase. He fills a suitcase with it.

By 5:35, when every other clock watcher has fled, sycophantic Sid puts his feet on the desk and waits 10 minutes to be sure he is alone in the outer office, then walks to the door of the boss office. Wiping his brow in a show of weariness he says cheerily, "Well, chief, I guess it's up to us to close up the store again. Do you mind if I knock off now? Two of my kids are sick."

As soon as Sid goes, the boss clumps out to the empty room, looks around at the empty desks.

"What a menagerie," he mumbles. Then, as he goes around switching out the lights, he grumbles:

"Why do I have to think of everything around here?"

Well, if you think this is bad, get down early some morning and watch them come to work.

OVERHEARD: "I wouldn't want to say my wife always gets her own way and does everything that she wants to do — but she does write out her diary a week ahead of time."

GRAPHIC ATTACK— In St. Louis, Coroner Raymond I. Harris has a one-man campaign going in St. Louis county against needless automobile accidents.

His motto is "STOP OUR SLAUGHTER," and he composed the following:

S-top at signs.
T-urn only after signaling.
O-bserve signals from others.
P-ass only on clear road.
O-bey traffic rules.
U-se only mechanically fit cars.
R-efrain from driving while drinking.
S-tay safe distance behind other cars.
L-earn to use proper lane of traffic.
A-ct courteously to others.
U-se gas pedal sparingly.
G-uard against children on street.
H-ave patience.
T-ires in good condition.
E-nter intersections carefully.
R-est — do not drive when tired.

NEW ENGLISH— Attention parents.

After singing your Good Morning Teacher song you may put your new math books away. Today we begin our lessons in New English — the first significant development in the teaching of English grammar since Bishop Robert Lowth wrote the basic text in 1762. New English, my dear parents, is the next curriculum revolution proposed for the schools. So pay close attention if you expect, in the future, to talk with your children about anything except recess and all the classes they missed because of club meetings and pep rallies.

The New English abolishes those traditional syntactical rules borrowed directly from Latin (gender and case of nouns, persons of verbs) which have no direct connection with today's written English. It also abolishes such inexact notions as the one that a sentence expresses a complete thought. Instead, the transformational grammarians view language as made up of irreducible kernel sentences, plus transformational laws, plus lexicon. To understand this, you may write to Harcourt, Brace and World, New York, which will soon publish the first new grammar series for schools and is offering, as a public service, an explanatory booklet for parents.

But to begin ahead of the crowd, please recite: "There are two kinds of transformation rules, obligatory rules and optional rules."

REAL - ESTATE man to couple in his office: "I do have something for five thousand — would you like to ride out and see if it's still standing?"

MEMO TO WIVES — If you want to help your overweight husband reduce, read what Dr. W. J. Bryan has to say. The doctor, founder of the American Institute of Hypnosis, says comfort and entertainment are friends of fat.

Patients fed unappetizing liquids through a tube, to prevent smelling those good food odors and seeing that lovely food, took only 250 calories a day. Fed the same in a bland diet, they took 540 calories a day. When they listened to nice music, their intake jumped to 860 calories.

The doctor concludes that obesity in the U.S. is a result of good food, cooked too well, and eaten in too pleasant an atmosphere. He suggests that "auto-suggestion" begin at home with worse food, bad atmosphere and "maybe a little willful carelessness thrown in which can do as much as medicine in weight control."

If this isn't enough, start telling him all your problems while he's trying to eat.

Gresham's Rule Used On News

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Ever wonder what a columnist and an economist have in common? Probably not. Anyway, the answer is that each employs Gresham's Law in making certain decisions.

Sir Thomas Gresham, cleareyed and British as they come, trying to think of a law one day, theorized that two coins, though they have the same debt-paying power, still will not be treated alike if one has greater intrinsic value.

That is to say, a hip housewife with a gold coin and a copper one would tuck the bullion under the mattress and spend the copper at the supermarket.

TYLER

The other side of the coin, of course, is that columnists hoard stories of solid news value for use on Sunday. Here are some of the solid gold local items we saved during the past week:

The Monroe City School Board awarded a $1.7 million contract for construction of major, multipart south Monroe high school—Wossman High.

The controversy over the dual operation in Ouachita of a city and a parish school system, never really cooled, was heating up again. Sen. Jamar Adcock disclosed he'd asked a formal study by the Louisiana legislative council, investigative arm of the Legislature.

The disparities of federal as opposed to state voter registration procedures were spotlighted in Fourth District Court as Mrs. Mae Lucky, the parish registrar, was enjoined from adding federal enrollees to her lists.

The Ouachita Parish Police Jury hired veteran Monroe fireman Homer Massingill to head and oversee the organization of a parish fire department. It also hired West Monroe architect Beuford Jacka to design four voter-approved fire stations, ratified an agreement for use of the West Monroe Fire Department in fighting rural west Ouachita blazes, and looked forward to a similar arrangement with Monroe east of the river.

Jacka figured again as the Second Circuit Court of Appeals reversed a Fourth District Court ruling in his favor, awarding the second verdict to the Ouachita Parish School Board — sued by the architect for partial payment for his services on the Riser School building project in West Monroe.

Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard was authorized to seek $65,000 in federal funds on an expected $250,000 sewage project in the Northeast Louisiana State College — Selman Field areas.

Former Monroe School Board Pres. J. H. Scogin Jr., now living in Winnsboro, was serenaded by the band at a Neville High School football game dedicated to him Thursday with "See the U.S.A." It should be noted that the latter is the theme song of an automobile company other than the one with which Scogin was associated for a number of years.

Halloween, which by the calendar falls today, a Sabbath day, was celebrated by hordes of high-spirited spirits — by municipal fiat — on Saturday. No complaints were heard from any of the wee haunts, who presumably would just as soon every night were Halloween.

Let's look now at some of the unalloyed elements which gave these nuggets their superior intrinsic value:

WOSSMAN BID

The successful among five bidders Thursday on the Wossman project was Rannie Terral and Terral Construction of Farmerville. He told the board he'd get to work Monday on the site, near Benoit Recreation Center, and chances are he'll have to. Terral is fighting a tough construction deadline on the school's classroom parts, which must open in the fall of 1966, while work may go ahead on the auditorium, gym and other sections. Members stressed that two Wossman grades presently are domiciled at Jefferson Junior High, a facility incapable because of its own growth of accommodating three Wossman classes next year.

The board's meeting was as busy as it was long (three hours), and other principal items included the appointment of a principal, plus an okay for a grading period experiment to begin at mid-term in the system's junior and senior high schools — six of them.

It deserves fuller treatment but briefly the experiment entails a switch from customary six - weeks periods for grading purposes to periods of nine weeks. Paramount advantage is expected to be the allowance of more hard teaching time, by the elimination of one formal test break each semester. Inclusive tests will be administered every nine weeks, as is done at most colleges.

New principal, effective September, 1966, at the system's southside Minnie Ruffin Elementary will be A. R. "Red" Sims, for the past six years a teacher-coach for Jefferson Junior High. Sims, 44, will follow Glenn Hammett, who goes as assistant principal to Wossman.

City Supt. Van D Odom was empowered to put out for bids other phases of the system's total $6 million building program, with special sessions to be called to open those bids.

Plans also were made to honor Scogin that night, and the system and city went all-out to do so. For six years, the honoree was one of the board's number, yet glee was noted as colleagues planned the band performance already mentioned. Monroe's mayor gave Scogin a Distinguished Citizen Award as one of many tributes he received.

ADCOCK REQUEST

Sen. Adcock chose Friday to reveal his request for the legislative council look-see. The day before West Monroe Chamber of Commerce chiefs disclosed scheduling of Nov. 22 for a public forum to gain an exchange of feelings on the dual systems setup and operation. Initial comments, following that organization's release of a report charging inequities and overlapping services, ranged from "absurd" to "inspired." Some reports have maintained that the senator, as well as the Chamber, favors a division of the systems by the Ouachita River, each to be governed and financed by persons within it. He said, however, the study could show such to be unfeasible because of bonded indebtedness and tax structures.

Given taxing authority by the voters in September, however, the police jury meanwhile was moving in the area of rural fire protection. Massingill, a former Monroe deputy fire chief, was hired and given a green light to dig into the complexities of forming an entire new department. The praise was glowing and the veteran's selection was unanimous, though a 15-2 vote of the jury was triggered apparently by naming of the architect. Curtis Joiner, joined by Bernie Van, both of Ward 3, sought further consideration. As agreed also, West Monroe's firemen will handle non-municipal fires for the jury west of the river, on a reimbursement basis, while temporarily employed professionals continue to carry the ball in the east. The arrangement was hammered out with West Monroe aldermen originally by a special citizens' committee. All the action, in fact, was on committee recommendation, to span a 15-month interim before tax funds for a full protection plan are collected.

JACKA CONSIDERS

Architect Jacka reappeared in the news Friday with the arrival of word concerning the reversal. He said he was considering appeal to the next higher court and probably would decide in the affirmative. The original ruling in his favor was overturned, with the appeals court holding him to account for damages of $28,000, the value set on fill dirt and other modifications required on the Riser project. Jacka said the additional work grew from an inaccurate topographical map of the site given him by a school board member. At any rate, the board halted payments to the architect after remitting some $36,000 of a $64,000 tab, bringing on the suit.

Court news wasn't lacking last week for several other reasons, thereon bringing our thoughts back to the referred voter registration issue. District Judge Mack E. Barham, at the behest of Mrs. Lucky's own counsel, enjoined her from adding some 2,300 federally-registered persons to the parish rolls. The registrar's position was patently untenable, and she faced possible indictment whatever she did, until the judge acted. In essence, it seems she could be nailed by Uncle Sam if she adhered to state laws, and by Louisiana if she adhered to Congress' legislation — so different are the requirements for voting, or the lack of them, in the two viewpoints.

As a relevant point of interest on the subject, a state report for September showed Ouachita registration down, as of Sept. 30, from 32,049 to 30,659 — this while Louisiana gained over 31,000 voters. Negro registration rose by some 20,000.

The mere fact of all the foregoing having been hoarded shouldn't be misconstrued by readers. These other items assayed out well, too:

West Monroe held open house Saturday at its new utilities building complex on Haynes Street.

United Givers Fund workers intensified their collection efforts after a compaign victory dinner was postponed from Oct. 28.

There were two train derailments, none involving personal injury.

The Louisiana Liquefied Petroleum Commission held its two-day meeting in Monroe for the first time ever.

The Northeast State Concerts Association staged its first attraction of the season.

A former movie star, John Carroll, now director of the Louiana Tourist Development Commission, came to town urging state beautification to draw visitors.

Oak Grove beauty Linda Jones was named Little Colonel (brigade sponsor) of the Northeast R.O.T.C.

An armed robber eluded a police net after taking at knifepoint $500 from a local finance company.

The World's Week In Focus

Heroic Battle, Space Scrub'

By Oland Silk

THEME OF THE WEEK: YOU CAN'T WIN THEM ALL. The U. S. wasn't victorious on all fronts, but it made a gallant showing in Viet Nam, re-grouped for another space bid after scrubbing Gemini 6, and continued counter protests against college-spawned pacifism.

Flyboys Cited As Heroes

THE BLOODY, heroic battle of Plei Me, 210 miles north of Saigon, will merit at least three pages in the military history books of tomorrow. Under siege for 10 days, the 400-man garrison was secured by Wednesday. When it was over, Special Forces advisers, Montagnard tribesmen, and soldiers were caked with red dirt, weary from lack of sleep, and fully aware they had met the best troops of the Viet Cong. Heroes? They were everywhere. But Major Charles Beckwith of Atlanta gave the consensus: "Those pilots were outstanding, and the flare ships that kept the camp illuminated at night were just great. When I meet a flyboy after I get out of here, I'm going to hug him and kiss him."

THE WORD "OUTSTANDING" has become, along with "Sorry about that" the most popular catchwords of the Viet war. Major Beckwith, 36, an emaciated, grizzled bear of a man by battle's end, did not say the VC were outstanding, but he did pay this tribute:

"I wish we could get 200 of those Viet Cong recruited on our side. They are some of the finest soldiers I have ever seen — except Americans of course, and if those VC are underfed, sick and have a low morale, I'd sure hate to fight them when they're well."

SGT. BAILEY

When the siege lifted, over 200 bodies of VC were accounted for. Some 115 more were believed killed and dragged off by the enemy. Although there were no estimates of American and Vietnamese casualties, Capt. Harold Moore 24, of Pekin, Ill., commander of the 12-man Special Forces team, said they were light "considering what they were throwing at us." He said over half of the team were casualties before the siege lifted. They included Sgt. IC Joseph Bailey of Nashville. Bailey was killed early in the battle after raising a tiny American flag.

Bailey and his comrades had been at Plei Mei only two weeks when the VC launched their surprise attack. Reinforcements came by land and by air. U. S. planes laid bombs and napalm within a few yards (wounding some defenders) of the camp to prevent overrunning of the outpost. It worked. A relief column of more than 1,300 Vietnamese rangers, infantry, tanks and armored personnel carriers reached the camp Monday.

In yet another area, Americans suffered loss of 18 helicopters at Da Nang East, a new airstrip near the main Da Nang air base, staging ground for large air assaults. It was the third sabotage attempt on Da Nang proper. Attacking at midnight, the VC shelled with mortars and suicide squads planted bombs by hand in the craft. U. S. losses were also heavy at the Chu Lai air base. More sneak attacks are expected. Complete security against guerrillas operating at night is impossible since they can elude roving patrols and defense posts by taking advantage of natural terrain.

TOTAL U. S. craft lost in war: 116, with 94 pilots either killed or captured.

Double Gemini Launch Planned

Astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford were all set to tackle the toughest piloting task yet devised for spacemen. They were to dock their Gemini 6 craft with an Agena Target Vehicle fired into orbit. It was to be a case of chase and hitch-on. But sadly, the "hitch" developed early when the Agena exploded or broke apart, thereby wiping out a vital rehearsal for later man-to-the-moon flights.

One correspondent described the difference between the Gemini 6 venture and previous ones: "The difference between what has been done so far and what they will attempt . . . is as great as that between studying driving and actually taking a car out on the road."

SCHIRRA

While engineering detectives sought the cause of the Agena failure, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration pushed ahead with plans for the 14-day Gemini 7 flight. This replaces Gemini 6 as the toughest assignment in the history of the space program. It entails the orbiting of a pair of two-man spacecraft (within 10 days) so they can fly in formation in space. Gemini 7 will have astronauts Frank Broman and James Lovell at the controls. Shortly thereafter, Schirra and Stafford will be fired in pursuit. If successful, the teams will rendezvous near each other, can exchange hand waves, and take pictures. Such a success would take some of the sting out of this week's Cape Kennedy scrub. A disappointed Schirra said afterward, "It's a sweet spacecraft, save it for me." He'll get his wish sooner than expected.

A New Kind Of "In"

THOUSANDS OF college students are giving blood to the armed forces with Pentagon approval as a gesture of support for the U.S. policy in Viet Nam. The junior class at Washington State University, for example, collected 750 pints in three days. A "bleed in" was also being formed at Colorado University at Denver.

Defense Department approval came as it was revealed that the May Second Movement prepared to raise funds to send medical suppiies to the Communist Viet Cong. Steve Cherkoss, a shaggy, bearded Berkeley leader of the May Second sect, said funds were going to the Vietnamese people, too, since they were "victims of U.S. aggression." Cherkoss declined to make a guess at the number in his movement.

The Pentagon announced it had requested the American Red Cross to collect blood donations. A defense spokesman said that while the blood is not needed in Viet Nam, it will be used for military requirements within the U.S.

Childless married men are now subject to the draft during November and December. On October 14, the Defense Department ordered 45,224 men for call-up, the largest since the Korean War. Until now men between 19 and 26 have filled the bulk of the draft quotas.

Domestic, World Surprises

BOTH DOMESTIC AND international news events last week were loaded with surprises.

Something new in burglar tools was used in the robbery of Brink's Armored Car Service in Syracuse, New York. At least four men used an anti-tank cannon to smash through concrete and steel walls of a vault at Brink's. Loot amounted to $100,000 in cash and $300,000 in checks. The burglars fired 31 shells into the wall and then cut through the remaining steel with an acetylene torch. Police suspected a bandit team from Canada, but no arrests have been made.

Fortune magazine reported that President Johnson got heavier contributions from the corporate community than did his Republican opponent in the last presidential election. The article said the "Democrats became the party of the 'fat cats' and the Republicans the party of the small contributors." Sixty-nine per cent of the Democratic contributions at the national - level committees were made in the sum of $500. By contrast, only 28 per cent of individual Republicans made donations in these large amounts.

DOWN ALONG the Pedernales, the President convalesced from surgery. He also sounded in one brief, glaring moment like a conservative when he spoke out against a proviso in the Rivers and Harbors bill.

The bill would block appropriations for projects costing less than $10 million unless they were specifically approved by Senate and House Public Works Committees. Johnson construed the proviso to mean that a small group of congressmen sought to empower themselves with authority to say what projects should proceed, by retaining a veto power over them. "Encroachment" decried Mr. Johnson. His surprising source: the U. S. Constitution.

Lincolnton, Georgia Negroes pulled the surprise confrontation of the week when they halted a civil rights march. An action believed unequaled in the southern racial struggle, about 40 Negro men, most of them sawmill and pulpwood workers, barred the way of 30 demonstrators. The local Negroes' main concern: "What's going to happen to us after you leave?"

Martin Luther King, meanwhile, planned to use Selma, Alabama as the staging area for his fight to get legislation passed making it a federal crime to intimidate or kill civil rights workers.

More Reluctant Dragons

THE HOUSE Un-American Activities Committee finished with North Carolina and South Carolina Kludds and Dragons, then took on the Georgia Klan. Try as the probers might, not one witness disclosed an iota of information. Among these quizzed were George Dorsett, Imperial Kludd of N. C., Robert Scoggin, Grand Dragon of S. C., and Calvin Craig, Georgia Grand Dragon. Craig was quizzed about how-to-do-it schools for Klansmen that taught members how to make time bombs, booby traps, judo and karate. An investigator charged such a school was held near Macon, Ga. in 1961. He said Craig was there. The Georgia Dragon, like all others, took the 5th Amendment which allows a person to refuse to give self-incriminating testimony.

CRAIG

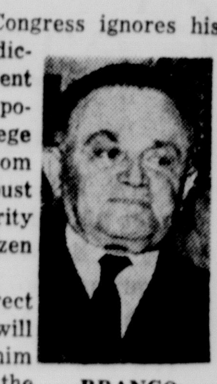
Elsewhere in the South, Klan rallies were held in support of witnesses.

. . . TWO NAVY rear admirals in their fifties asked for retirement in protest over Pentagon policies. They were William Brockett, and John Curtze. Disagreement with Defense Boss McNamara reportedly centered on top civilian management and the closing of some shipyards. The admirals were expected to "speak up" as soon as their retirement is effective.

U.S. Warning Brazil Seizure

THE U. S. sternly warned Red China to stay out of the India-Pakistan war. The warning was said to have a salutary effect on the Mao government, which lately has undergone several defeats. The very latest was its failure to get the Afro-Asian parley in Algiers postponed. It will be held Nov. 5 as scheduled. The Chinese failed to get Soviets barred from the meet. In fact, Afro-Asian rejection of so many Chinese ideas virtually isolated Peking from influence in those areas of the world.

Further good news: the U. S. learned the Communist world is divided over whether to negotiate for peace in Viet Nam. Moscow reportedly favors talks.



BRANCO

WHAT DOES a President do when Congress ignores his program? Well, in Brazil, he assumes dictatorial powers. In doing so, President Humberto Branco abolished all existing political powers, declared a state of siege for 180 days, expanded supreme court from 11 to 16 judges, empowered himself to oust federal and local legislators, and authority to suspend political rights of any citizen for 10 years.

The Branco decree also abolished direct election of the President. Instead, he will be chosen by Congress. It also gave him power to intervene in the states. Why the move? To insure domestic tranquility, said Branco. Leftists charged he "mortally assaulted what remains of Republican institutions."

Meanwhile, Cuba and the U. S. worked out an airlift of refugees, closing the Florida boat shuttle.

Pay Boost Doubtful

GOV. JOHN McKEITHEN expressed doubts about whether Louisiana can afford a proposed $16.9 million pay boost for classified state employes, as recommended by the Civil Service Commission. He noted hiking state taxes is something legislators are reluctant to do. He also said he would oppose any effort to get a state right-io-work bill passed.

Twenty one of Louisiana's 67 parish and city school boards have acted or plan steps to assure their teachers a full pay raise, a survey disclosed. Thirteen of the 21 have gained approval of their voters for necessary tax hikes on local levels. All the school boards are in South Louisiana.

The Internal Revenue Service can't find complete tax returns for five Davis administration lawmakers. They are former Sen. Cecil Blair, Alexandria, Former Rep. James Brown, Calcasieu, State Rep. Arthur Crais and former Rep. Rodney Buras, New Orleans, and Rep. John Rau Jefferson.

SEN. DUDLEY LeBLANC of Abbeville failed to get his legislative committee on Senate redistricting into quick action before federal intervention. The legislature has already rejected seven redistricting plans. The LeBlanc committee quit in a huff, planning no further meetings. If Louisiana is ordered to reapportion both Houses on population basis, Sen. Danny Roy Moore of Homer said he would seek creation of a single - chamber assembly with 170 members.

As campuses across the country became focal points of Viet Nam unrest, LSU students were interested in more mundane matters, such as studies, Playboy magazine, and drinking at football games.

Last week a controversial search and seizure of the rakish magazine throughout LSU dorms set off a study of men's housing regulations. The row pitted the Student Government Association against the LSU administration. However, complaints about excessive student drinking at football games eclipsed the Playboy uproar. We must await further developments on these two vital issues.

Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama joined together in efforts to get the Voting Rights Act declared unconstitutional. Top legal officials met in New Orleans to chart strategy.

PAR revealed Louisiana now is 19th in population.

Senator Ellender revealed he will seek re-election. He is 75.

ODDITY OF THE WEEK: A Canadian woman cooked a roast under the hood of her car while driving 300 miles. Wrapped in heavy foil and placed on the exhaust manifold, the meat was declared delicious. All you have to do is turn it over midway the trip. One startled filling station attendant told her, "Forget the oil, just check the roast." Warning: Don't try turkey.

GOP Finally Seeking Unity

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a year Republicans have blamed everyone — and especially each other — for the shattering defeat they took from Lyndon Johnson and his Democrats in the 1964 elections.

Now the party is trying to put an end to recriminations and pull itself together, recognizing that it's either that or settle for an insignificant role in the nation's political life.

This coming week a few trial heats will be run:

New Jersey and Virginia elect governors. New York, New Jersey, Kentucky and Virginia pick a legislature. New York City has a mayor's race featuring an attractive young Republican, Rep. John V. Lindsay. Ohio has a congressional election in which Clarence Brown Jr. tries to win the seat held by his late father, a GOP stalwart for a generation.

However important these contests may be to the individuals and areas involved, they should not obscure the main point:

That the nation is now midway between the 1964 and 1966 elections, and that the Republicans' future, or lack of it, may well be determined Nov. 8, 1966.

On that day 35 governors, 33 senators and an entire House of Representatives will be picked.

One prominent Republican has said: "If we don't make some real gains — and I mean they must be significant — we may as well fold up."

That's why Republicans plan in 1966 their greatest drive for votes ever attempted in a nonpresidential year.

FOR THE REPUBLCANS

1. The sorry plight of the party.

Republicans have only 17 of 50 governors, only 32 of 100 senators, only 141 of 435 House members. In losing the presidency in 1964, they also lost 541 seats in state legislatures. "We're so low," a party professional has said, "the only way we can go is up."

2. The off-year tradition.

Usually the party in the White House loses ground when the president isn't running.

3. The absence of Barry Goldwater from the national ticket.

The professionals, more interested in victories than in ideologies, figure that Goldwater's try for the presidency killed them in staunch Republican areas, and that these will now swing back to the GOP fold.

4. Party loyalty.

Barring a prolonged depression or other upheavals, Americans vote as their parents voted. Recent studies show that basic loyalties remain, come Dwight D. Eisenhower or Barry Goldwater.

5. Redistricting.

This is still an uncertain area, but Republicans think that any equitable reshuffling is bound to help. In 1962 they got 48 per cent of the national congressional vote, but only 40 per cent of the seats.

6. The rise of Southern Republicanism.

Barry Goldwater captured five Southern states last year; except for his native Arizona they were all he carried. These — and some other GOP gains — are usually credited to the South's rebellion against the democratic party stand on the racial question. No one can say what this will mean for the long haul, but, at least, century-old voting habits have been broken.

AGAINST THE REPUBLICANS

1. The sorry plight of the party.

Old politicians may think they have hit bottom, but their own statistics offer little solace. In 1940 around 42 per cent of the voters called themselves Democrats while 38 per cent said they were Republicans. Twenty-five years later the score reads, 53-24, Democrats.

New York State offers a perfect example of political erosion. Run your eye along this row of figures:

These numbers show the GOP members from New York for each Congress since 1952. The Republicans were having a good year when they held their own.

2. A badly split party.

During the year two strong Goldwaterites were hustled out: Dean Burch of Phoenix, Ariz., as national chairman, and John E. Grenier of Birmingham, Ala., as executive director. But unity, if that was the objective, did not automatically come with the appointment of Ray C. Bliss as national chairman.

Splinter groups continue to siphon off energy and, perhaps more important, money. "There must be a thousand conservative organizations in the field," Peter O'Donnell, Texas Republican chairman, has said.

3. The lack of a vote-catching issue.

A young Republican, Rep. William E. Brock of Chattanooga, Tenn., said recently: "We're" still running, and most unsuccessfully, against Franklin D. Roosevelt."

4. The minority voters, especially Negroes.

Republicans have long fretted because they appeal chiefly to WASP — white, Anglo-Saxon Protestants. But fretting has been about all they have been able to do. In 1964 Johnson got 94 per cent of the Negro vote; Goldwater settled for six.

5. That man in the White House.

It is no secret that the Republicans feel their best hope is for a whopping presidential blunder, but so far Johnson has been a political mountain goat, surefooted at all heights.

When Republican professionals discuss where their party went wrong, it's surprising how often their diagnoses simmer down to one man: Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Their argument: with his great popularity, Ike had an opportunity to build a firm foundation under his party; instead, he muffed it, paying little heed to politics until, ironically, he was out of power.

Political scientists point out that a president wears many hats, including one marked "party boss." Part of his job is to keep his party strong and headed in the direction he thinks it should go.

But of all his chores, Eisenhower liked this the least.

"The term 'politics' as such seems to be one of those words that mean many things to many people," Eisenhower said in 1955. "We so often use it in a derogatory sense; and I think in the general derogatory sense you can say, of course, that I do not like politics."

International relationships and working for peace, well, that sort of thing is a fascinating business, Eisenhower said. "But the word 'politics' as you use it, I think the answer to that one would be, no, I have no great liking for that."

Naturally Republicans shy at going on record criticizing their only presidential winner since 1928, but as far back as 1959 there were rumblings. That was the year that Eisenhower told the GOP National Committee that "political activity must be a matter of unremitting effort."

Rep. Richard Simpson, R-Pa., jumped up to say that this was what national committee members had been doing right along.

"I call upon the White House," Simpson said, "to give us some of that unremitting, political, planned effort on behalf of the Republican party."

He was cheered.

Now the party lacks the drama and the focus of the presidency, and it speaks with many voices: Eisenhower, Nixon, Goldwater, Bliss, Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho, chairman of the Republican Governors' Association; Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, who is trying to elect more Republican senators, and Rep. Bob Wilson of California, who is trying to improve the GOP score in the House.

Republicans are struggling on all fronts, but their plans for the House are particularly interesting because of the way they are using polls.

Jack Mills, executive director of the Republican Congressional Committee, gives an example:

In the Midwest a study was made of a district in which the most likely candidate has already run twice and lost twice. "You know how it is," Mills said. "When you lose twice, the tendency is to say, 'Let's try somebody else.' "

But the polls showed that this two-time loser still was the most popular Republican around, and if the questions have succeeded in ferreting out the liveliest issues, perhaps he will win yet.

No matter how sedulously issues are sought, no matter how fetching the candidate, a small cloud always hovers on the horizon. At the last moment this can develop into a storm that can wreck the shrewdest schemes.

Take the 1962 off-year elections. On Oct. 22 President Kennedy reported a crisis over Soviet missiles in Cuba. The resultant anxiety and excitement, plus the relief and satisfaction when Nikita Khrushchev backed down, are attributed by Mills as reasons for the relatively poor GOP showing: a gain of only two new House seats.

So Mills thinks back to 1962 when he says:

"We expect to make some gains — provided we're not Cubanized or Johnsonized by some last-minute political maneuver."

By the age of 30 most Americans have decided whether they are Democrats or Republicans, and although they may waver occasionally their primary allegiance remains for life. A party's best chance is to trap them young.

"We don't have any future except for the young people," Rep. Brock says.

Brock is doubly interesting in that he is only 34 years old and is of that new breed, a Republican who wins in the South.

"Being from the South gains me a certain notoriety," he said.

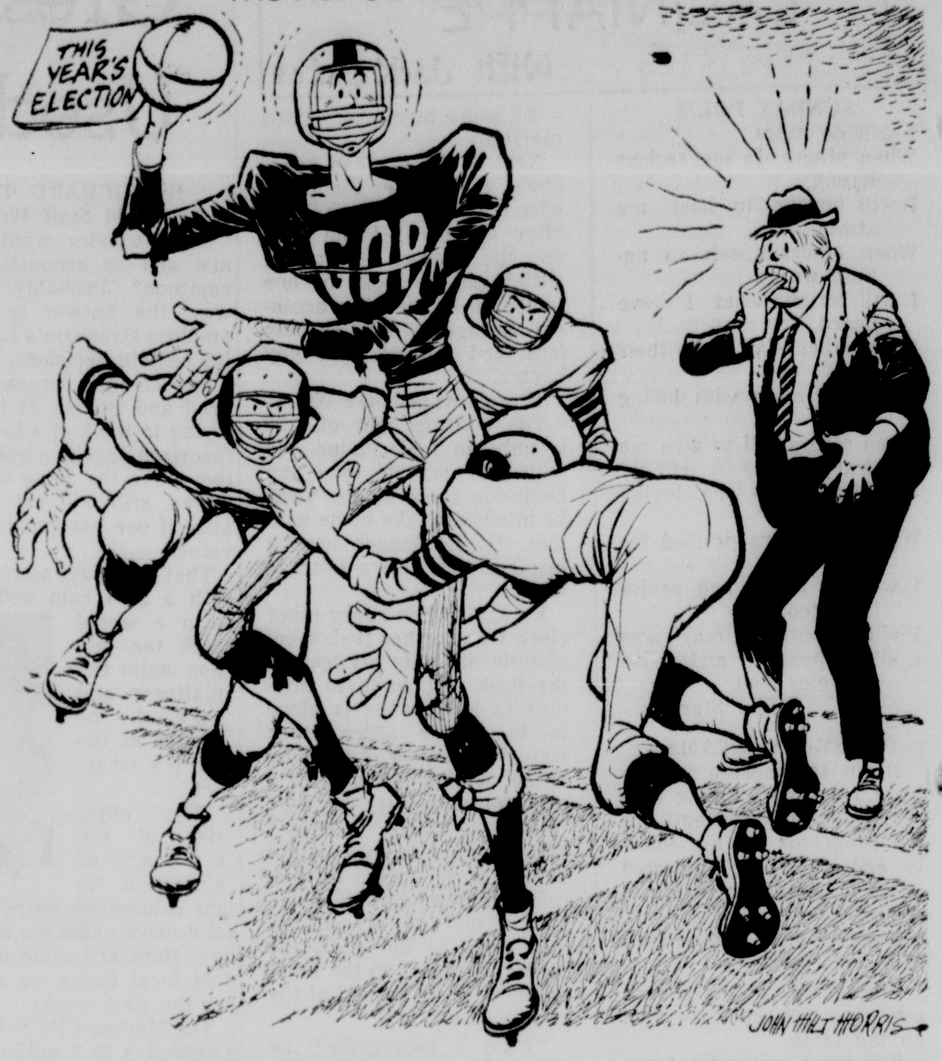
But why should the party have any appeal to the young?

"Oh, the excitement of personal production — personal responsibility — rather than government responsibility," Brock said. "The alternative is security. There's no challenge, no excitement, for young people in security."

Now, midway between elections, any honest appraisal would put the Republican party down as still depending largely on hope: hope that splendid issues and candidates will be found, that rival factions can be glued together, that Johnson will fall into a messy political swamp.

Possibly Brock sizes up this hope as well as anybody.

"I don't honestly know where we're going," he says. "We're going through a catharsis, a soul- searching. I think we'll be a better party for what we've gone through the past 12 months."



THE ALL-OR-NOTHING PLAY!

Cease Fire In India-Pakistan Conflict Is Meaningless

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — They cannot afford it and don't really want it, but India and Pakistan are preparing busily for round two in their Asian tragedy.

It's not certain whether they will clash again in the villages and dusty plains of the Punjab, or the desert of Rajasthan and Sind. But more bloodshed and misery seem in the cards.

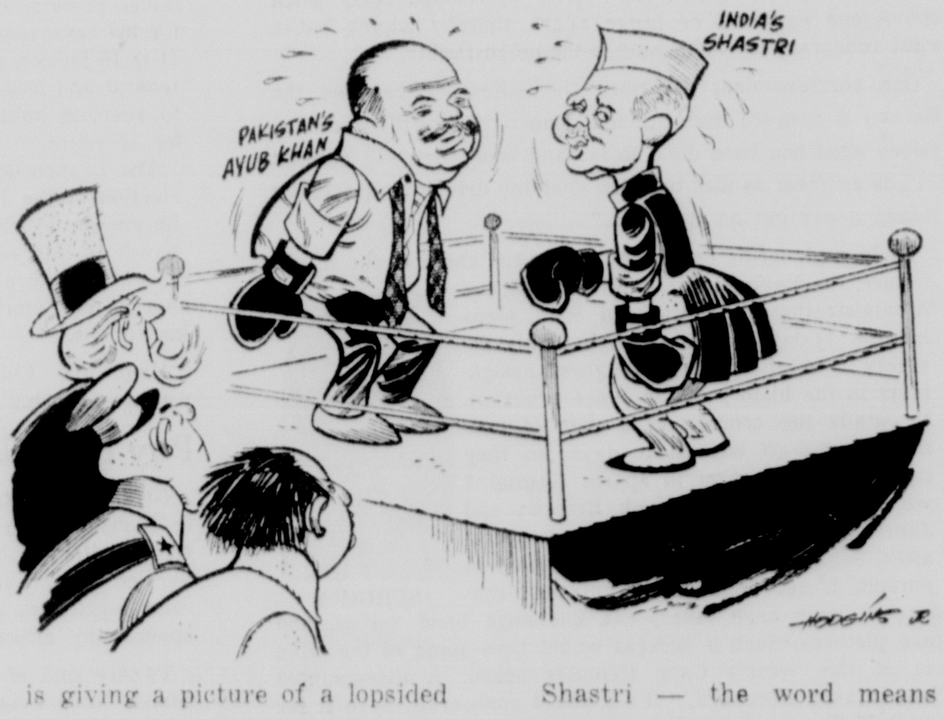
It becomes clearer each day that the 22-day duel these two impoverished giants fought in September settled nothing. Peace in the subcontinent, in fact, may be further away because of it.

Both nations are like schoolboy warriors who feel they would have triumphed in an alley brawl — if only teacher had not intervened to help the other fellow. Next time, they boast, the enemy will get a sound thrashing.

Leaders on both sides warn of renewed war and openly attempt to maintain and even increase the feverish nationalism aroused by the fight that erupted after 18 long years of bickering and skirmishing. There were charges of rape, pillage and arson — the stuff of atrocities. Religious hatreds and "save our women" are themes employed in' what clearly are government campaigns to prepare public opinion for the stern days ahead.

"We will march on New Delhi," the Pakistanis shout, "and fight for 1,000 years."

"Look out," the Indians retort, "or we will stroll into Lahore."



Round one indicated each country was better at such huffing and puffing than capturing the other's cities. Tactical post-mortems show they fought to a battlefield draw last time. But the Indian and Pakistani publics do not know that. Each is giving a picture of a lopsided victory and this inspires the grass roots demand for another go at the foe.

At the moment the only question seems to be:

— Will India and Pakistani go all out again with tanks, jets and large infantry units, or settle for limited bloodletting across cease fire lines where the fire never ceases?

— How long will it take to re-equip and reinforce the war machines in these two countries near economic chaos by only 22 days of all-out fighting?

The mood in India is that all out war may come again — and so much the better if it does. Jingoism has been unleashed. War, the armed might of India, the righteousness of India's cause — these are the topics of the day.

Almost daily Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri goads the nation to great alertness, apparently feeling the nationalistic enthusiasm thus aroused can be turned against other foes, particularly the perennial food crisis, if not against the Pakistanis.

Shastri — the word means "Eminent Scholar" — leads the nation in the adoration of new heroes — grenade-throwing infantrymen who assaulted Pakistani pillboxes or gunners, dubbed "Patton killers," because they destroyed American-made Pakistani tanks.

Change the names and the story is the same in Pakistan. The subcontinent, it appears, may never be the same again.

For one thing, a crisis in America's relations with India and Pakistan, brewing for years, has been hastened by the conflict. Washington has attempted to maintain friendships with both warring neighbors, but both now say: "Anyone not with us is against us."

Indian leaders openly speak of mistrust of the United States and other Western powers they accused of being pro-Pakistani. Washington is charged with playing politics with its aid — India has received more than $6 billion since 1952 — and of not assisting Indian diplomats under siege in Pakistan during the conflict.

From Shastri on down, Indian leaders constantly tell their people that what victories Pakistan's army and air force were able to win were the result of their having American-made equipment — received, the Indians say as payment for joining the U.S.-backed CENTO and SEATO military alliances.

The Soviet Union has gained popularity in India while the United States has lost. Moscow, like Washington, pressured India to call off the fight with Pakistan and never once espoused India's cause. Indian leaders, however, assure their people the Soviets privately promised support and this has made the Russians great heroes.

As for Britain, its stock never has been lower in India. There have been strong demands that India withdraw from the Commonwealth over what is called Britain's perfidy during the conflict — in other words, London's refusal to give India diplomatic and military support.

But regardless of how they storm against the United States, the Indians need Washington and its aid very badly and there are indications that cooler heads are trying to calm things down.

About 20,000 tons of American wheat is unloaded in Indian ports daily and this is the difference between life and death for thousands of Indians. India's agricultural effort hasn't been able to feed the nation's 480 million people, and dislocation resulting from the Pakistan conflict makes the outlook even dimmer — and makes American aid more important.

The same is true, but to a lesser extent, in Pakistan, which has received more than $5 billion in U.S. aid since 1961.

India appears in worse shape than Pakistan as a result of the conflict. Reserves of usable foreign exchange are down to a few millions of dollars and huge bills and debt repayments are looming ahead. In addition, nations that have supported India for years are showing reluctance to commit themselves to new aid that might go to finance round two with Pakistan.

The economic upheaval in Pakistan has been near disastrous. Hundreds of American technicians, for example, have been evacuated from AID projects underway in many areas of East and West Pakistan — and nobody seems to know when they'll be able to return and get the work going again.

India's long-range economic planning has been thrown out of kilter and government economists have been ordered to redraft plans for the fourth five-year economic development plan, scheduled to begin next year. The emphasis will be on agriculture and defense, with industrial development — the darling of late Prime Minister Nehru — getting only third priority.

There is a chance that an economic blockbuster could be thrown into all of this — that Shastri will order development of nuclear weapons and a delivery fleet. He is under strong pressure to develop an Indian nuclear capability on the grounds that Western nations, including the United States, cannot be trusted to come to India's aid.

Indian scientists are believed capable of turning out a nuclear device in 18 months or less, but construction of the planes and missiles to deliver a nuclear strike would be a long and expensive — proposition. There is in the government, however, a seeming determination to build a military might that cannot be challenged — even if a hungry nation has to go hungrier to finance it.

A key to the rethinking of India's nuclear policy is the threat of Communist China, now a nuclear power of sorts. The Chinese threw their weight behind Pakistan in the recent conflict, menacing India's northern border at a time when Pakistan's land army on the western front was in serious trouble.

This was one large factor in the stalemate that developed in the Lahore and Sialkot sectors of the western front. Indians did not dare commit more men and equipment against the Pakistanis with the knowledge that thousands of Chinese, backed by a nuclear arsenal, no matter how small, might come pouring through the mountains from the north.

The Chinese, who fought a border war with India in 1962, thus underlined the fact that in the future they are going to have a strong role in the subcontinent's politics — and wars. Indians feel they never again will be able to regard Pakistan as a nation of 110 million people. Now the Pakistanis are backed by 650 million or so Chinese.

Ironically, however, the Chinese intervention helped bring about the cease-fire. Fearing escalation to Asian-wide or world-wide conflict, the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union and the United Nations moved in. For once, the great powers pulled together — backing cease-fire attempts by United Nations Secretary-General U Thant.

Each great power also independently made it clear to Pakistan and India that it frowned upon the conflict. A cease-fire agreement ostensibly went into effect Sept. 23. It was broken almost immediately by both sides.

Guide To Good Reading

Interest Higher Among The Public

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

With the first cool days, there is an increased interest in reading among the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Visit one of the libraries and examine the wonderful collection of books which we have to offer you. "Never Step On a Rainbow." by Winifred Wolfe is a story of superstition and fear, but once you start it, you are captured by it's spell. "The Mule On The Minaret" is Alec Waugh's first novel in six years. It takes place in the Middle East during W W II and it is an absorbing story. "Across the Common" by Elizabeth Berridge is an extremely well-written story of a woman's return to the scenes of her girlhood. There is not a great deal of action, but the mood is excellent. "The Waters Under the Earth" by John Moore is a tranquil, traditional English novel, which will please the many readers who are tired of the realism of many modern novels. "The Sun In Scorpio" by Margery Sharp does not come up to the level of her earlier books, but there are devoted readers who will want to read it. "The Instant Saint" by John Sherlock is the story of an American Doctor and his efforts to raise funds for his hospital in a Chinese refugee camp. There are many readers who will enjoy this one.

Many of our patrons are devoted readers of mystery stories and there are a number of new titles waiting for them. "Call it Accident" by Rae Foley is another Mr. Potter mystery. "Caribbean Mystery" by Agatha Christi takes the indomitable Miss Marple to a Caribbean Island, where she does some clever sleuthing. "The Pale Betrayer" by Dorothy Salisbury Davis is a story of intrigue and international espoinage. "The Man From Moscow" by Philip McCutchan is another Commander Shaw mystery. "The House at Satan's Elbow" is another of John Dickson Carr's delightful combinations of suspense and romance. "Deadfall" by Desmond Cory is a super suspense story and another good mystery is "Afraid Of the Dark" by Mary Linn Roby.

There are a number of significant books in the non - fiction field. "How Many More Victims" by Gladys Denny Shultz is a study of crimes against women and what legal safeguards are needed for our protection. "Menagerie Manor" is another delightful book by Gerald Durrell, recounting his adventures with animals. A most useful book is "The Low Carbohydrate Diet" written by Evelyn Fiore. It contains menus and recipes. A book in the popular medical field is "The Dangerous Cold" by Noah D. Fabricant. "High Steel, Hard Rock, and Deep Water" written by Richard W. O. O'Neill is a most interesting account of the exciting world of construction.

Musicians will want to see "The Four Ages of Music" written by Walter Wiora. It is an excellent history of the subject. "The Kimona Mind" by Bernard Rudofsky is an informal guide to Japan and the Japanese people. It is well done and will be of special interest to those who have visited the country. A perfectly lovely travel book is "The Portugal I Love" by Michel Deon and others. The pictures are magnificent and it is a book which will make each one who reads it, want to go to Portugal. "How The Heather Looks" by Joan Bodger is a joyous Journey to the sources of English children's books. This is not a book for every reader, but will be thoroughly enjoyed by parents, teachers and librarians. Most useful to students is Frank E. Halliday's "Concise History of England from Stonehenge to the Atomic Age.

A new biography is that of "Rochambeau" who did so much to help us during the Revolutionary War. The author is Arnold Whitridge.

NEW DEAN of the Louisiana State University School of Medicine is Dr. John C. Finerty of Miami, Fla. His appointment, approved by the University president and Board of Supervisors of the LSU System, was announced Saturday by Dr. William W. Frye, chancellor of the LSU Medical Center at New Orleans. Dr. Finetry is presently associate dean of the University of Miami School of Medicine. He will assume his duties at the LSU School of Medicine early next year.

U.S. Image Weathers Leftist Storm

(EDITOR'S NOTE — How do college students in other lands feel about the U.S. stance in Viet Nam? The Associated Press tries to sound out students at random and to talk with their deans. Here are the findings.)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

To a Japanese student, the Americans in South Viet Nam "are good natured but very foolish." He thinks they ought to get out.

A Filipino student feels "Red China is helping North Viet Nam, so the United States should help South Viet Nam."

A Latin American youth boils at the word "intervention," and thus condemns the American role in Southeast Asia as he sees it.

Many European students couldn't care less about the U.S. role in Viet Nam.

On the whole, a sampling of student opinion on three continents suggests the U.S. image has not fared as badly as the clamor often raised by the vocal left might indicate.

In some areas — notably Latin America — many students have been captivated by leftist ideas, largely because of restiveness churned up by backwardness of their own nations and eagerness to seek economic and political cures overnight.

The demonstrations, teach-ins, draft card burnings and the like in the United States have captured student attention abroad. But sympathy, or lack of it, depends upon the individual student, his background, his area, his political orientation and his own nation's problems.

Here is a sampling of how students regard the Viet Nam issue in some of the world's Key areas:

The Far East—

University authorities in Japan guess that nine of ten university students oppose the U.S. role in Viet Nam in varying degrees, but only 10 per cent of these actively demonstrate.

Violent reaction comes from students affiliated with the extreme left Zengakuren Association and the leftist Tokyo Students Association.

Among the rest, a feeling of opposition to the United States stems from the idea that the Americans are fighting Asians on Asian soil.

Student T. Mashiko, 22, of Tokyo University, finds the Americans "good natured but foolish," because, to his way of thinking, Americans don't seem "to understand the true sense of national independence" the way Asians understand it.

Japan's campus publications constantly discuss Viet Nam and authorities say almost all oppose U.S. actions. One student, Naoki Usui, 22, of Tokyo University, who concedes he is a rarity, says that while it's too bad Americans must fight in someone else's land, North Viet Nam should realize it "can't win the war by stepping up Viet Cong guerrilla activities."

The other side among Japanese students is typified by Masaru Hirata, 23, a Tokyo University student who recently visited Red China with a delegation and was received by Mao Tze-tung.

He blames everything that is happening in Viet Nam on "U.S. imperialism," and goes down the line for the Communist side's demands.

Some students profess to be favorably impressed by draft card burnings in the United States and some, even though describing themselves as moderate in view, agree that the Americans ought to give up trying to solve the Indochina problems with arms.

In the Philippines, the reaction has been different. The nation, a member of the SEATO alliance, has a stake in communism's plans for Southeast Asia.

Most students interviewed on campus agreed with U.S. policy, and all interviewed reflected low opinions of Moscow and Peking.

Antonio Fontanella, 23, of Ateneo de Manila University, felt U.S. policy was justified because it was "containing communism." Reynaldo Acosta of the University of Santo Tomas called U.S. policy wise, a need help."

University authorities said they could not tell if the opinions expressed in the sampling reflected the majority, but one Santo Tomas aculty member offered the opinion that most Filipino students would support the United States.

Europe—

Most British university students seem to have taken little interest in the Viet Nam conflict. A few protest demonstrations, despite wide publicity, attracted a small percentage of the student population.

Last week, the Oxford Union, a debating society, voted 332-273 to reject U.S. policy, but the Cambridge Union at Cambridge University voted overwhelmingly last spring against a motion that "the Americans should get out of Viet Nam."

Miss Agnes Headlam-Morley, professor of international relations at Oxford, said that from her talks with students and teachers, "I would not say that Viet Nam has damaged America's image in Oxford nearly as much as you would think from all in the press and television."

Historian Hugh Trevor-Roper said that while he believed respect for America went down a bit in academic circles because of some U.S. actions in Viet Nam, "respect for America certainly has not plummeted."

In France, division was along political lines. Of seven university students interviewed, two on the right approved the U.S. position, two on the left disapproved.

Illness Denied

NEW DELHI (UPI) — A spokesman for Nizam Hyderabad Saturday denied Indian newspaper reports that Nizam was seriously ill. Nizam, 80, is reputedly one of the world's wealthiest men. Estimates of his personal fortune range from 400 to 800 million dollars.

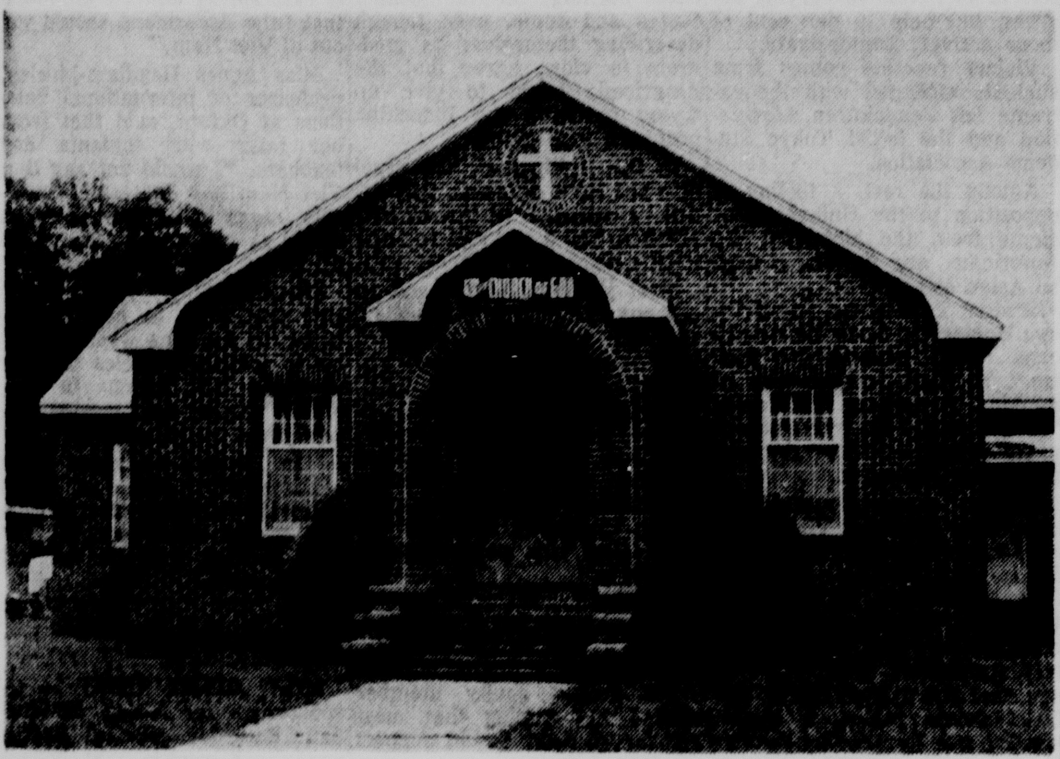
There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities . . .

Be doers of the Word.

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, FA 3-3660, FA 3-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.



THE CHURCH OF GOD, 2500 Georgia St., Monroe, will be the scene of special emphasis on a program in November to attract unchurched families. The work of committees and officials of the church for the participation in the "Beyond These Walls" observance, will be spotlighted at services Sunday, November 14.

Participation In Program Is Announced

Officials and committee members for the participation of the Church of God, 2500 Georgia St., Monroe, in a nationwide "Beyond These Walls" campaign will be presented at services Sunday, November 14, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. James Miller.

Rev. Miller said that the local congregation is joining with some 1,500 churches across the nation during the month of November, in the evangelistic program designed to attract unchurched families.

ATTENDANCE NEED

"While church membership in our nation is at the highest point in history, regular church attendance is proportionately low," said the Rev. Miller.

Observance of "Beyond These Walls" by the local congregation will be marked by special services each week. Special emphasis will be given to community canvass and personal contact.

The month of expansion service is being sponsored nationally by the Church of God, Sunday School and Youth Department in Cleveland, Tenn.

Monroe Baptist Temple Moves To New Location

The Monroe Baptist Temple, formerly located at 3018 Lee Ave., Monroe, is now holding services at 1500 South 2nd, it was announced by the Rev. Ray Woodard, pastor.

The present quarters are being rented, with an option to buy, said the pastor.

The church's schedule of activities includes, Sunday: Sunday School, 10 a.m.; morning worship, 11 a.m.; young people's meeting and Bible study, 6:30 p.m., and evening worship, 7:30. Midweek worship, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The church was established July 27, 1964, starting with five persons in attendance. Attendance now is around 50 for Sunday worship, and has reached as high as 70, said Rev. Woodard.

The independent Baptist Church is affiliated with the Baptist Bible Fellowship, Springfield, Mo., and is a member of the local East Texas-Louisiana Baptist Fellowship.

Rev. Mitchell Guest Pastor

The Rev. A. T. Mitchell of West Monroe will deliver the sermons today at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. services at Fairbanks Baptist Church.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. H. P. Tarpley will be taking part in a revival meeting today at Olla.

Pastor Favors Duty As Chaplain

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP)—Chaplain John E. Carter believes service by ministers in the Army Reserve makes them more effective pastors because it keeps them in closer touch with the realities of the world.

Chaplain Carter, assistant 100th Division training chaplain and pastor of the Okolona Baptist church near Louisville, was one of 11 chaplains on active duty for two weeks with the Army Reserve division.

"I come out here for two weeks with people who let their hair down and when I return I know that I am talking to the same people," he said.

POINT OF VIEW

"In civilian life, if you are not careful you will find yourself surrounded only by the best people, morally at least, and if you are not careful you will think that all the world is like this. You will get a twisted view.

"You are face to face with reality at summer training and can be a more effective pastor and preacher. It is not that these people are any worse, its just that you didn't know them."

Chaplain Carter and four other chaplains in the 100th had Army service before becoming a chaplain. He was an Army Air Corps sergeant major, a graduate of Infantry Officer Candidate School and an infantry officer in the 100th for four years.

Division Chaplain Hugh B. Goldsby of the Lyndon Baptist church and an armor lieutenant in Europe in 1944-46, said one of the main jobs at summer training is counseling basic trainees and reservists from their hometown units.

RUN FROM REALITY

Chaplain Goldsby said the main difference in Army and civilian problems brought for counseling is that more soldiers are trying to run away physically. "Few men are trying to leave home," he said. "But they try to escape responsibility inwardly by quitting their jobs or getting drunk for three or four days."

Chaplain Carter said the training in counseling also is a dividend to churches for the time they give ministers to attend Reserve training.

He said summer training provides a refresher course in counseling that few ministers are able to get after seminary graduation because the Army teaches the latest counseling techniques.

"I tell my congregation," he said, "that I don't give couch counseling but use the first sergeant method. I kick them so hard it knocks their brain back between their ears from where it had fallen."

Most of the Reserve chaplains echoed the opinion of Chaplain Carter that his congregation is "quite proud of the fact that I am a chaplain."

Many said they conducted services at their churches in uniform when time prevented a change of clothes during weekend drills.

Chaplain James D. Bruns of the Harrods Creek Baptist church, said he apologized for this once. Later, he said, "a lady reminded me her son wore the uniform in World War II and she didn't appreciate the apology."

REV. DAN BLAKE

Rev. Blake Evangelist At Revival Here

The pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jena, the Rev. Dan Blake, will be evangelist for revival services starting today at Highland Park Baptist Church, 2507 Oliver Road. Larry Kulcke, music director of the Good Hope Baptist Church, West Monroe, and former music director of the host church, will be guest singer.

The concluding messages of the revival will be presented Sunday, November 7, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. Edgar L. Wiggins. Weekday services will be at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

AFFILIATIONS

Rev. Blake is a graduate of Louisiana Tech, and New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. He is moderator of the LaSalle Association and board member of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home, Monroe.

Rev. Wiggins said the church is "nearing completion of one of its most fruitful and meaningful years in its 11 years history."

A nursery will be open during all of the services.

Community Day Observance Is Scheduled Here

World Community Day will be observed Friday by United Church Women of the Twin Cities with a program at St John's Christian Church in Monroe.

Featured speaker will be the Rev. G. Preston Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe. He will discuss "Laity Mission in World Affairs."

There will be a coffee at 9:30 a.m and the program will start at 10 a.m. and continue until 11 a.m. Service projects will then be sent to Latin America. They consist of sewing kits for home and health units working with women in that area. Mrs. Dan Cox is chairman of the Friday program.

FIRST SOUTHERN METHODIST CHURCH
preaching CHRIST
Crucified — Crowned — Coming Again

The SOUTHERN METHODIST CHURCH is doctrinally the same as the old M. E. Church, South. We teach and preach a fundamental, Wesleyan, Evangelistic Message that is diametrically opposed to the "One Church, One Government, One Race" apostasy of our times.

Anointed To Heal Broken Hearted

By REV. TOM HALE, PASTOR
First Southern Methodist Church, Monroe

(Luke 4:18) "He hath sent me to heal the broken hearted."

Do not be disturbed if you should learn that the so-called best manuscripts of the New Testament omit this text. You will not find it in the New English Bible.

If you wish, write it in the margin of your copy. Perhaps that is the way it came to be in the King James version. Someone who knew Isaiah 61:1 and who knew its inherent truth from his own experience wrote it on the margin of a manuscript. Of course, that is only conjecture. But it is not conjecture when we say that this text has been written upon the tissue of a multitude of human hearts, both in early times and today. If there is any truth in the world, this stands, that Christ heals the broken in heart.

At Nazareth Jesus announced that God had anointed him and had sent him to heal the broken hearted. To do this became the intention of his soul.

NATURE OF GOD

As he fulfilled this he revealed the nature of God. Remember that God sent him. Jesus, who could quote Isaiah, must also have known those tender and illuminating words of the 147th Psalm: "He healeth the broken in heart, and bindeth up their wounds. He telleth the number of the stars: he calleth them all by their names." How beautifully the love of God and the wisdom of God are linked together! His knowledge and his compassion are not separated. God has a mind and a heart. God knows and God cares. And God acts: He heals and binds up the wounds.

Christ fulfilled his intention. He actually went out from Nazareth and actually healed the broken hearted. We are amazed at his insight. How many times we pass by human need without noticing! The words of John concerning Jesus, "He knew what was in man," may refer to the deceitfulness of man, but they also have reference to man's deep need.

We are amazed at his insight when we consider such incidents as his conversations with the woman of Samaria and Nicodemus. He saw deep within the personalities of the woman in Simon's house (Luke 7) and the man sick of the palsy, who seems to have been carrying a burden of guilt and at the same time was suffering from a grievous bodily infirmity.

ANOTHER MALADY

There was also another malady of the heart of which Jesus was aware. It was emptiness of heart. He was aware of the fearful condition of the heart that has become a spiritual vacuum, (Matt. 12) It waits for seven demons to come and occupy it.

REV. TOM HALE

We are amazed at his compassion. Insight is not compassion. It is only the prelude to compassion. It is a divine art to become aware of another's need; it is more deeply divine to feel that need.

Francis Bacon was a wise man, but he was utterly mistaken when he said, "In this world, only God and the angels may become spectators!" Wallace M. Alston makes comment on this: "We have no spectator God! He never stands outside the tears and tragedy of life. He enters into every sorrow, shares every pang that rends the heart, stands beside every mourner; and he is in the experience with you to reinforce you and undergird you, then to see you through to the bitter end of it. The Cross of Christ is our eternal symbol that whatever we suffer, God is in it with us."

Deep in the heart lie man's greatest needs, his most intense suffering, his profoundest tragedy. It is deep within the human heart that Christ comes with his compassion and healing.

We rejoice in his power. Insight and compassion are sometimes not enough to meet the need. How often we have come face to face with desperate human need and have had our hearts torn with compassion and yet have been inadequate to the situation. How fortunate it may have been that we found ourselves in this predicament. Only Christ could be adequate. We had to bring the need of the person into contact with his compassion and power. His power was adequate.

Every true minister of Christ with any experience can relate examples of Christ's power to heal those of broken heart. We give one example from the ministry of the author. Several years ago I stood beside a broken-hearted mother of two teenage girls and a five-year-old boy. The husband and father was being buried and the grief-stricken mother confessed that her faith was shattered. Now she was groping her way back to the living and to a ray of hope for the future. That was several years ago. Here is a letter from the woman, written to the author recently:

"I thought you might like to know that I went back to the job of living as you suggested. I had several months of relying solely on the compassion of Christ to sustain me. I still miss David and will not be entirely happy again until I see him in Heaven. Judy (the youngest girl) will graduate from college this year. She is engaged to a fine young man from New York and plans to be married in the Spring. Susan is now working as a nurse in the local hospital. Wesley is in the fourth grade this year and is a real comfort to me. I am working in a business office here and we make a comfortable income. We have all found our ways in life and God has been good to us. It all looked so impossible a few years ago, but God has bound up our broken hearts and helped us to go on living. Ever since the day when I found Christ the way has grown brighter. He is a wonderful friend. I am afraid no longer."

When Christ heals the broken hearted he then uses them for the healing of others. It is one whose grief has been assuaged by the compassion of Christ who can channel his grace to a grief-stricken friend. It is the man who has been "through it" who helps his brother through. We become fellow laborers with Christ in healing the broken hearted. That belongs to the joy of our salvation.

News Briefs In Religion

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Catholic Homiletic Society has launched a new magazine, "Preaching," with a Baptist, the Rev. Dr. William D. Thompson, of Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, as associate editor.

The society's president, Father Sylvester MacNutt, commented:

"Since Protestants have always given the pulpit the place of honor in their churches, we have much to share and to learn in a continued dialogue on the theory and practice of preaching."

ARCHBISHOP TO VISIT

LONDON (AP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury (Dr. Michael Ramsey) will visit the island dioceses of Mauritius and Madagascar in November. The Church of England Information Office said he would be in Mauritius Nov. 20-23 and in Madagascar Nov. 23-25. The islands form two of 11 overseas missionary dioceses which are under the Archbishop's direct jurisdiction.

ANCIENT TOMB FOUND

ST. DAVID'S, Wales (AP) — A tomb believed to be that of Adam Houghton, Bishop of St. David's from 1362 to 1388, has been discovered during conversion work of the ruined St. Mary's College as a hall for St. David's Cathedral.

For centuries there had been conjecture about what had happened to the Bishop's body after King Henry VIII suppressed the college at the Reformation.

FIRST BISHOP

LONDON (AP) — The Venerable Kenneth G. Thompson, Archdeacon of Newark, has been appointed the Church of England's first Bishop of Sherwood, thus filling a new suffragan see created in the diocese of Southwell. He is 56 and served in World War II as a naval chaplain aboard HMS Rodney.

VIET NAM RELIEF

LONDON (AP) — Christian Aid, acting for the British Council of Churches, has allocated $28,000 for the relief of suffering among war victims in Viet Nam — both South and North. This is in response to an appeal by the World Council of Churches in Geneva.

Revival Opening At Brownville Methodist Today

A former pastor of Brownville Methodist Church, the Rev. Paul Durbin of Logansport, La., will serve as evangelist at revival services there starting today and continuing through Friday.

Services will be held today at 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m., and on week days at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m., it was announced by the Rev. Isaac A. Patton, pastor.

Music for the revival will be under the direction of Tommy Patton.

YORK ASKS FUNDS

YORK, England (AP) — The Rev. Alan Richardson, Dean of York, has appealed to the citizens of York to pledge 250 pounds ($900) a week to meet the running costs of historic York Minister. The Lord Mayor of York is backing the appeal.

The Minister receives nothing from state or local taxes.

5 Sessions On Outreach To Be Held

The First Christian Church, Oak and St. John streets, will conduct a School of World Outreach using the theme "Our Call to Mission and Unity."

The school will be held on five consecutive Sunday evenings, beginning with an all-church fellowship supper on November 7, at 5:45 P.M. The latter four Sunday evenings will begin with a "snack" supper at 6 o'clock.

There will be classes for kindergarten, primary, junior high, senior high, and adults, followed by an assembly program featuring a guest speaker, film strips and a dramatic skit.

Alton Howard will be the guest speaker November 7. Climaxing the school will be the Woman's Day Service on Sunday evening, December 5. The nursery will be open every Sunday evening during the series.

REV. PAUL SNELLGROVE

Evangelistic Series Starts Here Today

A special series of evangelistic services will start at Memorial Presbyterian Church, North 4th St. and Mill St., West Monroe, today and continue through Thursday.

Services today will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and Monday through Thursday at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., it was announced by the Rev. Hugh Bradshaw, pastor.

The Rev. Paul Snellgrove, pastor of the Union Church of Newellton, will be guest minister for the series. He studied at Bethel College, McKenzie, Tenn., and received a degree in theology from Cumberland Presbyterian Seminary.

BACKGROUND

He served for a number of years as a representative of a large manufacturing company before entering the ministry.

He held pastorates in Columbus, Miss.; Paducah, Ky., and Goodletsville, Tenn., before assuming the Newellton post four years ago.

The 7 a.m. week-day services will last 30 minutes and deal with a study of the Bible. Some phase of evangelism will be treated at each evening service.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

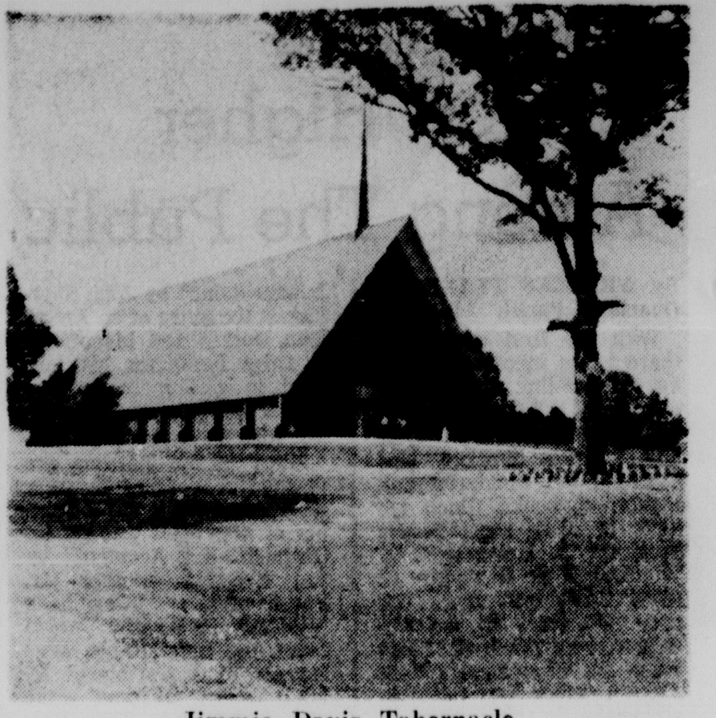
Is it possible for Christians to live by the high standards set by Christ? M. S.

One thing is sure, God never asks us to do anything that He will not give us the strength to perform. So often our trouble is that we try to live like Christians in our own wisdom and strength. This is no more possible than it is for you to lift yourself up by your boot straps. But, when we become Christians Christ comes into our hearts and gives us something we can never get in any other way. We fail when we forget to ask Him to help us, so we can live on the high standard He has given us because He lives in us. Suppose you tried to walk a dark and lonely road at night. You would much prefer to have a friend, particularly one who knows the road, to go along and lead you by the hand. You have exactly that privilege as a Christian, and the one who walks with you is the Lord of glory Himself. Every morning, commit the day to Him; ask His help and His guidance. Put yourself in the way of His teaching by prayerfully reading your Bible before you start the day. Turn everything over to Him. If you will do this, you will find life completely and gloriously changed.

TURNS PRIEST

LONDON (AP) — Four years after laying down his mitre and crook as Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of All England, Lord Fisher has started working as a parish priest in rural Dorset.

At 78 he is filling in at Sherborne for the former rector, the Rev. J. E. Mackean, who has emigrated to Tasmania. When a new rector is appointed, Lord Fisher will return to retirement, largely occupied by lecturing.



Jimmie Davis Tabernacle

Area Tabernacle Is Used By Many

By CAROL ALBRITTON

Beside a scenic and rather lonely stretch of highway, six miles outside of Jonesboro, in the Beech Springs community, a lush green hill ascends from two sides to form a peak, which makes a perfect setting for what it regally complements. There stands in the foreground, rising to its own pinnacle to correspond with the hill beyond, a monument of beauty.

It is the Jimmie Davis Tabernacle, erected in his honor by friends all over the state.

Very near this site Jimmie Davis grew up, went to school, worked on the farm, struggled with poverty and hardship as the second child in the line of eleven children of sharecropper parents.

It is a reminder of the quiet yet relentless determination of that boy which prodded him to worked his way through school and return to the area to teach in the small rural school on these same grounds.

It is a reminder of the love of music and the joy of singing which brightened his early years and later brought him national renown as a singer —long before he became a significant political figure who served two terms as governor of Louisiana.

SURROUNDING AREA

The acreage surrounding the tabernacle is a scene of hills, occasional oak and pine trees, well - landscaped grounds and parking areas. The tabernacle has sharply slanting roofline and a tall impressive spire.

The brick tabernacle, whose front is enhanced by an oval arch and an immensity of purple stained glass above the entrance, has a seating capacity in auditorium and balcony of about 750. Inside, the building appears even more massive because of the large laminated beams which give it the same curvature as the exterior. Here, the interior is a mixture of brick combined with rich panelings and slender panels of purple stained windows, a picturesque baptistry and limed oak pews. Aside from this, in the other areas of the building, elaborate dressing rooms and restrooms are provided, and a water fountain which is fed from the 800 foot well on the grounds.

The tabernacle is available to any church group of any faith or any worthy function which has need of this large seating capacity, and is particularly available for musical functions. An old fashioned singing school was conducted there by the Lester Family with considerable success, setting the trend for this to be an annual summer event. On the night of the grand finale of the school when the participants performed for the public the building was packed and the crowds extended out into the grounds. As the average-appearing man in the loose fitting suit rose from the choir loft and walked to the microphone, a hush came over the audience. When the mellow voice began the strains of "Someone to Care," the auditorium vibrated with applause which revealed that Jimmie Davis, the celebrated host, was on stage.

DEEP MEANING

The tabernacle has deep meaning for his many friends all over Louisiana who financed the one-half million dollar structure, and to the local people who are proud of the contribution to their town.

Across the highway, opposite the tabernacle, is a unique building depicting a part of the earlier environment and atmosphere of Davis' life — a small log cabin store which caters to tourists and passers-by, offering souvenirs, soft drinks, and old-fashioned relics. Its name: Peckerwood Hill Store. The origin of the name? Jimmie Davis's boyhood nickname, "Peckerwood." Here, beside the wide sprawling porch is the old-fashioned water well, complete with wooden bucket and tin dipper and wash bowl on its frame. Mounted upon the wall nearby, of course, is the small mirror and the towel upon the rusty nail. Around the corner near the side entrance hangs a mop and a washtub, and on the steps a covered crock.

OLD HOMEPLACE

Flanked on the left of the tabernacle in the distance is the once-used old homeplace of Davis' parents: weather - beaten, clean - scrubbed. Here, too, is a wide porch, water well and its accessories. A neat heap of firewood on the porch near the left entrance gives hint of the warmth and welcome of a fireplace inside. Small circles of petunias grow in the yards, enclosed by rubber tires.

Inside, the basic necessities of another day are preserved and cherished; the old family trunk, the grandfather clock, the well-worn Bible and picture album, the stark iron bedstead made less prosaic by a soft feather mattress and bright crisp spread with matching spotless curtains. A wooden table, wooden chairs, a wood burning stove in the kitchen; floors scrubbed shining-clean everywhere, and bare walls brightened with simple treasures; mantle laden with assortments of past essentials: salve, liniment, turpentine, quinine. Memoirs of the hardships and day-to-day hurdles of that other era. Memoirs, too, of the companionship of the closeknit Davis family, of their spiritual faith and fiber.

REV. GRANT CLARK

Simsboro Pastor Will Preach At Fellowship Meet

The Rev. Grant Clark, pastor of Simsboro Baptist Church, will be evangelist for revival services to be conducted at Fellowship Baptist Church of Monroe starting today and continuing through Sunday, November 7.

He is a former pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Monroe and has held pastorates at Swartz, La., Hernando, Miss., Ripley, Miss., and El Paso, Texas.

Fellowship Baptist Church is located south of Charity Hospital in the Greenacres Subdivision. The Rev. C. Roger Johnson is pastor.

Sunday services will be held at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Weekday morning services Tuesday through Friday will be at 9:30 o'clock. Evening services Monday through Saturday will be at 7:30.

Salvation Army Revival Services Beginning Today

Salvation Army revival services will begin today in the chapel on Hart and Harrison Streets. Guest speakers will be Major and Mrs. Ernest Wixson, divisional secretary from New Orleans.

Major Wixson will speak in the morning services and Mrs. Wixon will address the women at special services at 6:30 p.m.

Conducting the services beginning Monday will be Lieutenant and Mrs. Roger McLemore, assistant officers of the Salvation Army in Shreveport.

Services will be held nightly at 7 through Saturday, Nov. 6.

EAST SPEAKER

Wade B. East, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe, will address a men's meeting 7 p.m. Monday at the Trinity Baptist Church in West Monroe, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. James B. White.

Pirates Rout Northeast 45-0

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

Single wing football may be a rarity but East Carolina proved rather convincingly here Saturday night that it still has its moments—it had 60 of them at Ouachita High Stadium —as the Southern Conference Pirates swash-buckled their way past Northeast State 45-0 before a sparse crowd of Tribe supporters.

Performing with precision-like effectiveness, East Carolina swept past Northeast with ease to up its record to 5-1 for the year. The major college school is 2-1 in league play. Northeast is 1-6.

	East Carolina	Northeast
First downs	24	8
Rushing yardage	221	36
Passing yardage	231	108
Passes	18-31	8-27
Passes intercepted by	5	1
Punts	2-41.5	8-35.6
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	118	7

Throwing and running with equal ability the Pirates followed their two terrific backs, George Richardson and David Alexander, to touchdowns in every quarter and complete domination of the contest.

The touchdowns were split between Richardson and Alexander, each getting three to tie the Southern Conference single game scoring record, and kicking specialist Peter Kriz mopped up what was left of the point spread with six consecutive extra points and a 26 yard field goal.

Kriz, who did all his kicking soccer style, also claimed a Southern Conference record with his one game total of six extra points.

East Carolina rolled methodically to 24 first downs on 221 yards rushing and 231 passing —for 452 yards total offense — while the Indians had to fight every inch of the way for their eight first downs, 36 yards rushing and 108 yards passing.

It was evident from the start that not only was Northeast outmanned by the talented crew from South Carolina but also that it would have trouble defending against the smooth ball handling of the Pirates which often found them exchanging the ball three times on one play.

Northeast, meanwhile, never threatened seriously. The Indians moved inside East Carolina's 30 only once as five pass interceptions stopped Northeast before it could get started most of the game.

The Tribe's lone deep penetration carried to Carolina's 25 late in the second quarter.

Northeast had taken the kickoff following the Pirates' fourth touchdown and moved from its 21 behind Allen Bozeman's running and passing.

The 54 yard drive that lasted 10 plays consisted of three first downs and features two Bozeman pass completions good for 37 yards. He first hit end Ken Holland with a 11 yarder then found halfback Lynn Mitchell on a 26 yarder that put the ball on Carolina's 25.

However, two plays later the drive went astray when Ira Bullard picked off a Bozeman toss at the Carolina 15 and returned to the 22.

The Indians did have good field position most of the third quarter and went to the Carolina 44, 33 and 36 on drives from their own end of the field, but each time the Pirates rose up to stop the march before it took on a serious appearance.

Carolina's scoring was well spread out. The Pirates tallied twice in the first quarter, added two touchdowns and a field goal in the second stanza and pushed across single tallies in each of the last half quarters.

Richardson put Carolina on the board with its first score 12 minutes deep in the opening period when he capped an 80 yard drive that took nine plays by hauling in an Alexander pass from 10 yards out.

Alexander and Richardson completed passes in the drive. In fact they were the only two backs to carry the ball during the march.

Richardson's second touchdown was set up when Bullard picked off a Steve Mansur pass at the Tribe's 40 and returned it to the 10. Alexander carried to the three on first down and Richardson hit off tackle for the score on the following play.

And so, the rout was on.

East Carolina made it 21-0 only 30 seconds into the second period after another Mansur pass was intercepted by Robert Ellis at the Tribe 45 and returned to the 31.

From here it took only five plays to storm across with Alexander getting his first six-pointer on a three yard run.

The visitors got possession at their own 36 a few minutes later following a 33 yard Alton Thomas punt and they promptly set out on another scoring drive.

This one ended with three points instead of seven, however, when Northeast, with the help of a fourth down penalty against Carolina at the three, rose up to stop the Pirates.

After the offside penalty pushed the ball back five yards to the eight, Kriz came in to kick his field goal.

The Indians forced Kriz to try another field goal later in the second period when Carolina bogged down at the Tribe's 22, but this one was not good. Northeast took over on its 20, but on the first play Bozeman's pass was intercepted at the 28 by Harold Glaettli and returned to the five.

Richardson scored on the next play, with 3:59 left in the half, and Carolina led 31-0 at intermission.

The Pirates' third quarter score came at the end of a 67 yard drive that again featured the play of Richardson and Alexander. It was Alexander's time to score on this one and he made it from three yards out.

Big play of the drive was a 42 yard pass and run play from Richardson to end Ruffin Odom that carried from the Carolina 38 to Northeast's 20.

The last Carolina scoring drive, a 63 yard march in 13 plays, came with eight minutes left in the game. A tired, but surely content, Alexander scored from a yard out. Kriz pranced out and did his job to end the scoring.

Richardson finished the night with 103 yards on 16 carries while Alexander ran 26 times for 86 yards. Alexander tried 17 passes and hit on 12 of them for 112 yards.

Mansur connected on six of 22 passes for 88 yards. Fullback Charles Bailey led Northeast rushers with 29 yards on nine trips.

East Carolina	14	17	7	7—45

EC—Richardson 10 pass from Alexander (Kritz kicked)
EC—Richardson 7 run (Kriz kicked)
EC—Alexander 3 run (Kriz kicked)
EC—FG Kriz 26
EC—Richardson 5 run (Kriz kick)
EC—Alexander 3 run (Kriz kick)
EC—Alexander 1 run (Kriz kick)
Attendance: 4,000 estimated.

EAST CAROLINA tailback George Richardson goes up for a jump pass from the single wing formation during the second quarter of Saturday night's contest with Northeast at Ouachita Stadium. Richardson scored three touchdowns for the Pirates who downed Northeast 45-0. The major college team, a member of the Southern Conference, picked up its fifth victory of the season against Northeast. Ole Miss Goblins Pull Trick

By JACK GATES
Executive Editor
News-Star—World

JACKSON, Miss. — Louisiana showed up here Saturday, but that was about all as it all but played dead before just an average Mississippi team, giving the Rebels an easy 3-0 victory in a game marked by weird calls, pass interceptions and unusual fumbles.

It was the worst performance by an LSU team since the Ole Miss game at Baton Rouge two years ago when the Rebels won 37 - 3 in a similar type game.

Nothing the Tigers tried, clicked as they stumbled and fumbled through a long afternoon during which they posed no serious threat to the fired up Rebels, who obviously were playing over their heads.

JACKSON, Miss (AP) — Statistics of the Louisana State-Mississippi football game:

	LSU	Miss.
First downs	4	11
Rushing yardage	12	140
Passing yardage	40	87
Passes	3-12	6-13
Passes intercepted by	0	3
Punts	9-43	9-43
Fumbles lost	4	2
Yards penalized	5	71

It was the first time LSU had been shut out in a game since the 1960 Kentucky game which the Wildcats won 3 - 0.

It could have been different, but an injury and two calls that were hard to understand killed any hopes the Tigers might have had.

The injury was to Nelson Stokley, the sensational sophomore quarterback of the Tigers who was injured on the third offensive play by the Tigers in the first period. After he emerged from a pileup on the Rebels 48, he hobbled to the sideline and did not reappear in the contest.

When the game was over, Stokley said he twisted his ankle when a spike caught in the turf as he tried to cut on the dash.

With Stokley out, Pat Screen, who has failed to make much of a showing this season after suffering a series of crippling injuries the past two years, tried his hand at quarterback, but was repeatedly smeared when he tried to pass and failed to generate any offensive spark.

Late in the third period, the tigers called on Billy Ezell, who was quarterback last season, but who had been playing on defense this season. But it was to no avail. He fumbled the first two times he handled the ball and had two of his passes intercepted.

The damaging blow to any LSU hopes came with Stokley's injury and a weird penalty that nulified a 97 - yard touchdown run by LSU halfback Joe Labruzzo early in the second period after the Rebels had gone ahead 3 - 0 on a 22-yard field goal by James Harvey. It was unusual in that seldom is a team receiving a punt called for offsides.

Had the touchdown stood, the Tigers would have led 7 to 3.

In the first period, defensive back Jerry Joseph intercepted Mississippi quarterback Jimmy Heidel's pass on the LSU 20 in what appeared to be a perfect play, but the official ruled that Joseph went out of bounds before he had full possession of the ball.

Late in the same period, officials became confused on a touchdown try by the Rebels. LSU's defense, putting up one of its best goalline stands in several games, had held the Rebels twice within the 1 yard line. On the third attempt, two officials called a touchdown for Mississippi, but as LSU players protested — and on good grounds — it was ruled no score. The Tigers pointed out that the Rebel that crashed into the end zone did not have the ball. The back who did had lost around on the try.

However, it didn't matter as Mississippi scored on the next play.

Later in the game, LSU end Doug Moreau was knocked to the ground on a pass play before the ball reached his area, but the penalty was not called.

In all, LSU fumbled six times and lost the ball on four of them. Two were by Labruzzo on kickoffs and gave the Rebels possession deep in Tiger territory.

In the statistical department it was almost unbelievable. The Rebels picked up a total of 11 first downs to the Tigers' four. They picked up 140 yards rushing to a mere 12 for the Tigers and another 87 yards passing to 40.

Despite not showing any offense, being held to a total of only 52 yards, the lowest for any LSU team in remembrance, the Tiger offense actually set up the Mississippi scores by miscues. These were a field goal and a touchdown in the second period, a touchdown in the third and another in the fourth.

The loss probably knocked LSU out of any hope of the conference title and a bowl bid. It now has a record of five wins and two losses. Both defeats came in conference play.

Almost from the start, the Rebels showed they were on the prowl. They couldn't move on the opening series and LSU did, moving from its 36 to the Rebels 47 in three plays. At that point Stokley was injured.

On the ensuing series, the Rebels, aided by a 38 - yard pass from Heidel to fullback Bobby Wade moved to the LSU 38. Two plays later Joseph made his interception, the ruling of which went against the Tigers. After that Ole Miss drove to the LSU four where Wade fumbled and Charles Moore recovered for LSU to halt the threat.

Two plays later, Labruzzo fumbled the first of two far the day and James Harvey recovered.

Three plays later, Harvey booted the field goal after the Rebels couldn't score a touchdown in three cracks at the line.

It was on the ensuing kickoff that Labruzzo went the 97 yards on a beautiful run only to have it nullified.

On the next drive, the Rebels scored their first touchdown to go ahead 10 - 0 with Mike Dennis going the final yard on a fourth down situation on an end sweep.

The second touchdown came with lighting quickness at the start of the third period when Labruzzo fumbled the kickoff, and Ole Miss recovered at the Tiger six. Two plays later, Dennis went over from the five.

Late in the third period, Ezell went in for Screen, after Screen had given up a pass interception a few minutes before. On the first play, he fumbled. Then later in the period, Ezell fumbled on the one, but recovered this time. On the next LSU offensive series in the fourth period, Ezell had a pass Tommy James at the Tiger 21. After the Tiger defense, which played a good game most of the way, held, Jimmy Keys tried a 45 yard field goal which went wide.

On LSU's first offensive play after that, James Nelson for the Rebels intercepted another Ezell pass and went 26 yards for Ole Miss' final touchdown.

Actually LSU was bottled up in its own backyard most of the day.

The Tigers only crossed midfield twice and that barely. Both times fumbles halted the drive, the first by Screen at the Rebel 38 and the other by Ezell at the Rebel 48.

Individually, Screen attempted six passes, completed two for 29 yards and had one intercepted, while Eezll tried six, completed one and had two intercepted.

For the Rebels, Heidel hit on six of 13 for 87 yards. Wade, who had a field day running, picked up 92 yards followed by Dennis with 60.

Several times in the game, Rebel punter Chuck Norman got breaks as his punts took a Mississippi bounce. Three times the ball was kicked dead or downed inside the Tiger five yard line and on at least half the offensive series, the Tigers were inside their 15.

Leonard Neumann, a top defensive player from Tallulah, turned in one of the top plays for the Tigers. He saved an almost certain touchdown in the second period by tipping a pass — that had touchdown written all over it — at the last possible second.

'Greatest Victory' For Johnny Vaught

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—"The greatest victory I've ever had," Mississippi Coach John Howard Vaught said Saturday after his Rebels whipped Louisiana State.

And Vaught has been in the business for more than a quarter of a century, including 19 years at the helm of Mississippi's football fortunes.

"I just really don't know what to say," Vaught said as his players whooped it up in the Ole Miss dressing room. "I've been saying all along that this team was showing more improvement after each week, and they just played magnificently out there today."

Ole Miss, which earlier in this season dropped three consecutive Southeastern Conference games, shellacked LSU 23-0 and probably knocked the fifth ranked Tigers out of a shot at the SEC crown.

"There is not much I can say," was the comment from LSU's Charley McClendon.

"I've been saying all week that Ole Miss was good enough to knock off anybody in the country. No one should have been surprised at them, and we certainly weren't."

It just wasn't LSU's day from the start. The field telephones were not functioning properly when the game started. Quarterback Nelson Stokley was injured on LSU's third offensive play. And the bad breaks just kept piling up with the Tigers loosing the ball four times on fumbles and three times on pass interceptions.

"I was hurt in trying to cut," Stokley said. "My spikes just dug too deeply in the ground when I tried to run."

The sophomore sensation missed the rest of the game. Team doctors say it will be today or Monday before they can determine the extent of the injuries to his right knee.

"It wasn't our defense," said McClendon. "We did as well as we have done this year, but they whipped us in the line offensively."

LSU guard Don Ellen told of his headon battle with Ole Miss sophomore Jim Urbanek.

Everytime I thought I was just about to get the best of him, he hit me just a little bit harder," Ellen said, "that guy is just a monster."

Urbanek, who weighs 240 pounds, also won praise from Vaught but the Mississippi coach said he thought "our team effort was just beyond description."

Perhaps the most dejected player in the LSU dressing room was Billy Ezell, but the youngster from Greenville, Miss., didn't show it.

For the third year, Ezell had come off the bench and pinch hit at quarterback.

"I just never expected it this year," said Billy, who played practically every down at safety on defense until he had to go into the game at quarterback in the fourth quarter.

It was the first time this fall that Ezell had taken a snap from center on offense. He had to go in when No. 2 quarterback Pat Screen hurt his hand.

It was in the LSU-Ole Miss game last year that Ezell had to switch suddenly from defense to offense after Screen was injured.

Last year Billy brought the Tigers from behind to win 11-10 but this Saturday, LSU was too far behind.

LSU QUARTERBACK Nelson Stokley (14) could not find a receiver when he dropped back to pass so he ran four yards for a first down in the first half against Ole Miss in Jackson Saturday, just one of four the Tigers had all day. Mississippi tackle Jim Urbank (79) pulls Stokley down. Rebs' John Madox (85) on right, and LSU's Donald Schwab (42) is on left. (AP) Wirephoto)

Cowboys Beat Wildcats 10-0 In GSC Play

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — McNeese used a hard nosed defense and a powerful offense Saturday to crush Louisiana College 10-0.

McNeese, tied for the Gulf States Conference lead, scored on the last play of the first half on its non-conference opponent when Mike Madere booted a 32-yard field goal.

PINEVILLE, La. (AP) — Statistics of the McNeese-La. College game:

The three pointer was set up when the Cowboys drove from their 49 to the Louisiana College 16 in 11 plays.

McNeese's other score was set up when the Cowboys recovered an LC fumble on the second half kickoff at the Wildcats 14. Four plays later Merlin Walet blasted over from the three.

Walet was the night's leading rusher collecting 115 yards in 24 carries.

McNeese's defense limited its opponents to four first downs and only 91 yards in offense.

Tle Cowboys picked up 247 yards of offense and 16 first downs.

Louisiana Tech Takes 20-6 Win

By STUART HILL
World Sports Writer

RUSTON — Louisiana Tech put on an electrifying show before an already chilled partisan crowd here Saturday night and took its second consecutive victory, 20 - 6, over Tennessee Tech in an intersectional game.

Playing against he explosive Golden Eagles, the Bulldogs turned in offensive and defensive maneuvers that makes the Canines deserving of the pre - season press clippings they rated.

The Bulldogs spotted Tennessee a first quarter score and then picked up 13 points in the second quarter after getting seven in the first to take the winning margin into the dressing room at halftime.

The victory is the second for Tech, which dropped its opening three games. Tennessee Tech a member of the Ohio Valley Conference, is now 3 - 4 on the season.

Billed as a possible high-scoring affair, the two teams concentrated on defense throughout the second half and both did a reasonable job with Tennessee presenting the only threat of the last half.

Tennessee got the first score quickly. Flashy Roy Sinkevich took a pitchout from quarterback Tommy Van Tone for the final nine yards to cap a 60-yard drive with 11:53 remaining in the first period. Tech's Larry Stephens broke through to get a hand on the PAT attempt, causing the ball to bounce off the bars.

The Yardstick

	Tenn.	La. Tech
First downs	15	18
Yards rushing	201	150
Yards passing	53	163
Passes (A-C)	14-6	19-11
Had intercepted	2	1
Punts-Average	5-36.6	4.28.5
Fumbles lost	0-0	4-3
Penalties	6-53	4-30

During the Tennessee drive, 20 yards and a first down came as a result of penalties against the Bulldogs.

Two series later the host Tech team got on the scoreboard with 1:21 left in the opening quarter. Robert Brunet, the LaRose Cutoff speedster, broke down the sidelines for 57 yards.

Speedy Campbell kicked the PAT to give the Canines a 7-6 edge.

The next Bulldog score came with 4:19 left in the half and was set up on a Robert McKinnon pass interception. Another pass interception netted the Canines another score less than a minute later.

Tom Robertson intercepted a Van Tone pass and scooted 37 yards into the end zone with 3:20 showing on the clock.

Fifty nine seconds earlier, Billy Laird, who completed 11-17 passes during the night, sneaked over from the one to cap a 54 - yard drive that required 13 plays following the McKinnon pickoff.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Tennessee set up shop on its own 32 yard line. Sinkovich carried for nine yards on the first play before Robertson snagged his score-producing interception.

Campbell, who successfully kicked the PAT following Tech's second score, missed on the third attempt of the night after a five yard penalty.

Tennessee drove to the Bulldog 16 yard line with 3:20 left in the third period but the Canines held twice with only one yard needed for the first down to halt the threat.

Early in the fourth, the Golden Eagles marched their own 40 yard line to the Bulldog 28 when the drive again faded with three yards needed for the first.

After stopping the Eagles at the 28, the Canines began moving upfield before a fumble stopped any scoring march at the Tennessee 47.

The Tennessee drive that halted on the Tech 16 began on the Eagle 15 yard stripe.

Joe Raymond Peace of Sicily Island chopped the Eagle runners to the tune of 14 individual tackles followed by Jim Stringer of Vidalia and Campbell with five apiece.

Tennessee's Larry Jinright covered two fumbles and had four tackles for the Eagle defenders. Chuck Hines and Jerry Cantrell stopped the Bulldog runners seven times each.

The game had been billed as a possible offensive production and that it was for one half. The second half was the type of hardnosed football that keeps mothers worrying and former football players cringing.

Laird hurled for 163 yards with his favorite receiver Wayne Davis picking off four for 55 markers.

Brunet carried 10 times for a net of 60 yards with Tom Linder taking the ball 11 times for 54 yards. Richie Golmon also carried 10 times and was thrown for only one loss as he netted 40 yards.

Tennessee fullback, Don Reeves, a stubborn runner, carried 18 times for 100 yards. Mainly because of Reeves' efforts, the Eagles rolled up 201 yards rushing while the Bulldogs netted only 150.

Texas Southern Tops Grambling

GRAMBLING, La. (AP)—Texas Southern scored three touchdowns in the fourth quarter to upset highly touted Grambling College, 26-6, in a Southwestern Athletic Conference game Saturday.

Southern took the lead in the first period on a 25-yard run by John Douglas. Grambling came back to tie the score when Henry Dyer raced into the TSU end zone from 15 yards out.

Southern scored touchdowns in the final period on a five-yard run by Willie Porter, Leon Hick's three-yard scamper, and Westley Williams' one - yard plunge.

Arkansas Grabs 19th Straight, 31-0

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Speedy Bobby Burnett bolted for a pair of touchdowns and opened the gates to second-ranked Arkansas' 19th straight victory 31-0 over battered Texas A&M Saturday night.

The Razorbacks kept their Southwest Conference lead by pushing their record to 4-0.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The statistics of the Texas A&M-Arkansas football game.

	Texas A&M	Arkansas
First downs	7	21
Yards rushing	45	226
Yards passing	131	216
Passes	12-24	13-28
Passes intercepted by	1	2
Punts	10-40.1	9-38.9
Fumbles lost	1	9
Penalties	1-5	3-62

The 190-pound Burnett turned on his speed and burst into the end zone on runs from the one and seven and piled up 81 yards rushing in the first half against a stubborn crew of Cadets.

The Razorbacks, with the nation's longest major college winning streak, tied A&M's 1939-40 conference record for consecutive victories and Texas' 1962-64 conference record of 12 straight league triumphs.

The inspired Aggies blunted Arkansas' first six possessions and turned the first 22 minutes into a punting duel. But then Burnett supplied the power for an 80-yard, seven-play march that broke the ice with 6:53 left in the second quarter. He gained 39 yards in the drive and got the score from the one.

Arkansas scored on its next three possessions, going 77 yards in nine plays for Burnett's touchdown from the seven, then marching to a 25-yard field goal by Ronny South for a 17-0 halftime lead.

Defensive end Bobby Roper recovered a fumble that led to the Razorbacks' second touchdown and his pass interception set up the field goal.

Quarterback Jon Brittenum, finding the Aggie defenses looser after Burnett's show, hit nine of 20 pass attempts for 138 yards, including a 12-yarder to wingback Jim Landsey for a touchdown. South later threw a 34-yarder to end Bob Crockett for another Razorback score.

Burnett passed teammate Harry Jones to take the conference rushing lead with 594 yards. Jones is second with 565 yards. Burnett also moved into a tie for the scoring lead with Texas Tech's Donny Anderson. Each has 60 points.

The Aggies' deepest penetration of the night carried to the Arkansas 15, their only trip inside the Razorback 20.

A 42-yard pass interference penalty against Arkansas gave the Aggies a first down at the Razorback 22 and in four plays they got to the 15, where they gave up the ball on downs.

Jackets Rally To Top Duke In 4th Stanza

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia Tech twice had to battle from behind Saturday before marking up its fifth straight football victory, 35-23, over a determined band of Duke Blue Devils.

Tech's Yellow Jackets, who have lost one and tied one, finally put the game on ice when line backer Randall Edmunds intercepted a pass from Duke quarterback Todd Orvald and rambled 20 yards for the touchdown. Bunky Henry's conversion kick made it 28-16.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Statistics of the Duke-Georgia Tech football game:

	Duke Ga.	Tech

Passes	17 27	12-15
Passes intercepted by	1	3
Punts	2-53	3-37
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	49	37

That score came only one minute after Tech had come from behind for the second time as bullback Doc Harvin plunged over from the one. The Jackets moved 71 yards in 11 plays in that drive, including passes from Tech's sophomore quarterback Kim King for 10 yards to tailback Lenny Snow and for 20 and 19 to end Gary Williams.

Duke had gone ahead in the third period as Orvald hit Dave Dunaway on a 28-yard scoring pass. The conversion attempt by Mark Caldwell was wide and the Blue Devils led 16-14.

The passing of King, which has been spectacular in Tech's last five games, was just as sparkling Saturday. He threw 15 times with 12 completions to run his total offense to more than 1,000 yards for the season. Three of his tosses went to wingback Craig Baynham for touchdowns.

Williams, Mary Top Southerners On Field Goal

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—William and Mary turned Southern Mississippi's own weapon—the field goal—against them Saturday and rode to a 3-0 Oyster Bowl football victory on Donnie McGuire's 31-yard boot with 39 seconds left in the first half.

It was the first time in 12 games that the Southerners had been shut out.

And, for the stubby McGuire, it was the first field goal he had ever kicked.

William and Mary's Indians fumbled six times but recovered all of them plus four fumbles by Southern Mississippi.

The Southerners went into the game with a 5-1 record and leading the nation's major colleges in defense, allowing only 163.5 yards per game. Even in losing, they allowed the Indians only 174 yards, but the Southerners picked up a meager 131.

William and Mary hounded Southern's ace quarterback, Vic Purvis, who was ranked ninth in the nation in rushing with 5.99 per carry. In the first half, Purvis carried eight times but lost 7 yards. He averaged less than a yard per carry for the game.

Bisons Defeat Ozark 38-0

SEARCY, Ark. (Special) — The Harding College Bisons took a 38 - 0 decision over College of the Ozarks here Saturday night.

Jim Howard who prep at Neville in Monroe, was top ground gainer of the night although he did not score. Howard picked up 125 yards on 25 carries and upped his total yardage for the season to 750 yards — good enough for second best rusher in the AIC.

Don Dickson, Bison freshman quarterback, opened the scoring in the first period with a 11 yard six - point scamper on a keeper play.

Donny Cox added the first of two extra points during the night with a kick.

Gail Mote chalked up the second score on a four yard plunge late in the second period.

Harding went into the dressing room with a 13 - 0 lead at halftime.

The Bisons tallied late in the third quarter when Ken Glass scampered 26 yards to cap a 91 yard drive.

Cox returned a pass interception for 60 yards and a touchdown in the final frame.

Mike Plummer scored the next Bison tally on a six yard run, and John Broderhasen passed twenty yards for the last touchdown with Phil New on the receiving end of the pass.

Another Neville grad, Ronnie Killen was played a key part in the Bison defensive line that kept constant pressure on the Ozark quarterbacks.

Illini Knock

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Fullback Jim Grabowski's record-breaking rushing swept underdog Illinois to 21-0 victory over frustrated Purdue Saturday, dealing a final blow to Boilermaker Big Ten Football title hopes.

Purdue, seemingly still stunned by last Saturday's 14-10 loss to top-ranked Michigan State, was personally manhandled by Grabowski, who smashed 163 yards on 36 carries.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Statistics of the Purdue-Illinois football game:

Grabowski's performance, including a one yard touchdown smash for a 7-0 Illinois lead in the first quarter, broke an unofficial all-time career rushing mark for a Big Ten player.

Purdue's Bob Griese, the nation's No. 2 passer, not only had a wretched passing day but was humiliated in the fourth period when Illini end Bo Batchelder stole the ball out of his hands and raced 55 yards before Griese caught him from behind.

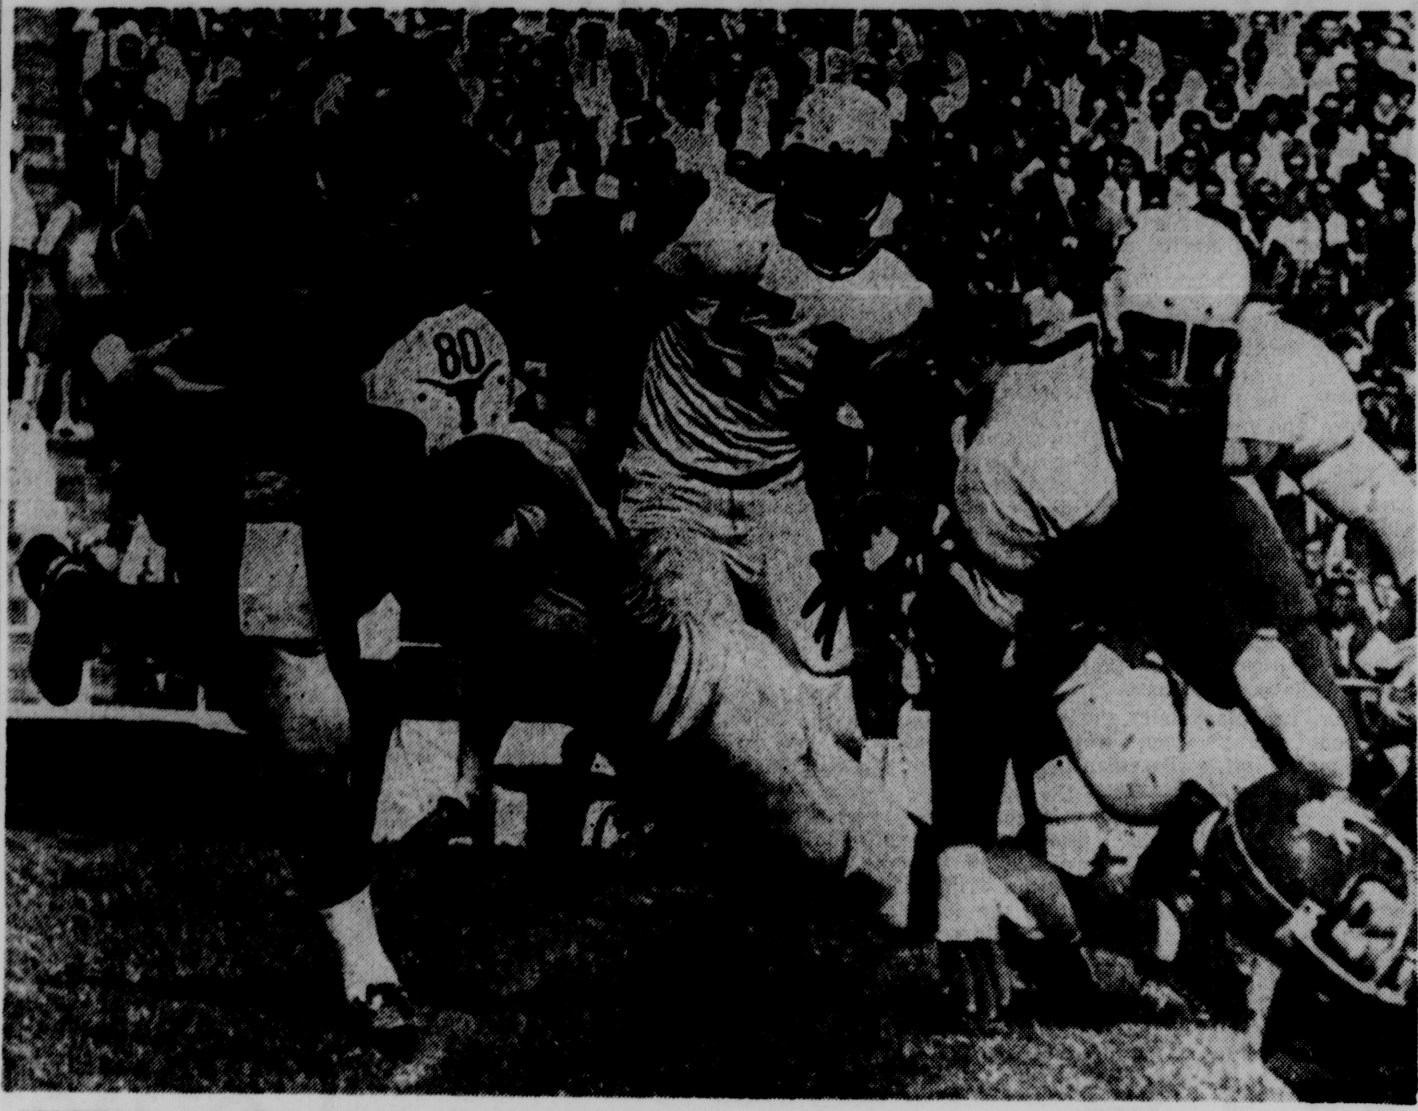
Weston Collects Own Tourney

JONESBORO (Special) — Weston captured first place in the boys division of the Weston Invitational Basketball Tournament with a 61 - 59 victory over Enterprise.

High scorer for Weston was Mike Milstead who managed 20 points while Enterprise's Elsie McCormick had 21.

The Enterprise girls captured their division honors with a 61-51 victory over Dotson. High scorer for Enterprise was Lois Wyant with 27 points and Dotson was led by Sheryl Caske with 34 markers.



SOUTHERN METHODIST back Max White picked up seven yards around right end and brought down by Texas end Barney Giles (80) during their game in Dallas Saturday. Coming in on the play are Texas players Diron Talbert (73) and Bob Stanley (51). SMU smothered Texas, 31-14. (AP Wirephoto)

Texas Is Beaten Again; This Time By SMU, 31-14

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sophomore Jim Hagle's 93-yard touchdown run broke open a tight game and Ronnie Reel's 58-yard return of an intercepted pass clinched it Saturday as Southern Methodist beat Texas 31-14 to stay in the running for the Southwest Conference football championship.

Southern Methodist jammed three touchdowns into the final period to humiliate the proud Longhorns.

Southern Methodist was beating Texas for the first time in six years, and it was the first time in 10 years for Texas to lose three games in a row.

A crowd of 48,000 rocked the Cotton Bowl as the Mustangs, who won only one game in 10 last season, won a battle of breaks.

Dennis Partee's 28-yard field goal and Mike Livingston's 32-yard pass that John Roderick wrestled away from Phil Harris and Gary Moore in the end zone gave SMU a 10-0 lead at the half.

Texas broke into the scoring column in the third period after a short kick by Corky Terry set the Longhorns up on the SMU 17. Texas scored in six plays with Bob Leach running across from the three.

But Southern Methodist exploded for three touchdowns in the final period — on Hagle's great run, the third longest in conference history — Reel's interception and a 45-yard pass from Livingston to Roderick.

Texas got its second touchdown in the final period on a 44-yard drive with sophomore Greg Lott, who took over from Marvin Kristynik, the veteran Texas quarterback who had a bad day, pounding over from seven yards out.

The crowd went wild. It was the first time SMU ever scored 31 points on Texas and was one of the biggest beatings the Longhorns ever absorbed.

SMU now has a 3-2-1 season record, Texas 4-3. The latter is out of the conference race for the first time in six years.

'Bama Holds Off State For 10-7 SEC Victory

JACKSON, Miss. AP) — Alabama defense stopped two fourth quarter rallies by Mississippi State Saturday night and the Crimson Tide squeaked by the Maroons 10-7 in a thrilling Southeastern Conference football clash.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Statistics of the Mississippi State-Alabama game:

	Alabama	MSU
First downs	12	16
Rushing yardage	154	116
Passing yardage	124	144
Passes	11-18	9-17
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	6-42	6-42
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	29	15

Sophomore defensive back Bobby Johns played a key role in halting both drives, led by State's scrambling quarterback Ashby Cook.

Johns picked off a Cook pass on the Bama eight with less than two minutes left to play. Johns also recovered a blocked Mississippi State field goal attempt just a few minutes earlier.

The victory gave the tenth-ranked Tide a 4-1-1 conference record and kept them in contention for their second straight conference title.

It was Mississippi State's third straight setback after four opening victories and it practically knocked the Maroons out of the league scramble.

Alabama stunned State when the game was less than two minutes old when Steve Sloan fired a long "bomb" to sophomore Dennis Homan, good for 65 yards and a touchdown.

The Tide pulled out front 10-0 in the third quarter on a 27-yard field goal by David Ray before Cook fired up his Maroons.

Cook completed only one of five passes before intermission, but his aerials carried Mississippi State to a quick touchdown just after the Bama three pointer. He completed six passes in succession, climaxing the thrust with an 11-yard heave to Marcus Rhoden.

Two minutes later Alabama fullback Steve Bowman fumbled and State's Jim Courtney recovered the ball on the Tide 37. Cook passed 22 yards to Dave Nugent to set up a field goal attempt by James Neill, but the kick was blocked by Bama's Wayne Cook and Johns picked the ball up and carried it back out for the Tide.

Alabama was forced to punt six plays later and State immediately began driving toward the Crimson Tide goal line. But Johns' interception of Cook's pass broke up the threat and Alabama ran out the clock.

The two teams were practically even in offense, with the Tide getting 278 yards total and State 260.

The game was the nightcap of a Dixie football doubleheader played in this Mississippi city. The afternoon game saw Mississippi upset Louisiana State 23-0.

Alabama takes on LSU next Saturday in a regionally televised game in Baton Rouge, while Mississippi State goes to Birmingham to play Auburn.

Alabama's over-all record is now 5-1-1 and the Maroons are 4-3.

in the last five minutes with three quick touchdowns. A 31-yard scoring run by quarter-Georgia score 26 points in the final quarter after North Carolina had gone ahead 35-21 in the third period.

Georgia broke the game open back Preston Ridlehuber sent Georgia into a 40-35 lead. The Bulldogs scored again when Hughes rammed over from the four after North Carolina gambled on fourth down and lost possession of its 24.

Trailing 35-21, Georgia scored early in the fourth quarter when Hughes went over from the one. Minutes later the Bulldogs added another touchdown when they drove 65 yards with Hughes scoring from the one.

With the score 35-34 in favor of North Carolina, the Bulldogs gambled on a two-point pass conversion which failed.

On the next kickoff, North Carolina fumbled and Georgia's Billy Cloer recovered on the Tar Heel 47. With 2:58 remaining, Ridlehuber raced 31 yards to score. The Tar Heels took the kickoff and gambled on a fourth down with six to go on their 24. A pass failed and Georgia took over and went on to its final touchdown with Hughes going over from the four.

North Carolina, now 3-4 for the season, scored two quick touchdowns in the first period, both by fullback Tom Lampman. One was on a three-yard run and the other on a 27-yard jaunt. A 63-yard pass play from quarterback Danny Talbott to end John Atherton set up the first score.

Georgia, which has a 5-2 record for the season, came back in the same period and scored when Jenkins rammed over from the one. A 38-yard punt return by Ridlehuber carried to the Tar Heel 24.

Irish Romp By Navy After Tight 1st Half

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Nick Eddy's 55-yard romp with a screen pass on the final play of the first half gave Notre Dame the halftime lead and the necessary momentum for a crunching 29-3 victory over Navy Saturday.

Until Eddy's storybook dash into the end zone as the clock ticked off the final second of the half, it appeared that the underdog Midshipmen were destined to hold an upset-making 3-0 lead. But the Middies quickly learned that history does repeat itself.

Last year in Philadelphia another underdog Navy team had held Notre Dame to a scoreless tie until the same Nick Eddy took a swing pass and rambled 74 yards for a second quarter touchdown to pave the way to a 40-0 Irish triumph.

Eddy's run on a screen pass from Bill Zloch was all the fourth ranked Irish needed to set them off. Notre Dame pounded across three more touchdowns in the third quarter to turn the game into a rout.

Notre Dame took the second half kickoff and stayed stricly on the ground, driving 64 yards in 13 plays with Zloch sneaking into the end zone.

The Middies had the ball for only two plays before Tom Leiser fumbled and Harry Long recovered for the Irish on the Navy 25. Again, Notre Dame stayed on the ground with Larry Conjar plunging over from the one-yard line to give the Irish a 21-3 lead with 3:15 to play in the third period.

Exactly 45 seconds later, Navy was forced to punt and Nick Rassas took the ball and returned it 66 yards for the final Irish touchdown. Bill Wlolski ran for two extra points.

Delta State Gets 16-7 Win From Florence State

FLORENCE, Ala. (AP) — Undefeated Delta State victimized its third Alabama football eleven here Saturday, upending Florence State 16-7 in a crushing defensive contest.

The Florence State Lions scored first on a 13-yard rush by wingback Ernest Realand.

With 28 seconds remaining in the first half, Delta's Payne Spence booted a 40-yard field goal to close the early Florence lead to 7-3 The Statesmen limited Florence to only three yards rushing and one yard passing in the second half, adding two touchdowns for the victory.

Their first touchdown came with just six minutes gone in the third period, after an interception at the Florence 32-yard line.

Quarterback Mike Vincent scored from four yards out to give Delta a 9-7 advantage. The next score came as the Statesmen drove 56 yards on five plays.

A Vincent pass to end Dwight Wiley carried for the final three yards. Spence added the point after touchdown.

The Statesmen from Cleveland, Miss., have also defeated Troy State and Howard College in trips to Alabama.

the college problem
won't go away

It won't until we do something about this crisis in higher education.

Some colleges predict that they soon may have to turn away qualified high school graduates.

If they do have to turn away these potential leaders, it will be because of shortages—in buildings, facilities, and especially qualified teachers.

But we need leaders, more and more. Leaders manage and make wise use of our manpower, resources and human skills.

Good leadership protects our high level in jobs, opportunities and living standards.

This is everybody's concern. Make it yours. Give to the college of your choice.

Nebraska Rallies To Edge Missouri

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Fred Duda, a tricky runner and bold passer, led third-ranked Nebraska in a tremendous comeback to a 16-14 victory over Missouri Saturday on little Larry Wachholtz's 26-yard field goal.

The winning field goal by Wachholtz with 5:56 left in the game capped Nebraska's uphill fight after trailing 14-0 in the first quarter.

Nebraska's victory, seventh in a perfect season, made Bob Devaney's club an overwhelming favorite to sweep on to the Big Eight football championship. A record crowd of 58,000 watched the Tigers fall to 4-2-1 for the season, 3-1 in the league.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Statistics of the Nebraska-Missouri football game:

Quarterback Gary Lane led Missouri to two touchdowns its first two times with the ball for its amazing 14-0 first quarter lead. The Huskers stormed back behind Duda, cutting it to 14-13 at halftime.

Missouri gave ground grudgingly in Nebraska's 51-yard drive that set up the winning field goal. A 15-yard personal foul penalty hurt the Tigers, moving the Huskers to the Missouri 17.

The running of Duda and 217-pound sophomore Charlie Winters led the winning drive. Missouri tried to come back, but halfback Kaye Carstens made a key fourth-down tackle on Earl Denny at the Nebraska 39.

Lane, a swift 200-pounder, made three big plays in Missouri's 80-yard opening drive. He completed passes for 15 yards to end Jim Waller and 41 yards to halfback Monroe Phelps.

Then Lane rolled out and scored on a 22-yard run, evading three men in his dance down the sidelines.

Missouri's Johnny Roland intercepted a Duda pass and Missouri moved 49 yards to score again in nine plays.

It was Lane again, with an 11-yard run and another 19-yard toss to Waller. Carl Reese slammed over. The tremendous blocking of Missouri tackles Francis Peay, 246, and Butch Allison, 230, led both drives.

The Nebraska comeback started when 252-pound tackle Walt Barnes blocked a Missouri punt.

A few minutes later Nebraska exploded 57 yards in four plays. Harry (Lighthorse) Wilson raced 36 yards to the one behind the blocking of Dennis Carlson, Tony Jeter and little Frank Solich. Pete Tatman scored the touchdown.

Beating the halftime clock, Nebraska drove 89 yards in 14 plays to score again. Duda made the big one, on fourth-and-one a beautiful fake into the middle and a 38-yard sprint around end to the one.

Tatman scored but the kick by Wachholtz was wide and Missouri led 14-13.

Tribe's Open Cage Spots Under Siege

A veteran and a sophomore who appeared in only seven varsity games last season appear to be the leading candidates to fill the two vacated places in Northeast State's basketball starting lineup.

After two weeks of pre-season drills, senior Billy Brooks (6-2) of Jonesville and sophomore Chris Rhodes (6-3) of Monterey have staked strong claims to the positions left open by the squad's two 1964-65 seniors, Larry Butler and Dick Williams.

Brooks, a starter in 1963-64 when he averaged 8.8 points a game, played in all but two of Northeast's 22 games last winter and averaged 4 points. He has been working out in Williams' old wing position.

Rhodes, a class C all-state player in high school ball, has been running in the post position held down by Butler last year. Rhodes averaged 2.4 rebounds and 2.6 points in his infrequent varsity appearances last year, collecting a high of 11 rebounds and 8 points in one game. With the Northeast freshmen team, he averaged 11.3 rebounds and 11.6 points.

Northeast's three returning starters are post man Paul Thompson (6-4) and outside shooters Tommy Enloe (5-9) and Glynn Saulters (6-2).

Other players ticketed for plenty of relief duty if they don't win starting positions are senior post men Lawson Swearingen (6-6) and James Brian (6-3) and point man Mike Vining (6-1) a junior.

Brian had been scheduled to pass up his final year of eligibility in order to serve as team manager and freshmen coach but the shortage of experienced post men prompted Coach Lenny Fant to call him back to the colors. Brain will continue, however, as freshman coach.

Brian's availability will strengthen the team considerably since the ex-sailor was a standout in several clutch situations during Northeast's drive to the Gulf States Conference championship last season.

Among other players who have performed well in practice this fall are sophomores Rich Bailey (6-2) and Ronnie Suggs (6-3) and freshman Ricky Peel (6-3).

Northeast will open the 1965-66 campaign here Nov. 22 against Arkansas A&M.

West Virginia Offense Halted As 'Cats Win

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A stiff Kentucky defense stopped the vaunted West Virginia offense cold as the Wildcats overran the Mountaineers, 28-8 in the Kentucky homecoming football game Saturday.

West Virginia, depending on the passing arm of quarterback Allen McCune, was allowed only 44 yards through the air. Kentucky's Rick Nrton, on the other hand, completed 11 of 18 aerials for 144 yards.

But the same was won on the ground, where Wildcat backfield aces Larry Seiple and Rodger Bird carried the weight of the offensive attack. Behind the determined running of Bird and Seiple, the Kentucky offense rang up 246 yards rushing.

The Mountaineers' top offensive star, Garrett Ford, was spectacular in carrying the ball 16 times for a net gain of 60 yards. But his backfield companion, Dick Leftridge, surpassed the top-billed Ford's efforts in gaining 75 yards in 16 carries.

Despite the hefty gains by Ford and Leftridge, the Kentucky defense halted the Mountaineers at the right times and held them to a single touchdown.

The only scoring in the first quarter came on a Kentucky drive that started on its own 37. But the Mountaineers dug in on their three, and John Andrighetti kicked a field goal for a 3-0 Kentucky lead.

Late in the second quarter with time running out, Norton took to the air and guided the Wildcats to West Virginia's six. Two plays later, Seiple took the ball over from the one to make the score 9-0. Andrighetti's kick failed.

During the opening drive of the second half, Kentucky's Norton went to the air again and passed himself over the 4,000-yard mark in three years of varsity football.

With Kentucky on its 40 and driving, Norton connected with Seiple for 28 yards to boost his career total to 4,007. The only other Wildcat ever to achieve this feat was Babe Parilli.

The Mountaineers got their only score in the third quarter. Leftridge capped a 67-yard drive when he scored from the four.

A pass for the points after was good to Bob Dunlevy.

The game was close at this point at 15-8, but Kentucky put it out of reach when it took over on fourth down and moved 40 yards in six plays, with Norton scoring on a four-yard keeper play.

Dayton Takes 13-7 Grid Win

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton grabbed an early lead and then held off repeated scoring threats by Ohio University as the Flyers defeated the Bobcats 13-7 in a non-conference football game Saturday night.

The Flyers scored twice in the first quarter on pass plays by quarterback Joe Rudolph.

J-H Jaycees Schedule Drag Races Today

JONESBORO (Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge Jaycees will sponsor a drag race on the recently completed Jonesboro Municipal Airport, today, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The winner of each class will receive a trophy. Four top eliminator trophies will be presented to the winners of the four eliminator classes. Cash prizes will be given to the four top eliminators also.

Over 150 cars are expected to participate, since this is a "bring what you got" race, so there should be plenty of excitement plus some fine competition among factory cars.

Cars will start from a stopped position just short of the starting line and will acclerate for one quarter mile where they will cross the finish line. Each race will be timed as to MPH and ETO by one of the best Timing Associations in the South. It is the Jaycees aim to run at least one race every minute down the quarter mile strip.

Admission will be $1 per person with children under 12 years of age admitted free when accompanied by a parent. Entry fees for cars participating will also be $1 per car plus $1 for the driver. In case of rain or inclement weather the race will be postponed and run either the weekend of the 7th or 14th of November.

Wolfpack Gets Victory, Gives Running Lesson

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — North Carolina State's Shelby Mansfield and Charlie Noggle gave Virginia a lesson in how to run with a football Saturday as the Wolfpack thoroughly spoiled homecoming for the Cavaliers 13-0 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Mansfield ran for 122 yards and the game's only touchdown, and Noggle added 83 in the surprisingly decisive victory for the Wolfpack, its third of the season in seven starts.

Bulldog Cagers Are Increasing Physical Drills

RUSTON (Special) — Increased emphasis will be placed on physical conditioning drills at Louisiana Tech this week as the Bulldog basketballers move closer to their opener against Little Rock University Dec. 1.

Coach Scotty Robertson is still experimenting with different combinations with sophs Tommy Gregory, 6-6 of St. Joseph, and George Stone, 6-3 of Ruston, elevated to the starting team last week. They are playing with Richard Peak, 6-11 of Pensacola, Fla., Leon Barmore, 5-10 of Ruston, and Jon Pat Stephenson, 6-2 of Shreveport Woodlawn.

Barmore was cited for his improved defensive play by Robertson. The Canine coach said there are still adjustments to make on team defense but that he is fairly well pleased with the press work by the squad. Play on the boards has been spirited and aggressive in early drills which has led Robertson to believe the rebounding will be much improved over last season.

Tech's offense, minus graduated four-year star Jerry Hood, has been coming along slower than Robertson anticipated. "We have been working against both zone and man-to-man defenses," Robertson said.

He said he is pleased with the play of all four centers on the squad. Besides Peak, these includes 6-10 junior Bob Watson of Logan, West Va., Gregory, and 6-5 soph Terry Ewing of Jonesboro. Both Gregory and Ewing have improved considerably in their board play.

The Tech squad, under assistant Don Landry, met the varsity Saturday afternoon in a scrimmage.

Vanderbilt Defense Bottles Up Greenies For 13-0 Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Vanderbilt used its strong defense to bottle up Tulane and roll to a convincing 13-0 Southeastern Conference football victory Saturday.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Statistics of the Vanderbilt-Tulane football game:

	Vanderbilt	Tulane
First downs	18	12
Rushing yardage	233	94
Passing yardage	79	141
Passes	5-10	13-32
Passes intercepted by	4	0
Punts	8-31	7-43
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	15	28

The Commodores' defense, ranked second in the nation, allowed the Green Wave to enter its territory only three times. Tulane's deepest penetration was to the Vandy 15 in the waning seconds of the game.

Defensive back Bernie Kemple led the fast, hard-charging Vanderbilt defenders who contained Tulane quarterbacks Bobby Duhon and Dave East.

Kemple also intercepted two of Duhon's first quarter passes and knocked down several others. Vanderbilt picked off four of 32 Tulane aerials.

After playing the first period between the 30-yard lines, Vandy scored when Steve Bevil broke loose on a 67-yard touchdown punt return.

It appeared that Bevil would stopped after making only a few yards of his runback, but a wall of blockers formed in front of him at the Tulane 40 and he was clear the rest of the way.

Toby Wilt's conversion attempt was wide and Vander led 6-0 with 11:50 remaining in the second period. Nine minutes later, the Commodores struck for another touchdown when Jim Whiteside drove over from the three.

The score capped a 56-yard drive that took 10 plays. Wilt's kick was true, giving Vanderbilt a 13-0 lead at halftime.

The Commodores dominated play in the third quarter, running all but eight of the 35 plays.

Vandy managed to drive to the Tulane seven but bogged down and Wilt attempted his first field goal of the game. It was wide.

Tulane's deepest threat came in the final period when the Greenies drove from their 18 to the Vanderbilt 15, where the Commodores held.

Quarterback Dave Waller of Vanderbilt was top rusher of the game, picking up 72 yards on 20 carries. He also hit on three of five passes for 47 yards.

Duhon was top man among Tulane rushers, carrying 11 times for 52 yards. He hit on seven of 18 passes for 60 yards.

East, who alternated with Duhon, connected on 6 of 14 passes for 81 yards. It was his passing that sparked Tulane's only scoring threat.

Davidson Topped

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Washington backed up Mike Holloran's running with a furious defense Saturday and rolled to a 23-7 Southern Conference football victory over Davidson.

Holloran, 185-pound senior halfback from Washington, gained 113 yards in 25 carries and scored two touchdowns, one on a five-yard run in the second quarter and the other on a five-yard pass from Steve Welpott in the third period.

Boatright Says Win Wasn't All Enjoyable

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

"I guess you could say the fans got their money's worth," Ouachita head coach Mark Boatright quipped Saturday, "but it wasn't particularly the kind of game I enjoy."

And you can see his point. Although his Ouachita team defeated West Monroe 14 - 7 it wasn't exactly the type of game a coach would call "enjoyable" whether he's winning or losing.

The outcome was in doubt until the last 41 seconds when Ouachita's James Hale picked off a Rebel pass at the Lions' two yard line to halt a gallant last ditch drive led by West Monroe quarterback Ronnie Wiggins.

And those kind of finishes make for gray hairs and ulcers no matter who's side your on.

Although naturally happy with the big victory, Boatright still refused to go overboard about his team's chances in the tight district 1 - AAA race.

"I am definitely glad to get that one behind us," the young coach said, "but right now all we can do is try to get ready for Byrd. They have a strong defense and we'll have our work cut out for us."

Ouachita plays Byrd in Shreveport Friday night.

The Lions are in front of the pack with a 4 - 1 mark but four other teams are still in the fight. Neville is second with 3 - 1, Woodlawn next at 3-1-1, Fair Park fourth with 3 - 2 and West Monroe is still alive with only one loss at 1-1-2.

Concerning the West Monroe game, Boatright said, "I felt our kids held up well against the running game after we made a few early adjustments and I was especially pleased with the work of Hale on defense all night.

"Dickie McNair also played well and Charles Carlisle did a good job at the monster man post for us," he added.

Boatright was high in his praise for Wiggins who almost single - handedly turned the West Monroe loss into at least a tie. Wiggins passed for 231 yards, completing six straight passes during one stretch of the contest, and scored all seven of the Rebs' points.

"We contained Wiggins fairly well on his called running plays but he scared me more when he rolled out to pass. I think he is an extremely fine scrambler and he came up with crucial yardage a couple of times like this," Boatright said.

Wiggins was especially effective with short flare passes to fullback Richard Ware in the last half. Boatright said his ends were coming up to meet Wiggins when he rolled toward them and his defensive backs couldn't move up quickly enough to cover Ware.

The Wiggins to Ware combination clicked five times, all in the last half, and they colaborated three times in the stretch drive near the end of the game.

West Monroe coach Walter Brister was out of town Saturday and unavailable for comment but he must have been proud of the courageous effort of his club.

Down 14 - 0 before it could get on the scoreboard at the end of the third quarter, West Monroe kept league - leading Ouachita's back to the wall much of the game and nearly all of the last quarter.

Utah Rallies

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Rich Groth hit Mike Butera on a 70-yard scoring pass in the closing minutes Saturday to bring Utah from behind for a 22-19 nonconference football victory over Colorado State University.

The Groth-Butera combination, which worked for another touchdown earlier in the game, highlighted the Utah homecoming celebration that looked for three quarters as if it would end in gloom.

Arkansas Grabs 19th Straight, 31-0

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Speedy Bobby Burnett bolted for a pair of touchdowns and opened the gates to second-ranked Arkansas' 19th straight victory 31-0 over battered Texas A&M Saturday night.

The Razorbacks kept their Southwest Conference lead by pushing their record to 4-0.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The statistics of the Texas A&M-Arkansas football game.

	Texas A&M	Arkansas
First downs	7	21
Yards rushing	45	226
Yards passing	131	216
Passes	12-24	13-28
Passes intercepted by	1	2
Punts	10-40.1	9-38.9
Fumbles lost	1	9
Penalties	1-5	3-62

The 190-pound Burnett turned on his speed and burst into the end zone on runs from the one and seven and piled up 81 yards rushing in the first half against a stubborn crew of Cadets.

The Razorbacks, with the nation's longest major college winning streak, tied A&M's 1939-40 conference record for consecutive victories and Texas' 1962-64 conference record of 12 straight league triumphs.

The inspired Aggies blunted Arkansas' first six possessions and turned the first 22 minutes into a punting duel. But then Burnett supplied the power for an 80-yard, seven-play march that broke the ice with 6:53 left in the second quarter. He gained 39 yards in the drive and got the score from the one.

Arkansas scored on its next three possessions, going 77 yards in nine plays for Burnett's touchdown from the seven, then marching to a 25-yard field goal by Ronny South for a 17-0 halftime lead.

Defensive end Bobby Roper recovered a fumble that led to the Razorbacks' second touchdown and his pass interception set up the field goal.

Quarterback Jon Brittenum, finding the Aggie defenses looser after Burnett's show, hit nine of 20 pass attempts for 138 yards, including a 12-yarder to wingback Jim Landsey for a touchdown. South later threw a 34-yarder to end Bob Crockett for another Razorback score.

Burnett passed teammate Harry Jones to take the conference rushing lead with 594 yards. Jones is second with 565 yards. Burnett also moved into a tie for the scoring lead with Texas Tech's Donny Anderson. Each has 60 points.

The Aggies' deepest penetration of the night carried to the Arkansas 15, their only trip inside the Razorback 20.

A 42-yard pass interference penalty against Arkansas gave the Aggies a first down at the Razorback 22 and in four plays they got to the 15, where they gave up the ball on downs.

Jackets Rally To Top Duke In 4th Stanza

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia Tech twice had to battle from behind Saturday before marking up its fifth straight football victory, 35-23, over a determined band of Duke Blue Devils.

Tech's Yellow Jackets, who have lost one and tied one, finally put the game on ice when line backer Randall Edmunds intercepted a pass from Duke quarterback Todd Orvald and rambled 20 yards for the touchdown. Bunky Henry's conversion kick made it 28-16.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Statistics of the Duke-Georgia Tech football game:

	Duke	Ga. Tech
First downs	25	17

Passes	17 27	12-15
Passes intercepted by	1	3
Punts	2-53	3-37
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	49	37

That score came only one minute after Tech had come from behind for the second time as bullback Doc Harvin plunged over from the one. The Jackets moved 71 yards in 11 plays in that drive, including passes from Tech's sophomore quarterback Kim King for 10 yards to tailback Lenny Snow and for 20 and 19 to end Gary Williams.

Duke had gone ahead in the third period as Orvald hit Dave Dunaway on a 28-yard scoring pass. The conversion attempt by Mark Caldwell was wide and the Blue Devils led 16-14.

The passing of King, which has been spectacular in Tech's last five games, was just as sparkling Saturday. He threw 15 times with 12 completions to run his total offense to more than 1,000 yards for the season. Three of his tosses went to wingback Craig Baynham for touchdowns.

Williams, Mary Top Southerners On Field Goal

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—William and Mary turned Southern Mississippi's own weapon—the field goal—against them Saturday and rode to a 3-0 Oyster Bowl football victory on Donnie McGuire's 31-yard boot with 39 seconds left in the first half.

It was the first time in 12 games that the Southerners had been shut out.

And, for the stubby McGuire, it was the first field goal he had ever kicked.

William and Mary's Indians fumbled six times but recovered all of them plus four fumbles by Southern Mississippi.

The Southerners went into the game with a 5-1 record and leading the nation's major colleges in defense, allowing only 163.5 yards per game. Even in losing, they allowed the Indians only 174 yards, but the Southerners picked up a meager 131.

William and Mary hounded Southern's ace quarterback, Vic Purvis, who was ranked ninth in the nation in rushing with 5.99 per carry. In the first half, Purvis carried eight times but lost 7 yards. He averaged less than a yard per carry for the game.

Bisons Defeat Ozark 38-0

SEARCY, Ark. (Special) — The Harding College Bisons took a 38 - 0 decision over College of the Ozarks here Saturday night.

Jim Howard who prep at Neville in Monroe, was top ground gainer of the night although he did not score. Howard picked up 125 yards on 25 carries and upped his total yardage for the season to 750 yards — good enough for second best rusher in the AIC.

Don Dickson, Bison freshman quarterback, opened the scoring in the first period with a 11 yard six - point scamper on a keeper play.

Donny Cox added the first of two extra points during the night with a kick.

Gail Mote chalked up the second score on a four yard plunge late in the second period.

Harding went into the dressing room with a 13 - 0 lead at halftime.

The Bisons tallied late in the third quarter when Ken Glass scampered 26 yards to cap a 91 yard drive.

Cox returned a pass interception for 60 yards and a touchdown in the final frame.

Mike Plummer scored the next Bison tally on a six yard run, and John Broderhasen passed twenty yards for the last touchdown with Phil New on the receiving end of the pass.

Another Neville grad, Ronnie Killen was played a key part in the Bison defensive line that kept constant pressure on the Ozark quarterbacks.

Illini Knock

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Fullback Jim Grabowski's record-breaking rushing swept underdog Illinois to 21-0 victory over frustrated Purdue Saturday, dealing a final blow to Boilermaker Big Ten Football title hopes.

Purdue, seemingly still stunned by last Saturday's 14-10 loss to top-ranked Michigan State, was personally manhandled by Grabowski, who smashed 163 yards on 36 carries.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Statistics of the Purdue-Illinois football game:

Grabowski's performance, including a one yard touchdown smash for a 7-0 Illinois lead in the first quarter, broke an unofficial all-time career rushing mark for a Big Ten player.

Purdue's Bob Griese, the nation's No. 2 passer, not only had a wretched passing day but was humiliated in the fourth period when Illini end Bo Batchelder stole the ball out of his hands and raced 55 yards before Griese caught him from behind.

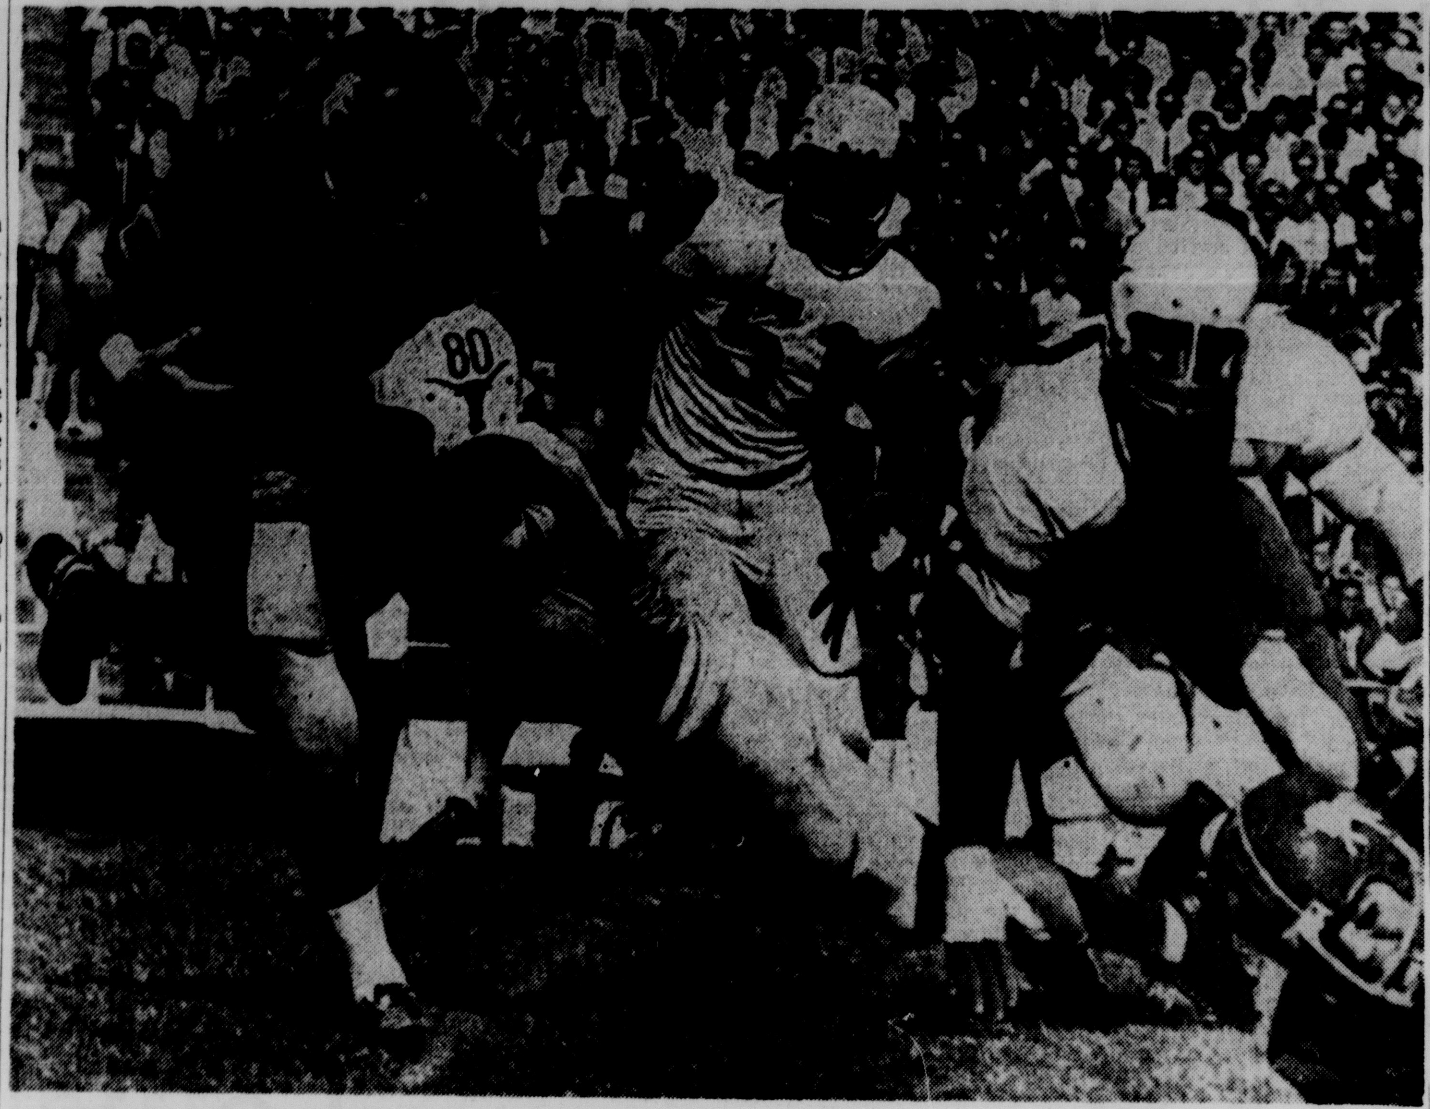
Weston Collects Own Tourney

JONESBORO (Special) — Weston captured first place in the boys division of the Weston Invitational Basketball Tournament with a 61 - 59 victory over Enterprise.

High scorer for Weston was Mike Milstead who managed 20 points while Enterprise's Elsie McCormick had 21.

The Enterprise girls captured their division honors with a 61-51 victory over Dotson. High scorer for Enterprise was Lois Wyant with 27 points and Dotson was led by Sheryl Caske with 34 markers.



SOUTHERN METHODIST back Max White picked up seven yards around right end and brought down by Texas end Barney Giles (80) during their game in Dallas Saturday. Coming in on the play are Texas players Diron Talbert (73) and Bob Stanley (51). SMU smothered Texas, 31-14. (AP Wirephoto)

Texas Is Beaten Again; This Time By SMU, 31-14

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sophomore Jim Hagle's 93-yard touchdown run broke open a tight game and Ronnie Reel's 58-yard return of an intercepted pass clinched it Saturday as Southern Methodist beat Texas 31-14 to stay in the running for the Southwest Conference football championship.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Statistics of the Texas-Southern Methodist football game:

Southern Methodist jammed three touchdowns into the final period to humiliate the proud Longhorns.

Southern Methodist was beating Texas for the first time in six years, and it was the first time in 10 years for Texas to lose three games in a row.

A crowd of 48,000 rocked the Cotton Bowl as the Mustangs, who won only one game in 10 last season, won a battle of breaks.

Dennis Partee's 28-yard field goal and Mike Livingston's 32-yard pass that John Roderick wrestled away from Phil Harris and Gary Moore in the end zone gave SMU a 10-0 lead at the half.

Texas broke into the scoring column in the third period after a short kick by Corky Terry set the Longhorns up on the SMU 17. Texas scored in six plays with Bob Leach running across from the three.

But Southern Methodist exploded for three touchdowns in the final period — on Hagle's great run, the third longest in conference history — Reel's interception and a 45-yard pass from Livingston to Roderick.

Texas got its second touchdown in the final period on a 44-yard drive with sophomore Greg Lott, who took over from Marvin Kristynik, the veteran Texas quarterback who had a bad day, pounding over from seven yards out.

The crowd went wild. It was the first time SMU ever scored 31 points on Texas and was one of the biggest beatings the Longhorns ever absorbed.

SMU now has a 3-2-1 season record, Texas 4-3. The latter is out of the conference race for the first time in six years.

'Bama Holds Off State For 10-7 SEC Victory

JACKSON, Miss. AP) — Alabama defense stopped two fourth quarter rallies by Mississippi State Saturday night and the Crimson Tide squeaked by the Maroons 10-7 in a thrilling Southeastern Conference football clash.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Statistics of the Mississippi State-Alabama game:

	Alabama	MSU
First downs	12	16
Rushing yardage	154	116
Passing yardage	124	144
Passes	11-18	9-17
Passes intercepted by	1	0
Punts	6-42	6-42
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	29	15

Sophomore defensive back Bobby Johns played a key role in halting both drives, led by State's scrambling quarterback Ashby Cook.

Johns picked off a Cook pass on the Bama eight with less than two minutes left to play. Johns also recovered a blocked Mississippi State field goal attempt just a few minutes earlier.

The victory gave the tenth-ranked Tide a 4-1-1 conference record and kept them in contention for their second straight conference title.

It was Mississippi State's third straight setback after four opening victories and it practically knocked the Maroons out of the league scramble.

Alabama stunned State when the game was less than two minutes old when Steve Sloan fired a long "bomb" to sophomore Dennis Homan, good for 65 yards and a touchdown.

The Tide pulled out front 10-0 in the third quarter on a 27-yard field goal by David Ray before Cook fired up his Maroons.

Cook completed only one of five passes before intermission, but his aerials carried Mississippi State to a quick touchdown just after the Bama three pointer. He completed six passes in succession, climaxing the thrust with an 11-yard heave to Marcus Rhoden.

Two minutes later Alabama fullback Steve Bowman fumbled and State's Jim Courtney recovered the ball on the Tide 37. Cook passed 22 yards to Dave Nugent to set up a field goal attempt by James Neill, but the kick was blocked by Bama's Wayne Cook and Johns picked the ball up and carried it back out for the Tide.

Alabama was forced to punt six plays later and State immediately began driving toward the Crimson Tide goal line. But Johns' interception of Cook's pass broke up the threat and Alabama ran out the clock.

The two teams were practically even in offense, with the Tide getting 278 yards total and State 260.

The game was the nightcap of a Dixie football doubleheader played in this Mississippi city. The afternoon game saw Mississippi upset Louisiana State 23-0.

Alabama takes on LSU next Saturday in a regionally televised game in Baton Rouge, while Mississippi State goes to Birmingham to play Auburn.

Alabama's over-all record is now 5-1-1 and the Maroons are 4-3.

Bulldogs Dump North Carolina

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Fullback Dan Jenkins and quarterback Lynn Hughes scored three touchdowns each as Georgia came from behind with a vicious offense to defeat North Carolina 47-35 Saturday.

The crowd of 43,000 was limp at the whirlwind finish that saw Georgia score 26 points in the final quarter after North Carolina had gone ahead 35-21 in the third period.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Statistics of Georgia-North Carolina football game:

Georgia broke the game open in the last five minutes with three quick touchdowns. A 31-yard scoring run by quarterback Preston Ridlehuber sent Georgia into a 40-35 lead. The Bulldogs scored again when Hughes rammed over from the four after North Carolina gambled on fourth down and lost possession of its 24.

Trailing 35-21, Georgia scored early in the fourth quarter when Hughes went over from the one. Minutes later the Bulldogs added another touchdown when they drove 65 yards with Hughes scoring from the one.

With the score 35-34 in favor of North Carolina, the Bulldogs gambled on a two-point pass conversion which failed.

On the next kickoff, North Carolina fumbled and Georgia's Billy Cloer recovered on the Tar Heel 47. With 2:58 remaining, Ridlehuber raced 31 yards to score. The Tar Heels took the kickoff and gambled on a fourth down with six to go on their 24. A pass failed and Georgia took over and went on to its final touchdown with Hughes going over from the four.

North Carolina, now 3-4 for the season, scored two quick touchdowns in the first period, both by fullback Tom Lampman. One was on a three-yard run and the other on a 27-yard jaunt. A 63-yard pass play from quarterback Danny Talbott to end John Atherton set up the first score.

Georgia, which has a 5-2 record for the season, came back in the same period and scored when Jenkins rammed over from the one. A 38-yard punt return by Ridlehuber carried to the Tar Heel 24.

Irish Romp By Navy After Tight 1st Half

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Nick Eddy's 55-yard romp with a screen pass on the final play of the first half gave Notre Dame the halftime lead and the necessary momentum for a crunching 29-3 victory over Navy Saturday.

Until Eddy's storybook dash into the end zone as the clock ticked off the final second of the half, it appeared that the underdog Midshipmen were destined to hold an upset-making 3-0 lead. But the Middies quickly learned that history does repeat itself.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Statistics of the Navy-Notre Dame football game:

Last year in Philadelphia another underdog Navy team had held Notre Dame to a scoreless tie until the same Nick Eddy took a swing pass and rambled 74 yards for a second quarter touchdown to pave the way to a 40-0 Irish triumph.

Eddy's run on a screen pass from Bill Zloch was all the fourth ranked Irish needed to set them off. Notre Dame pounded across three more touchdowns in the third quarter to turn the game into a rout.

Notre Dame took the second half kickoff and stayed stricly on the ground, driving 64 yards in 13 plays with Zloch sneaking into the end zone.

The Middies had the ball for only two plays before Tom Leiser fumbled and Harry Long recovered for the Irish on the Navy 25. Again, Notre Dame stayed on the ground with Larry Conjar plunging over from the one-yard line to give the Irish a 21-3 lead with 3:15 to play in the third period.

Exactly 45 seconds later, Navy was forced to punt and Nick Rassas took the ball and returned it 66 yards for the final Irish touchdown. Bill Wlolski ran for two extra points.

Delta State Gets 16-7 Win From Florence State

FLORENCE, Ala. (AP) — Undefeated Delta State victimized its third Alabama football eleven here Saturday, upending Florence State 16-7 in a crushing defensive contest.

The Florence State Lions scored first on a 13-yard rush by wingback Ernest Realand.

With 28 seconds remaining in the first half, Delta's Payne Spence booted a 40-yard field goal to close the early Florence lead to 7-3 The Statesmen limited Florence to only three yards rushing and one yard passing in the second half, adding two touchdowns for the victory.

Their first touchdown came with just six minutes gone in the third period, after an interception at the Florence 32-yard line.

Quarterback Mike Vincent scored from four yards out to give Delta a 9-7 advantage. The next score came as the Statesmen drove 56 yards on five plays.

A Vincent pass to end Dwight Wiley carried for the final three yards. Spence added the point after touchdown.

The Statesmen from Cleveland, Miss., have also defeated Troy State and Howard College in trips to Alabama.

It won't until we do something about this crisis in higher education.

Some colleges predict that they soon may have to turn away qualified high school graduates.

If they do have to turn away these potential leaders, it will be because of shortages—in buildings, facilities, and especially qualified teachers.

But we need leaders, more and more. Leaders manage and make wise use of our manpower, resources and human skills.

Good leadership protects our high level in jobs, opportunities and living standards.

This is everybody's concern. Make it yours. Give to the college of your choice.

Nebraska Rallies To Edge Missouri

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Fred Duda, a tricky runner and bold passer, led third-ranked Nebraska in a tremendous comeback to a 16-14 victory over Missouri Saturday on little Larry Wachholtz's 26-yard field goal.

The winning field goal by Wachholtz with 5:56 left in the game capped Nebraska's uphill fight after trailing 14-0 in the first quarter.

Nebraska's victory, seventh in a perfect season, made Bob Devaney's club an overwhelming favorite to sweep on to the Big Eight football championship. A record crowd of 58,000 watched the Tigers fall to 4-2-1 for the season, 3-1 in the league.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Statistics of the Nebraska-Missouri football game:

	Nebraska	Missouri
First downs	17	11
Rushing yardage	266	152
Passing yardage	52	91
Passes	5-20	6-14
Passes intercepted by	2	2
Punts	6-38	6-40
Yards penalized	41	58

Quarterback Gary Lane led Missouri to two touchdowns its first two times with the ball for its amazing 14-0 first quarter lead. The Huskers stormed back behind Duda, cutting it to 14-13 at halftime.

Missouri gave ground grudgingly in Nebraska's 51-yard drive that set up the winning field goal. A 15-yard personal foul penalty hurt the Tigers, moving the Huskers to the Missouri 17.

The running of Duda and 217-pound sophomore Charlie Winters led the winning drive. Missouri tried to come back, but halfback Kaye Carstens made a key fourth-down tackle on Earl Denny at the Nebraska 39.

Lane, a swift 200-pounder, made three big plays in Missouri's 80-yard opening drive. He completed passes for 15 yards to end Jim Waller and 41 yards to halfback Monroe Phelps.

Then Lane rolled out and scored on a 22-yard run, evading three men in his dance down the sidelines.

Missouri's Johnny Roland intercepted a Duda pass and Missouri moved 49 yards to score again in nine plays.

It was Lane again, with an 11-yard run and another 19-yard toss to Waller. Carl Reese slammed over. The tremendous blocking of Missouri tackles Francis Peay, 246, and Butch Allison, 230, led both drives.

The Nebraska comeback started when 252-pound tackle Walt Barnes blocked a Missouri punt.

A few minutes later Nebraska exploded 57 yards in four plays. Harry (Lighthorse) Wilson raced 36 yards to the one behind the blocking of Dennis Carlson, Tony Jeter and little Frank Solich. Pete Tatman scored the touchdown.

Beating the halftime clock, Nebraska drove 89 yards in 14 plays to score again. Duda made the big one, on fourth-and-one a beautiful fake into the middle and a 38-yard sprint around end to the one.

Tatman scored but the kick by Wachholtz was wide and Missouri led 14-13.

Nebrasks 0 13 0 3—16
Missouri 14 0 0 0—14
Mo—Lane 22 run (Bates kick)
Mo-Reese 1 run (Bates kick)
Neb—Tatman 1 run (Wachholtz kick)
Neb—Tatman 1 run (kick failed)
Neb—FG Wachholtz 26
Attendance 58,000.

Tribe's Open Cage Spots Under Siege

A veteran and a sophomore who appeared in only seven varsity games last season appear to be the leading candidates to fill the two vacated places in Northeast State's basketball starting lineup.

After two weeks of pre-season drills, senior Billy Brooks (6-2) of Jonesville and sophomore Chris Rhodes (6-3) of Monterey have staked strong claims to the positions left open by the squad's two 1964-65 seniors, Larry Butler and Dick Williams.

Brooks, a starter in 1963-64 when he averaged 8.8 points a game, played in all but two of Northeast's 22 games last winter and averaged 4 points. He has been working out in Williams' old wing position.

Rhodes, a class C all-state player in high school ball, has been running in the post position held down by Butler last year. Rhodes averaged 2.4 rebounds and 2.6 points in his infrequent varsity appearances last year, collecting a high of 11 rebounds and 8 points in one game. With the Northeast freshmen team, he averaged 11.3 rebounds and 11.6 points.

Northeast's three returning starters are post man Paul Thompson (6-4) and outside shooters Tommy Enloe (5-9) and Glynn Saulters (6-2).

Other players ticketed for plenty of relief duty if they don't win starting positions are senior post men Lawson Swearingen (6-6) and James Brian (6-3) and point man Mike Vining (6-1) a junior.

Brian had been scheduled to pass up his final year of eligibility in order to serve as team manager and freshmen coach but the shortage of experienced post men prompted Coach Lenny Fant to call him back to the colors. Brain will continue, however, as freshman coach.

Brian's availability will strengthen the team considerably since the ex-sailor was a standout in several clutch situations during Northeast's drive to the Gulf States Conference championship last season.

Among other players who have performed well in practice this fall are sophomores Rich Bailey (6-2) and Ronnie Suggs (6-3) and freshman Ricky Peel (6-3).

Northeast will open the 1965-66 campaign here Nov. 22 against Arkansas A&M.

West Virginia Offense Halted As 'Cats Win

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A stiff Kentucky defense stopped the vaunted West Virginia offense cold as the Wildcats overran the Mountaineers, 28-8 in the Kentucky homecoming football game Saturday.

West Virginia, depending on the passing arm of quarterback Allen McCune, was allowed only 44 yards through the air. Kentucky's Rick Nrton, on the other hand, completed 11 of 18 aerials for 144 yards.

But the same was won on the ground, where Wildcat backfield aces Larry Seiple and Rodger Bird carried the weight of the offensive attack. Behind the determined running of Bird and Seiple, the Kentucky offense rang up 246 yards rushing.

The Mountaineers' top offensive star, Garrett Ford, was spectacular in carrying the ball 16 times for a net gain of 60 yards. But his backfield companion, Dick Leftridge, surpassed the top-billed Ford's efforts in gaining 75 yards in 16 carries.

Despite the hefty gains by Ford and Leftridge, the Kentucky defense halted the Mountaineers at the right times and held them to a single touchdown.

The only scoring in the first quarter came on a Kentucky drive that started on its own 37. But the Mountaineers dug in on their three, and John Andrighetti kicked a field goal for a 3-0 Kentucky lead.

Late in the second quarter with time running out, Norton took to the air and guided the Wildcats to West Virginia's six. Two plays later, Seiple took the ball over from the one to make the score 9-0. Andrighetti's kick failed.

During the opening drive of the second half, Kentucky's Norton went to the air again and passed himself over the 4,000-yard mark in three years of varsity football.

With Kentucky on its 40 and driving, Norton connected with Seiple for 28 yards to boost his career total to 4,007. The only other Wildcat ever to achieve this feat was Babe Parilli.

The Mountaineers got their only score in the third quarter. Leftridge capped a 67-yard drive when he scored from the four.

A pass for the points after was good to Bob Dunlevy.

The game was close at this point at 15-8, but Kentucky put it out of reach when it took over on fourth down and moved 40 yards in six plays, with Norton scoring on a four-yard keeper play.

J-H Jaycees Schedule Drag Races Today

JONESBORO (Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge Jaycees will sponsor a drag race on the recently completed Jonesboro Municipal Airport, today, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The winner of each class will receive a trophy. Four top eliminator trophies will be presented to the winners of the four eliminator classes. Cash prizes will be given to the four top eliminators also.

Over 150 cars are expected to participate, since this is a "bring what you got" race, so there should be plenty of excitement plus some fine competition among factory cars.

Cars will start from a stopped position just short of the starting line and will acclerate for one quarter mile where they will cross the finish line. Each race will be timed as to MPH and ETO by one of the best Timing Associations in the South. It is the Jaycees aim to run at least one race every minute down the quarter mile strip.

Admission will be $1 per person with children under 12 years of age admitted free when accompanied by a parent. Entry fees for cars participating will also be $1 per car plus $1 for the driver. In case of rain or inclement weather the race will be postponed and run either the weekend of the 7th or 14th of November.

Wolfpack Gets Victory, Gives Running Lesson

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — North Carolina State's Shelby Mansfield and Charlie Noggle gave Virginia a lesson in how to run with a football Saturday as the Wolfpack thoroughly spoiled homecoming for the Cavaliers 13-0 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Mansfield ran for 122 yards and the game's only touchdown, and Noggle added 83 in the surprisingly decisive victory for the Wolfpack, its third of the season in seven starts.

Dayton Takes 13-7 Grid Win

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Dayton grabbed an early lead and then held off repeated scoring threats by Ohio University as the Flyers defeated the Bobcats 13-7 in a non-conference football game Saturday night.

The Flyers scored twice in the first quarter on pass plays by quarterback Joe Rudolph.

Bulldog Cagers Are Increasing Physical Drills

RUSTON (Special) — Increased emphasis will be placed on physical conditioning drills at Louisiana Tech this week as the Bulldog basketballers move closer to their opener against Little Rock University Dec. 1. Coach Scotty Robertson is still experimenting with different combinations with sophs Tommy Gregory, 6-6 of St. Joseph, and George Stone, 6-3 of Ruston, elevated to the starting team last week. They are playing with Richard Peak, 6-11 of Pensacola, Fla., Leon Barmore, 5-10 of Ruston, and Jon Pat Stephenson, 6-2 of Shreveport Woodlawn.

Barmore was cited for his improved defensive play by Robertson. The Canine coach said there are still adjustments to make on team defense but that he is fairly well pleased with the press work by the squad. Play on the boards has been spirited and aggressive in early drills which has led Robertson to believe the rebounding will be much improved over last season.

Tech's offense, minus graduated four-year star Jerry Hood, has been coming along slower than Robertson anticipated. "We have been working against both zone and man-to-man defenses," Robertson said.

He said he is pleased with the play of all four centers on the squad. Besides Peak, these includes 6-10 junior Bob Watson of Logan, West Va., Gregory, and 6-5 soph Terry Ewing of Jonesboro. Both Gregory and Ewing have improved considerably in their board play.

The Tech squad, under assistant Don Landry, met the varsity Saturday afternoon in a scrimmage.

Vanderbilt Defense Bottles Up Greenies For 13-0 Win

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Vanderbilt used its strong defense to bottle up Tulane and roll to a convincing 13-0 Southeastern Conference football victory Saturday.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Statistics of the Vanderbilt-Tulane football game:

	Vanderbilt	Tulane
First downs	18	12
Rushing yardage	233	94
Passing yardage	79	141
Passes	5-10	13-32
Passes intercepted by	4	0
Punts	8-31	7-43
Fumbles lost	1	1
Yards penalized	15	28

The Commodores' defense, ranked second in the nation, allowed the Green Wave to enter its territory only three times. Tulane's deepest penetration was to the Vandy 15 in the waning seconds of the game.

Defensive back Bernie Kemple led the fast, hard-charging Vanderbilt defenders who contained Tulane quarterbacks Bobby Duhon and Dave East.

Kemple also intercepted two of Duhon's first quarter passes and knocked down several others. Vanderbilt picked off four of 32 Tulane aerials.

After playing the first period between the 30-yard lines, Vandy scored when Steve Bevil broke loose on a 67-yard touchdown punt return.

It appeared that Bevil would stopped after making only a few yards of his runback, but a wall of blockers formed in front of him at the Tulane 40 and he was clear the rest of the way.

Toby Wilt's conversion attempt was wide and Vander led 6-0 with 11:50 remaining in the second period. Nine minutes later, the Commodores struck for another touchdown when Jim Whiteside drove over from the three.

The score capped a 56-yard drive that took 10 plays. Wilt's kick was true, giving Vanderbilt a 13-0 lead at halftime.

The Commodores dominated play in the third quarter, running all but eight of the 35 plays.

Vandy managed to drive to the Tulane seven but bogged down and Wilt attempted his first field goal of the game. It was wide.

Tulane's deepest threat came in the final period when the Greenies drove from their 18 to the Vanderbilt 15, where the Commodores held.

Quarterback Dave Waller of Vanderbilt was top rusher of the game, picking up 72 yards on 20 carries. He also hit on three of five passes for 47 yards.

Duhon was top man among Tulane rushers, carrying 11 times for 52 yards. He hit on seven of 18 passes for 60 yards.

East, who alternated with Duhon, connected on 6 of 14 passes for 81 yards. It was his passing that sparked Tulane's only scoring threat.

Van—Bevil 67 punt return (kick failed)
Van—Whiteside 3 run (Wilt kick)
Attendance 27,000 estimated.

Davidson Topped

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Washington backed up Mike Holloran's running with a furious defense Saturday and rolled to a 23-7 Southern Conference football victory over Davidson.

Holloran, 185-pound senior halfback from Washington, gained 113 yards in 25 carries and scored two touchdowns, one on a five-yard run in the second quarter and the other on a five-yard pass from Steve Welpott in the third period.

Boatright Says Win Wasn't All Enjoyable

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

"I guess you could say the fans got their money's worth," Ouachita head coach Mark Boatright quipped Saturday, "but it wasn't particularly the kind of game I enjoy."

And you can see his point. Although his Ouachita team defeated West Monroe 14 - 7 it wasn't exactly the type of game a coach would call "enjoyable" whether he's winning or losing.

The outcome was in doubt until the last 41 seconds when Ouachita's James Hale picked off a Rebel pass at the Lions' two yard line to halt a gallant last ditch drive led by West Monroe quarterback Ronnie Wiggins.

And those kind of finishes make for gray hairs and ulcers no matter who's side your on.

Although naturally happy with the big victory, Boatright still refused to go overboard about his team's chances in the tight district 1 - AAA race.

"I am definitely glad to get that one behind us," the young coach said, "but right now all we can do is try to get ready for Byrd. They have a strong defense and we'll have our work cut out for us."

Ouachita plays Byrd in Shreveport Friday night.

The Lions are in front of the pack with a 4 - 1 mark but four other teams are still in the fight. Neville is second with 3 - 1, Woodlawn next at 3-1-1, Fair Park fourth with 3 - 2 and West Monroe is still alive with only one loss at 1-1-2.

Concerning the West Monroe game, Boatright said, "I felt our kids held up well against the running game after we made a few early adjustments and I was especially pleased with the work of Hale on defense all night.

"Dickie McNair also played well and Charles Carlisle did a good job at the monster man post for us," he added.

Boatright was high in his praise for Wiggins who almost single - handedly turned the West Monroe loss into at least a tie. Wiggins passed for 231 yards, completing six straight passes during one stretch of the contest, and scored all seven of the Rebs' points.

"We contained Wiggins fairly well on his called running plays but he scared me more when he rolled out to pass. I think he is an extremely fine scrambler and he came up with crucial yardage a couple of times like this," Boatright said.

Wiggins was especially effective with short flare passes to fullback Richard Ware in the last half. Boatright said his ends were coming up to meet Wiggins when he rolled toward them and his defensive backs couldn't move up quickly enough to cover Ware.

The Wiggins to Ware combination clicked five times, all in the last half, and they colaborated three times in the stretch drive near the end of the game.

West Monroe coach Walter Brister was out of town Saturday and unavailable for comment but he must have been proud of the courageous effort of his club.

Down 14 - 0 before it could get on the scoreboard at the end of the third quarter, West Monroe kept league - leading Ouachita's back to the wall much of the game and nearly all of the last quarter.

Utah Rallies

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Rich Groth hit Mike Butera on a 70-yard scoring pass in the closing minutes Saturday to bring Utah from behind for a 22-19 nonconference football victory over Colorado State University.

The Groth-Butera combination, which worked for another touchdown earlier in the game, highlighted the Utah homecoming celebration that looked for three quarters as if it would end in gloom.

So Long Little Men

With Sam Hanna

Column Ends Today

Nine years went by almost unnoticed as the little men made news afield.

That's close to being an appropriate summary of the past nine years during which this column has appeared in the World to record the outdoor events of Louisiana. Now it's time for us to step aside and let someone else take over.

Much has happened in Northeast Louisiana in those nine years. Just think about the changes on the outdoor scene in the last decade.

For one thing, there are more people hunting. And fewer places to hunt.

Also, there are more people fishing, but more places to fish.

D'Arbonne Lake, for example, is a new place to fish. It was built in recent years. Cheniere Lake is an old place to fish, but it was preserved for the future in recent years through a public purchase.

We think an expanded interest in outdoor life has been the biggest change. People who didn't hunt or fish before are doing it now.

That's why the purchase of the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area near Monroe and the Saline Wildlife Management Area near Ferriday are important milestones.

Especially is this true in view of the wholesale clearing of swampland that's taking place throughout this area. We flew the area again Friday. The bulldozers were still churning.

The loss of hardwood timberland in the past nine or so years has been astounding and that one development will have a greater affect on the future of hunting in this area than any other thing.

Yet, he sportsmen haven't changed much.

We got into the middle of the doe battles in the late fifties, but it didn't solve anything. Everybody got steamed up over the preservation of deer and the battle still continues.

For instance, the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission will hold a hearing Thursday at Baton Rouge at 10 a.m. in the auditorium of the state library building to hear proposals to change the deer season regulations on the Chicago Mill Game Management Area.

Evidently some of the people in the Chicago Mill area are opposed to the any - deer season despite the fact that the owner of the property, Chicago Mill & Lumber Co., has made it specifically clear that it wants the game management area operated on a basis to maintain a balanced deer herd. The commission's biologists have recommended an any - deer season to maintain a balanced deer herd.

But apparently some hunters are raising cain with some legislators, and so the same old story continues.

That's the interesting part about sportsmen. They love their sport. They love to hunt and fish. They're good citizens, in general, but in some cases they're misguided.

We sportsmen like to fuss about doe seasons and bow seasons. We like to argue about bag limits and duck limits. We like to tell the biologists when the seasons should be open and when they should be closed.

But we don't want to do anything about the unimportant things. We don't want to raise a finger and get behind a program to set aside hunting areas for the future. We don't want to turn the attention of our public officials to the fact that the woods are disappearing.

That's unimportant. We would prefer spending our time on the important things — like establishing seasons.

We want more fish in the lakes and streams and better fishing in general. But we don't want to talk to our lawmakers and our governor and our commission about establishing a fishing license to cover all fishermen and in return provide more revenue for fisheries management.

That's unimportant. We would prefer spending our time on the important things.

This aspect of the outdoor scene hasn't changed in the past nine years.

There are a few sportsmen who'll take the interest to belong to a wildlife club and work for a conservation program, but in the nine years we've belonged to the Ouachita Wildlife Unit we've been looking at the same faces.

But progress has been made Louisiana's deer population has reached an all - time high. A good management program is responsible for this.

The turkey population is on the comeback. Squirrels and rabbits are holding their own. Quail are having a tough time, but surviving. Dove hunting has become a big thing.

But on the other side of the ledger, waterfowl has become the sore spot. Duck hunting definitely has declined. The population has dropped and climbed back again, but the tight restrictions are still there. This is another area where sportsmen as a group should be together for improvement.

Looking ahead, we suspect the next nine years will be much the same.

The "little man's corner," however, will be retired with this writing. Paul Martin will take up his talented, outdoor pen beginning next week, and the outdoor column will continue.

Paul is a familiar man to the outdoors. He's been a fisherman for years and recently took up the sport of archery. He's a bow hunter deluxe now.

We point this out because it's important. Unless a writer participates in some type of outdoor sport, his column will be stale.

Paul Martin's column will be anything but stale. It'll be interesting to read.

And to those who have worked with us along the way and helped out here and there, and to you, the readers, the little men who make news afield, we wish you the best afield.

Thanks for reading "Comin' Up Afield."

Michigan Rolls Over Wisconsin

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan, scoring on a 52-yard pass from Wally Gabler to Jack Clancy on its first play, picked up five first play, picked up five first half touchdowns and steamrolled to a 50-14 Big Ten football victory over Wisconsin Saturday.

Gabler scored twice on runs of one and five yards as the Wolverines snapped a four-game losing streak. It was also their first win over Wisconsin in their last four meetings and the first over the Badgers since 1950.

Two of Michigan's first half touchdowns were set up by pass interceptions and another by a fumble recovery.

Rick Sygar scored on a two-yard plunge, and Dave Fisher scampered 12 yards for the other first half scores.

Sygar threw a 26-yard pass to Clancy, and Ernie Sharpe went in from a yard out for Michigan's second half touchdowns.

The Wolverines got two quick points at the start of the third quarter when Wisconsin quarterback Chuck Burt recovered his own fumble in the end zone following a punt by Stan Kemp which went out of bounds on the Wisconsin one.

The Badgers scored first on an 83-yard kickoff return by Richard Schumitsch and again with a little more than three minutes remaining when John Boyajian went in from six yards out.

Tod Hullin Paces Washington Win

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Washington quarterback Tod Hullin led a vicious Husky attack to a 41-8 football victory over Stanford Saturday — the most lopsided triumph for the winners in a series dating back to 1893.

Hullin had been replaced a week ago by Tom Sparlin, but a broken collarbone in the Oregon game put Sparlin out and restored Hullin, who had been unable to move the team.

FALL FISHING is often best in Louisiana and here's a case where that's true. Mrs. Raymond Sutton of 610 Wilmuth, Monroe, landed this 7-pound bass at Black Bayou. It was one of the largest bass that's been caught in Black Bayou. Fishing throughout Northeast Louisiana has been good recently.

Colonels Preparing For First GSC Play

THIBODAUX (Special)—Nicholls State College Athletic Director Raymond Didier today released the Colonels 1965-66 basketball schedule.

Nicholls joins Southwestern Louisiana, McNeese State, Northwestern, Louisiana Tech, Northeast State, and Southeastern Louisiana in one of the nation's toughest small college conferences this year, the Gulf States Conference.

Last season with 10 freshmen of 15 squadmen, NSC collected eight wins and fifteen loses and were two and six against GSC colleges.

This year, the young Colonel cagers face a 25-game slate featuring 14 home games, 11 road encounters, and includes 12 tries against GSC foes. The new schedule also features renewal of three old rivalries. three new opponents and a renewal of three old rivalries.

New opponents on the Colonels calendar are Howard College of Birmingham, Alabama, the University of Mexico of Mexico City, and Louisiana Tech of Ruston. A renewal of old acquaintances comes when the bayou boys meet Southeastern Louisiana College of Hammond, Henderson State Teachers College of Arkadelphia, Arkansas, and Christian Brothers College of Memphis, Tennessee.

Other teams appearing on the Nicholls State slate are Belhaven College of Jackson, Miss., William Carey College of Hattiesburg, Miss., Spring Hill College of Mobile, Ala., and Louisiana College of Pineville.

Gone from the Colonels list '64-'65 foes are Southern (Ark.) State College, Frederick (Va.) College. Lamar (Texas) Tech, John Brown (Ark.) University, and Little Rock (Ark.) University.

Coach Jim Mahoney's fledging roundballers swing into action this year with a three-game home stand. Beginning November 19, NSC hosts Henderson State Teachers in a two game series and on November 23 Belhaven College visits Bayou Lafourche.

The Colonels start their first road series on December 4 with William Carey College in Hattiesburg and then travel to Memphis for a December 6 meet with Christian Brothers College.

The schedule follows:
Nov. 19 Henderson (Ark.) State, Thibodaux
Nov. 20 Henderson (Ark.) State, Thibodaux
Nov. 23 Belhaven (Miss.) College, Thibodaux
Dec. 4 William Carey (Miss.) College, Hattiesburg

J-H Basketball Team To Play 22-Game Slate

JONESBORO (Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge High School Tigers, state AA basketball champions for the past two seasons, will play a 22-game schedule plus four tournaments in 1965-66, according to the schedule released this week by Coach Larry Toms.

The Tigers open with Simsboro here November 16, and begin their District 2-AA title defense at Haynesville January 7. They will participate in the Saline, Quitman, Natchitoches, and Calvin tournaments.

At least three expected starters will not be available until the Tiger football season ends. James Earley, Leslie Mize, and Randy Phillips are in the backfield on Coach Bobby Stone's grid squad, and Tommy Wilson, a football end, also is expected to see quite a bit of action on the cage team.

Toms has only one starter returning from last season's state champs, 6'4" senior Tommy Chandler, who scored 11 points in each of the Top Twenty games. However, Earley and Mize saw considerable action, particularly in the playoff contests.

The Tigers have had practice scrimmages with Quitman and Bossier, and Toms has been using Chandler, Billy Hogg, Coy Stone, Keith Nalley and Wendell Majors in the starting lineup.

THE 1965-66 SCHEDULE:
Nov. 16 - Simsboro, home.
Nov. 18, 19, 20 - Saline tournament.
Nov. 26 - At Neville.
Nov. 30 - At Natchitoches.

Ducks Win, 17-14

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Oregon likes to alternate quarterbacks Tom Trovato and Mike Brundage and each came up with a touchdown play Saturday that carried the Ducks to a 17-14 football victory over Idaho.

It was Brundage who provided the last touchdown, bringing Oregon from behind in the fourth quarter with an 80-yard march. He threw to end Steve Bunker for the final two yards.

Buffalo Loses, 20-7

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Sophomore quarterbacks Bob Lawson and Tom Tyler ripped open stingy Buffalo ground and air defenses Saturday to give Holy Cross a 20-7 football victory, its first of the season.

Buffalo, second nationally in ground defense and ninth in over-all defense, was scored on 3½ minutes into the first period when Lawson rolled around right end to score from the 28 on the second Holy Cross play from scrimmage.

Bowden Leads Aroused Auburn By Gators, 28-17

AUBURN, Ala. (AP))— Quarterback Alex Bowden threw two touchdown passes and linebacker Bill Cody scored on a pass interception and a recovered fumble Saturday to give Auburn a 28-17 upset football victory over seventh-ranked Florida.

A crowd of 45,000 howling fans saw Auburn win its 15th homecoming game in a row, this one a regionally televised affair. It was Florida's 11th consecutive unsuccessful attempt to beat the Tigers on Auburn's home grounds.

An inspired, come-from-behind Auburn team struck with swift fury for 14 points in the third quarter after a listless first half had netted the Tigers only 11 yards rushing and 44 in the air.

Second-stringer Bowden gave the victorious Tigers the lift they needed. Regular quarterback Tom Bryan had had no luck moving the ball against a tough Gator defense in the Southeastern Conference game.

Florida's flashy quarterback, Steve Spurrier, also found the range with two touchdowns passes, but it was those he didn't complete which gave the Gators their first 10 points.

A 26-yard field goal by Wayne Barfield and Spurrier's first scoring pass a 21-yard delivery to Jack Harper both came after Auburn had been called for interference on passes which went incomplete.

Still another pass thrown by Spurrier gave Auburn one of its touchdowns. Cody plucked one from the air and scampered 29 yards to the end zone.

Auburn, the sometimes outstanding, sometimes terrible team, which lost a week ago to Southern Mississippi, seemed headed for another beating until Bowden began hitting the target. He came close several times and then finally hurled one to Scotty Long in the end zone 29 yards away.

Seconds later, Cody put Auburn in front with his interception.

The Gators regained the lead with Spurrier's second touchdown pass. It went to Charlie Casey for 11 yards. However, Bowden came back with a long one to Freddie Hyatt which went 69 yards and sent the Tigers out in front for keeps.

Bowden is a six-foot-three-inch senior who spent three years on the bench without playing a minute before getting into action this year.

Cody wrapped it up for Auburn by falling on a Spurrier fumble in the end zone with less than three minutes in the game.

Apisa Leads Way As MSU Gets 49-7 Win

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Burly Bob Apisa, star sophomore fullback from Hawaii, led the way and No. 1-ranked Michigan State crushed Northwestern 49-7 Saturday after allowing an early Wildcat touchdown.

Northwestern shocked a homecoming crowd of 74,215 by jumping ahead with a 7-0 lead on its first series of plays in the opening period.

Apisa, the leading Big Ten scorer going into the game, rammed in for two touchdowns, and right half Clint Jones made one before the half ended to put MSU back into control of the game with a 21-7 lead.

State kept piling on the scores in the second half for the largest MSU win margin this season.

The rout left Michigan State the only unbeaten Big Ten team and still the runaway front-runner in its bid for the conference title and a Rose Bowl bid.

It was the 70th win in his career as MSU Coach for Duffy Daugherty, who last took the Spartans to the Pasadena trip in 1955.

The Northwestern early counter came on a freakish play. Sophomore quarterback Dennis Booth fumbled, but Larry Gates pounced on the loose ball in the end zone for the touchdown.

Michigan State, which has been featuring second half comebacks this season, decided not to waste time in correcting the situation.

The Spartans took command of the game by powering 57 yards for their first score, 85 yards for the second and 44 yards for the third.

The Spartans ground 80 yards the first time MSU got the ball in the third period with Apisa again doing the scoring honors.

Jim Summers made a pass interception to help State keep its scoring momentum in the same period. Quarterback Steve Juday flipped a 10-yard end zone pass to Jones to build up the MSU lead to 35-7.

Left half Dwight Lee, also got into the scoring act before the third period ended. His TD came after a 44-yard push to make it 42-7.

Barefoot kicker Dick Kenney, also from Hawaii, hit on five for five in extra point tries.

Player Wins Championship By Record 6 Stroke Margin

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — Gary Player of South Africa, playing so slowly he was threatened with a two-stroke penalty, won the Australian Open Golf Championship Saturday by a record six strokes.

He posted totals of 62-71-62-69—264 that left Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, the defending champion, and Frank Phillips of Australia in the runner-up slot.

Nicklaus had 66-63-70-71—270 for his four trips over the flat Kooyonga course where par is 37-36—73 although the only hazards are a few man-made dunes and a few trees along the borders of the 6,578-yard layout.

Player started the day four strokes behind Nicklaus but halved the deficit on the first two holes with a pair of eagles while the Ohio had to be content with birdies. Player sank a 12-foot putt on the 493-yard first and his second eagle came with a 30-foot tap.

He pulled even with Nicklaus on the fourth when the American missed a three-foot putt and took a bogey 5 while Player hung up the first of three straight birdies. Player finished the round in 62, his second such score in three days, while Nicklaus zoomed to 70 and was down four strokes as they went to lunch.

Player teed off an hour ahead of Nicklaus for the final round with the South African resuming his steady, subpar play. On the second hold, Nicklaus sent his drive deep into the rough, made up almost entirely of wire-weed. After inspecting the lie, Nicklaus decided it was unplayable and drove again from the tee. He wound up with a seven — and out of the running.

Nicklaus completed the round with a 71, two strokes more than Player needed.

The championship meant little more than added prestige for Player.

Already the winner of more than $160,000 in tournaments all over the world this year, he picked up only $2,632 here. Nicklaus, who also is well above the $100,000 in golf earnings this season, added but $812 to his bankroll.

Earlier this year Player won the United States Open, with its first place prize of $26,000, and then later in the year took individual honors in the Canada Cup matches in Madrid and annexed the world match play title in England.

He was tied with Arnold Palmer for second in the Masters last spring but hit a slump in mid-summer because of stiff neck that cost him his chances of winning the British Open and the U.S. PGA crowns. After his U.S. Open victory, he turned $25,000 of his check over to charity and paid his caddy $2,000.

Peter Thomson of Australia, winner of the British Open five times, was fourth with 68-71-67-65—271 and Bob Charles of New Zealand, was fifth with 68-70-67-70—275.

Player complained that the gallery of 7,000 slowed his play with spectators crossing the unroped fairways while the competitors were preparing to hit.

His slow game caused comment. His first three rounds averaged about four hours each and tourney officials asked Player to speed up his play.

"But it just wasn't possible with all those people around," he explained. He played each hole with spectators ranging from 1,000 to 3,000.

Kent Nix Guides Horned Frogs To Win Over Bears

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian contained Baylor's sophomore passing sensation Saturday and quarterback Kent Nix guided the Horned Frogs to a 10-7 Southwest Conference victory over the favored Bears.

Nix took the downtrodden Frogs, four-time losers this year, on two long-distance scoring drives after the Bruins had turned a TCU fumble into a first quarter touchdown.

The senior signal caller hit on five of five passes as the Christians rolled 79 yards in 16 plays for a touchdown in the second period.

The clincher came on a five yard pass from Nix to end Joe Ball, who drifted into the end zone several steps beyond the startled Baylor defenders.

Donny Anderson Sparks Tech To 27-0 SWC Rout

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Donny Anderson sparked Texas Tech to an easy 27-0 victory over Rice Saturday for its fifth straight victory of the season.

Anderson scored two touchdowns, running five yards for one and taking a 43-yard pass from Tom Wilson for another. He rushed for 82 yards on 21 carries and hauled in six passes for 109 more yards.

The victory was the fourth in Southwest Conference play for the Red Raiders.

Tech scored the first time it had the ball, driving 72 yards in 11 plays with Anderson going over from the two. Wilson completed four passes in a drive for 59 yards.

Buckeyes Top Gopher 11 On 18-Yard Boot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bob Funk booted an 18-yard field goal with only 1:17 left in the game Saturday, giving Ohio State a hard-fought 11-10 victory over Minnesota in a Big Ten struggle before 84,359.

The Buckeyes, keeping their slim hopes for a conference championship alive with their third victory in four starts, drove 89 yards on the passing of Don Unverferth to set up Funk's fifth three-pointer of the season.

The Gophers made a dramatic bid to pull out the victory, moving 63 yards to Ohio State's eight-yard line in the waning moments of play. With only 14 seconds showing on the clock, Deryl Ramey's field goal attempt from the 15-yard line was wide to the left, and the Bucks had their triumph.

It was a see-saw struggle all the way as the two teams meeting for the first time in 15 years treated the huge throng to a sol- had their triumph.

Minnesota, losing its first game in the league after three triumphs, had taken a 10-8 advantage late in the third period when Ramey kicked a 32-yard field goal.

10 Point Last Half Effort Gets Bruins Victory

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Melvin Farr, whose record sparkles with long touchdown runs, dashed 37 yards for a TD late in the third quarter to snap a scoreless tie and lead UCLA to a 10-0 victory over Air Force Saturday.

Farr, 6-foot-2, 190-pound junior from Santa Monica, Calif., bolted over right guard and angled into the end zone with no defender touching him on the scoring gallop — his fifth of the season for 21 yards or more.

Until Farr's thunderbolt with 1:55 left in the third period, the two teams, which scored a combined 96 points against opponents the week before, never got within 20 yards of the goal line.

Farr's run capped a 77-yard march in five plays, including two other carries by him totaling 24 yards.

His performance was marred a little later, though, when he fumbled on the Air Force two after UCLA's Erwin Dutcher had intercepted Sonny Litz's pass on the AF 15 to give the Bruins another scoring opportunity.

The victory raised UCLA's record to 4-1-1 and left the Air Force with only one victory and a tie in seven games.

Tulsa Twins Set New Records In Easy 55-12 Win

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Bill Anderson and Howard Twilley combined their lightning-like passing and receiving talents Saturday in leading Tulsa to a 55-12 football victory over Southern Illinois University.

Twilley, a 180-pound end, set two records. He caught two touchdown passes boosting his NCAA record career total to 24. Twilley was on the receiving end of 18 pass completions, breaking the 16 NCAA reception mark he set in the Memphis State game earlier this season.

Anderson breezed along, passing for four Tulsa touchdowns and running one in from ten yards away.

Anderson's 42 pass completions set a single game record, breaking his own 39 NCAA pass completion mark also set against Memphis state.

Fletcher Uses One-Man Band To Dump WTS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — With quarterback Billy Fletcher playing his usual one-man band, Memphis State rolled past West Texas State 27-12 Saturday night.

Fletcher figured in every Tiger point, running for two touchdowns, passing for two and kicking three extra points. Split end Bob Sherlag caught the two scoring passes.

A huge quarterback, Spender Washington, was just about the whole show for West Texas, which lost its second game of the season. Without his passing it would have been no contest.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Here are the statistics for the West Texas State-Memphis State football game:

Washington, a 6-2, 210-pounder got one West Texas touchdowns. Don Dennis ran 15 yards for the other.

Memphis State took the opening kickoff and marched 71 yards in only seven plays for a touchdown. Fletcher got the score on a four-yard roll to the left.

West Texas came back near the end of the period on a 77-yard drive with Washington doing most of the work and scoring from the eight.

Memphis State rolled right back 81 yards. Facing a fourth down and goal at the six, Fletcher hit Sherlag at the goal for the TD.

One exchange and four minutes later Memphis State scored again with Fletcher once more rolling to the left and slipping across from the three.

State scored again in the third, Fletcher to Sherlag. Both touchdowns were short drives set up by short Buffalo punts.

West Texas had a late moment of glory, with a 99-yard scoring march.

Seminoles Edge Virginia Tech With Campbell

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State edged Virginia Tech 7-6 Saturday night with safety Bill Campbell saving the game for the Seminoles by breaking up a two-point VPI conversion attempt.

Campbell also opened FSU's lone touchdown drive with a 34-yard punt run-back in the third quarter of the hard-hitting defensive contest.

The FSU conversion which proved to be the margin of victory was made by Pete Roberts.

After campbell's runback, Florida State scored in five plays, featuring the running of halfback Bill Moreman. Moreman broke through for 20 yards on one play, then swept around left end for 12 more yards to the Virginia Tech two-yard line. He took the ball in for six points on the next play.

Virginia Tech came back early in the fourth period with a touchdown drive in five plays after a 32 yard run by Frank Loria to bring the ball down to the seminole 40.

Eddie Bulheller took the ball over on an 18-yard reverse to cap the drive with 13:53 left in the final period.

Virginia Tech back Tommy Groom tried to pass for two points but Campbell intercepted.

Florida State drove down to the Tech eight, but the ball went over on downs. Later in the quarter, Florida State got the ball again deep in Virginia Tech territory after the Gobblers failed in a desperation first down attempt on their own 28 in a fourth down and one-yard situation.

Southern Takes 40-36 Loss After Half Time Lead

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Southern University had a 36-7 first half lead over-run by Tennessee State University here Saturday afternoon as the Tigers remained undefeated with a 40 - 36 win over the Jaguars here in University stadium.

Tennessee quarterback Eldridge Dickey, a sophomore from Houston, Tex., threw for three second half touchdowns and scored once himself as the Tigers held the Southern University team scoreless in the last two periods while scoring 33 points.

Southern scored the lone first quarter touchdown after only five minutes had passed in the period, one yard plunge by halfback Robert Payne with John Clayton kicking the extra point.

In the second quarter Southern scored on a two yard plunge by fullback Billy Wright, a four yard pass from Willie Johnson to end Gerald Pope, a Johnson to Payne pass for 23 yards then Payne scored from one yard out. Clayton ran his consecutive string of conversions from placement to 10 in two games and he added all the extra points for the Jauguars.

Colorado Tops Oklahoma, 13-0

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Colorado, plagued by costly penalties, cranked up its offense long enough Saturday to subdue punchless Oklahoma 13-0 in a Big Eight Conference Football game.

The defeat knocked Oklahoma from the unbeaten list in conference play and enabled Colorado to climb past the Sooners into third place. Colorado which sustained 142 yards in penalties, has a 3-1-1 Big Eight record compared with Oklahoma's 2-1 mark.

Fullback Estes Banks climaxed a 48-yard Colorado scoring drive in the first period with a one-yard plunge.

Desecrate Graves

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police said vandals desecrated 41 graves and tombs in a Jewish Cemtery Saturday in New Orleans, painting Nazi-type swastikas on them.

The desecration occurred in the Chevra Thilim Jewish Cemetery on Canal Street, apparently around dawn.

It was the second such vandalism in a Jewish cemetery in recent weeks.

Monroe Man Buys Weekly Newspaper

Sam Hanna, political editor of Monroe Morning World and News - Star, has resigned his position to take over the ownership of the weekly Concordia Sentinel at Ferriday on Monday.

A native of Winnsboro and a graduate of Louisiana State University School of Journalism, Hanna had worked for the two Monroe newspapers for nine years. Before coming here in 1956 he had served on the staffs of the Colfax Chronicle and the Bastrop Enterprise.

During his time in Monroe, Hanna became known, in addition to his newspaper work, for his civic endeavors. He served as president of the Monroe Optimist Club, chairman of the Ouachita Parish Cancer Crusade, chairman of the YMCA membership drive and vice president of the Ouachita Wildlife Federation.

He was also honored as Monroe's "Young Man of the Year" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for 1962 - 63.

In announcing his resignation, Hanna said he would be leaving Monroe "with some reluctance and many memories of a wonderful city. But," He said, "I look forward anxiously to the challenge of another fast-growing area, the Ferriday - Vidalia section and Concordia parish."

The Monroe City Council passed a resolution this week commending Hanna for his outstanding work as a community leader in Monroe. He was specifically cited for his leadership in development of the city zoo, pollution control, wildlife advancement and securing approval of a sweeping civic improvement program for the city.

Earlier in the week, the Ouachita Parish Wildlife unit issued a special citation to Hanna.

Hanna negotiated the purchase of the ninety - year - old Sentinel from Percy L. Roundtree Jr., who will officially turn the paper over to the new owner Monday. Rountree will continue with the paper for a period of coordination. Afterward he will be active in other interests he has in the Concordia area.

The corporate ownership will be known as Concordia Publishing Company, Inc. Hanna will be president, editor and publisher. David O'Neal, who has been with the paper for 12 years, will be vice - president and general manager. Mrs. Hanna will be the corporate secretary.

The Concordia Sentinel is the oldest business in Concordia parish.

Scooter-Auto Wreck Hurts 2

Two children were injured Saturday at 6:30 p.m. when their motor scooter collided with an auto at North Seventh and Drew Streets in West Monroe.

Treated and released at Glenwood Hospital were Frank Fieback, 14, of 811 Wilson St., West Monroe, operator of the scooter, and John Ferracci, 5, of 202 Woodrow St., West Monroe, a passenger.

Driver of the car, Verdie J. Coleman, 47, of 1022 N. 7th St., West Monroe, was ticketed for reckless driving.

Campaigning

NEW ORLEANS (AP) —Mayor Victor Schiro and his opponent for reelection, City Council President James Fitzmorris, campaigned this weekend on their financial plans for the city.

A budget of $18,167,950 was proposed by Mayor Schiro for 1966. He also proposed a five-year program to cost $64,369,282.

Fitzmorris pledged to raise firemen's pay and to push intensive fire prevention programs if elected mayor.

Still Hospitalized

JENNINGS, La. (AP) — Two men injured in the crash of a private plane near here remained hospitalized Saturday with one of them in critical condition.

Martin Bordelon, 40, of Eunice, La., an auto dealer, plane owner and pilot, underwent surgery for multiple fractures.

Hospital authorities said Bordelon received compound fractures of both ankles, a fractured left thigh, left arm and numerous facial fractures.

Inmate Escapes

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Henry Martinez, 53-year-old Angola State Prison inmate, escaped from prison guards here Saturday while they were stopped at an Airline Highway cafe.

Associate Warden J. D. Middlebrooks said two guards had taken Martinez to the St. Gabriel women's prison branch to inventory the commissary and they were returning with him.

Duke Is Named Vice President Of Association

James L. Duke of Oklahoma City, Okla. has been named executive vice president of the Louisiana Building Material Dealers Association (LBMDA), President F. Lisle Peters Jr. announced, and will assume his new duties immediately.

Duke, 40, has been executive secretary - manager of the Lumbermen's Association of Oklahoma County in Oklahoma City.

Since 1946, the new LBMDA executive vice president has managed several lumber firms in Kansas, Colorado and Oklahoma prior to taking over the Oklahoma County Lumbermen's Association two year ago.

LBMDA is a voluntary non - profit organization representing retailers, manufacturers and wholesalers of lumber and building products.

Georgia-Pacific Reports Gains In Sales And Profits

PORTLAND, Ore. (Special) — Gains in sales, profits and cash flow for the first nine months of 1965 have been reported to stockholders of Georgia - Pacific Corporation by Owen R. Cheatham, chairman, and Robert B. Pamplin, president.

Sales for the period totaled $426,000,000, a 6.2 per cent increase over the $401,000,000 figure reported for the same period in 1964. Earnings were $35,520,000, compared with $32,385,000 for the first nine months of 1964, a 9.6 per cent increase. Cash flow was reported as $63,100,000, a 7.5 per cent increase over the $58,650,000 reported for the comparable period last year.

On a per common share basis, earnings for the period were $2.45, compared with $2.24 in 1964; cash flow was $4.80, compared with $4.56 last year. Results are based on the average number of shares outstanding during each period. Figures for both 1964 and 1965 include results of operations of Bestwall Gypsum company which was merged into Georgia-Pacific in April of this year.

According to the report, "Georgia - Pacific will have brought into production this year 12 new plants, and in spite of the start - up costs of these new facilities, our earnings have posted a new high. It is expected that the new mills will add substantially to earnings in 1966 and thereafter."

Two of Georgia - Pacific's presently scheduled five southern pine plywood plants are in operation. The third and fourth plywood plants, located at Crossett, Arkansas, and Emporia, Virginia, are scheduled for completion the end of this year. A similar plant at Louisville, Mississippi, is expected to be in operation in the spring of 1966.

Tanker Shattered

TOKYO (AP) — An explosion of unknown cause shattered a 1,489-ton Japanese tanker in the Inland Sea about 350 miles southwest of Tokyo Saturday night, injuring one crewman seriously, the Maritime Safety Agency said.

Home Damaged At Bastrop By Pre-Dawn Fire

BASTROP (Special) — A pre-dawn fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Wallace near the Mer Rouge Road here Saturday caused several thousand dollars in damages, according to the Bastrop Fire Department.

The department reported no injuries in the blaze. The cause, though not officially determined, was believed to be due to a pan of grease left on the kitchen stove, the fire department said.

Wallace said he had taken his teen-age daughter Millicent to Bastrop High School where she was to take a bus to Shreveport to participate in a State Fair parade. When he returned to his residence it was on fire. He entered the house and awakened his wife and other two children. They escaped unharmed.

The fire department said the flames were mainly in the kitchen, den, utility room and a bathroom with heat and smoke damage reaching other parts of the new home.

Part of the loss was covered by insurance, according to Wallace.

Meeting Slated

American Legion Post No. 207 will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Arkansas - Louisiana Gas Club at Sterlington to reactive the post. Veterans are invited to attend by Fifth District Commander Marion Dupont.

Dupont urges veterans to join the Legion as the national membership drive is now on. It runs until Nov. 11. He requests that region post officers strive to recruit as many old and new members before the deadline, and that Legion posts hold "some kind of program on Nov. 11, Armistice Day, at 11 a.m. in memory of our departed comrades."

The Train That Didn't Stop

In the spring, the hillsides would be a white fairyland of wild dogwood, and the sparkling creeks rushed toward the Chattahoochie. In the warm sunshine, butterflies swooped through the tall pines, and a curious fox peered through the honeysuckle. Several miles east of the river valley was a rise along which ran the ancient Indian Peachtree Trail. The awesome and beautiful forest of north Georgia knew only the footfall of Indians, surveyors, and trappers.

In 1836, the state authorized construction of a railroad which would connect the coastal counties with Tennessee and the West. At the southern end of the line, construction started, and the rude collection of shacks was called "Terminus." Four years later, the little village was renamed "Marthasville." Finally, in 1844, the bustling little town was christened Atlanta.

When winters came, the little railroad town, nestled at the foot of the mountains, knew the cold; and quite often, the five muddy red clay roads which led to the center of town would be frozen solid. North Georgia was a vibrant land of contrast. Rugged, it was, yet kind to the settlers who had moved north from the quiet life of the coast. As the new people came, the railroads came with them. The Western and Atlantic was completed into Tennessee all the way through to Chattanooga. From the old city of Augusta, another line was built to connect with the W&A.

The port of Savannah needed a link with the West, and thus it was that a third line was extended northward through Macon, to Jonesboro and Atlanta. Finally, a fourth line was constructed southwestward to Montgomery and Mobile. Atlanta was thus born a railroad town, and with lines coming and going in all directions, it became the center of commerce and even trade for the North of Georgia. Atlanta, like the quickness of a summer rain, was a live place, so different from the sleepy older coastal cities. It was the frontier, a place where a man was unhindered, where he could stake his claim to the new land and see the good work of his hands grow, mature, and prosper. Atlanta was new industry and the connecting point where the old coastal South met the young West.

By the first of February, 1861, most of Georgia's sister states in the South had seceded from the federal union, and the state legislature had adopted a similar ordinance. When the first shots were fired on Fort Sumpter, Georgia followed the fortunes of the Confederacy into the war for independence from the United States. Four grievous and disastrous years followed, and when the war was over, Georgia was a vast wasteland — Atlanta burned to the ground and a swath of nearly complete destruction sixty miles wide slashed through Georgia's heart all the way to the sea and then up to the Carolina line.

Atlanta was rebuilt. It rose from the ashes of fire, destruction, and despair; and through the years which followed, it became the capital of the new and mighty Southeast Empire.

Today, the beautiful dome of Dahlonega gold atop the state Capitol shines and seems to smile on this greatest of cities in the South. Through the years, its people seem not to have changed. Still the feeling of swift progress, "Where do we go from here?" catches the lives of all its sons and daughters, native-born or newcomers, just as it was when there were only a few crude shacks by the gleaming rails of a new young road.

Atlanta is a city of glorious homes and gardens where a weed seems almost a sacrilege. One drives for miles through hills and valleys, and each home seems more beautiful than the one before. It's a city of great charm and friendliness which one feels almost immediately upon entering the splendid new airport, driving in on the spectacular North Expressway, or motoring down tree-lined Ponce de Leon. It's also a tourist, convention, and business mecca, having Stone Mountain and the Appalachian Trail in its back yard, Cyclorama and Calloway Gardens near the front door, and the South's greatest merchandise mart in its living room. Because Atlanta is a cosmopolitan city, it hosts annually the Metropolitan Opera, and the Atlanta Art Association houses many a great painting. Golfers can tackle any one of several exceptionally beautiful courses, and the Druid Hill's Open draws the crowds.

In the spring, even though lofty buildings now line the ancient Peachtree Trail, the creeks still gurgle through the privet branches toward the river, and the dogwoods line quiet lanes. In the crimson light of the late afternoons, flowering crabs glow from white to dark pink, and the honeysuckle clings to holly. In the valleys between hills, gray granite pushes its way through the red soil and is soon covered by green bramble. Even on summer evenings, after the sun has retired for the day, the soft breeze comes, and it's delightfully cool.

In the early morning, the tall poplars are still, and the air is fresh and sweet. In the quiet distance is the low moan of the morning train to Stone Mountain and Augusta. If one listens hard enough through the silvery mist of the dawn, he can hear the jingle of the bell and toot of the whistle on the little steam engine as it chugs out of Terminus — next stop, Chattanooga, the twentieth century and destiny!

Brush and Palette

The exhibit now hanging at the Masur Museum consists of paintings, drawings, and prints by George Mathesen of San Antonio, Tex. Mr. Mathesen is a young painter and is still searching. Since he has not reached full maturity as an artist, this exhibition gives us an insight into the painful process of development which every artist must go through. It is this very process which sometimes leads the artist through unexplored areas, enabling him to create innovations which can change the history of art.

Mr. Mathesen is concerned with several ideas which he has not been able to combine in one painting. It is fascinating to see these several aspects of one artist, each holding the floor for a time, and then settling into the background, so that opposite ideas may come forth. Mr. Mathesen is aware of this situation, as he stated in his gallery talk last Sunday afternoon, and he feels that he is working toward a solution to his problem.

In his earlier work, such as Nude and Blue Interior, a strong interest in the human figure is obvious. These small, intimate paintings are rich in color and paint quality. The drawing of the figure is accurate and the genre poses are very appealing.

In Mr. Mathesen's later paintings, such as The Mask, Scarecrow, and Arrangement with Shapes and Spots, he takes another position. These larger paintings, which retain only a slight relationship to the human figure, are very geometric. They contain elements of humor and fantasy. The soft curve of a shoulder is replaced by straight lines and sharp angles. Value contrasts are harsh and the paint seems to be applied over foreign textures. The artist mentioned in his gallery talk that these geometric paintings were influenced to a degree by Op art, the new school of painting which uses optical illusions.

Mr. Mathesen seems to be combining these two extreme ideas in his collages, such as Black Knight and Construction, Man. He pastes blank canvas next to a pastel drawing of a girl. In Construction, Man he offers a drawing next to a rectangular patch of canvas on which he has dripped some paint. This is seen juxtaposed with other fragments. Sometimes he uses portions of other paintings in the arrangement, which may or may not be partially painted over. The various rectangular pieces of the collage material creates a geometric framework which he fills with human figures or softer curving designs.

In the end Mr. Mathesen's success depends on the viewer. It should be interesting for all of us to trace these different ideas through his work, enjoying each idea for what it is, and determining for ourselves how well he succeeds in combining them.

Entry blanks are available at the Masur Museum for anyone who is interested in entering the Twenty - third Annual State Art Exhibition in Baton Rouge. This exhibition is open to any artist residing in the state of Louisiana, and is sponsored by the Louisiana Art Commission.

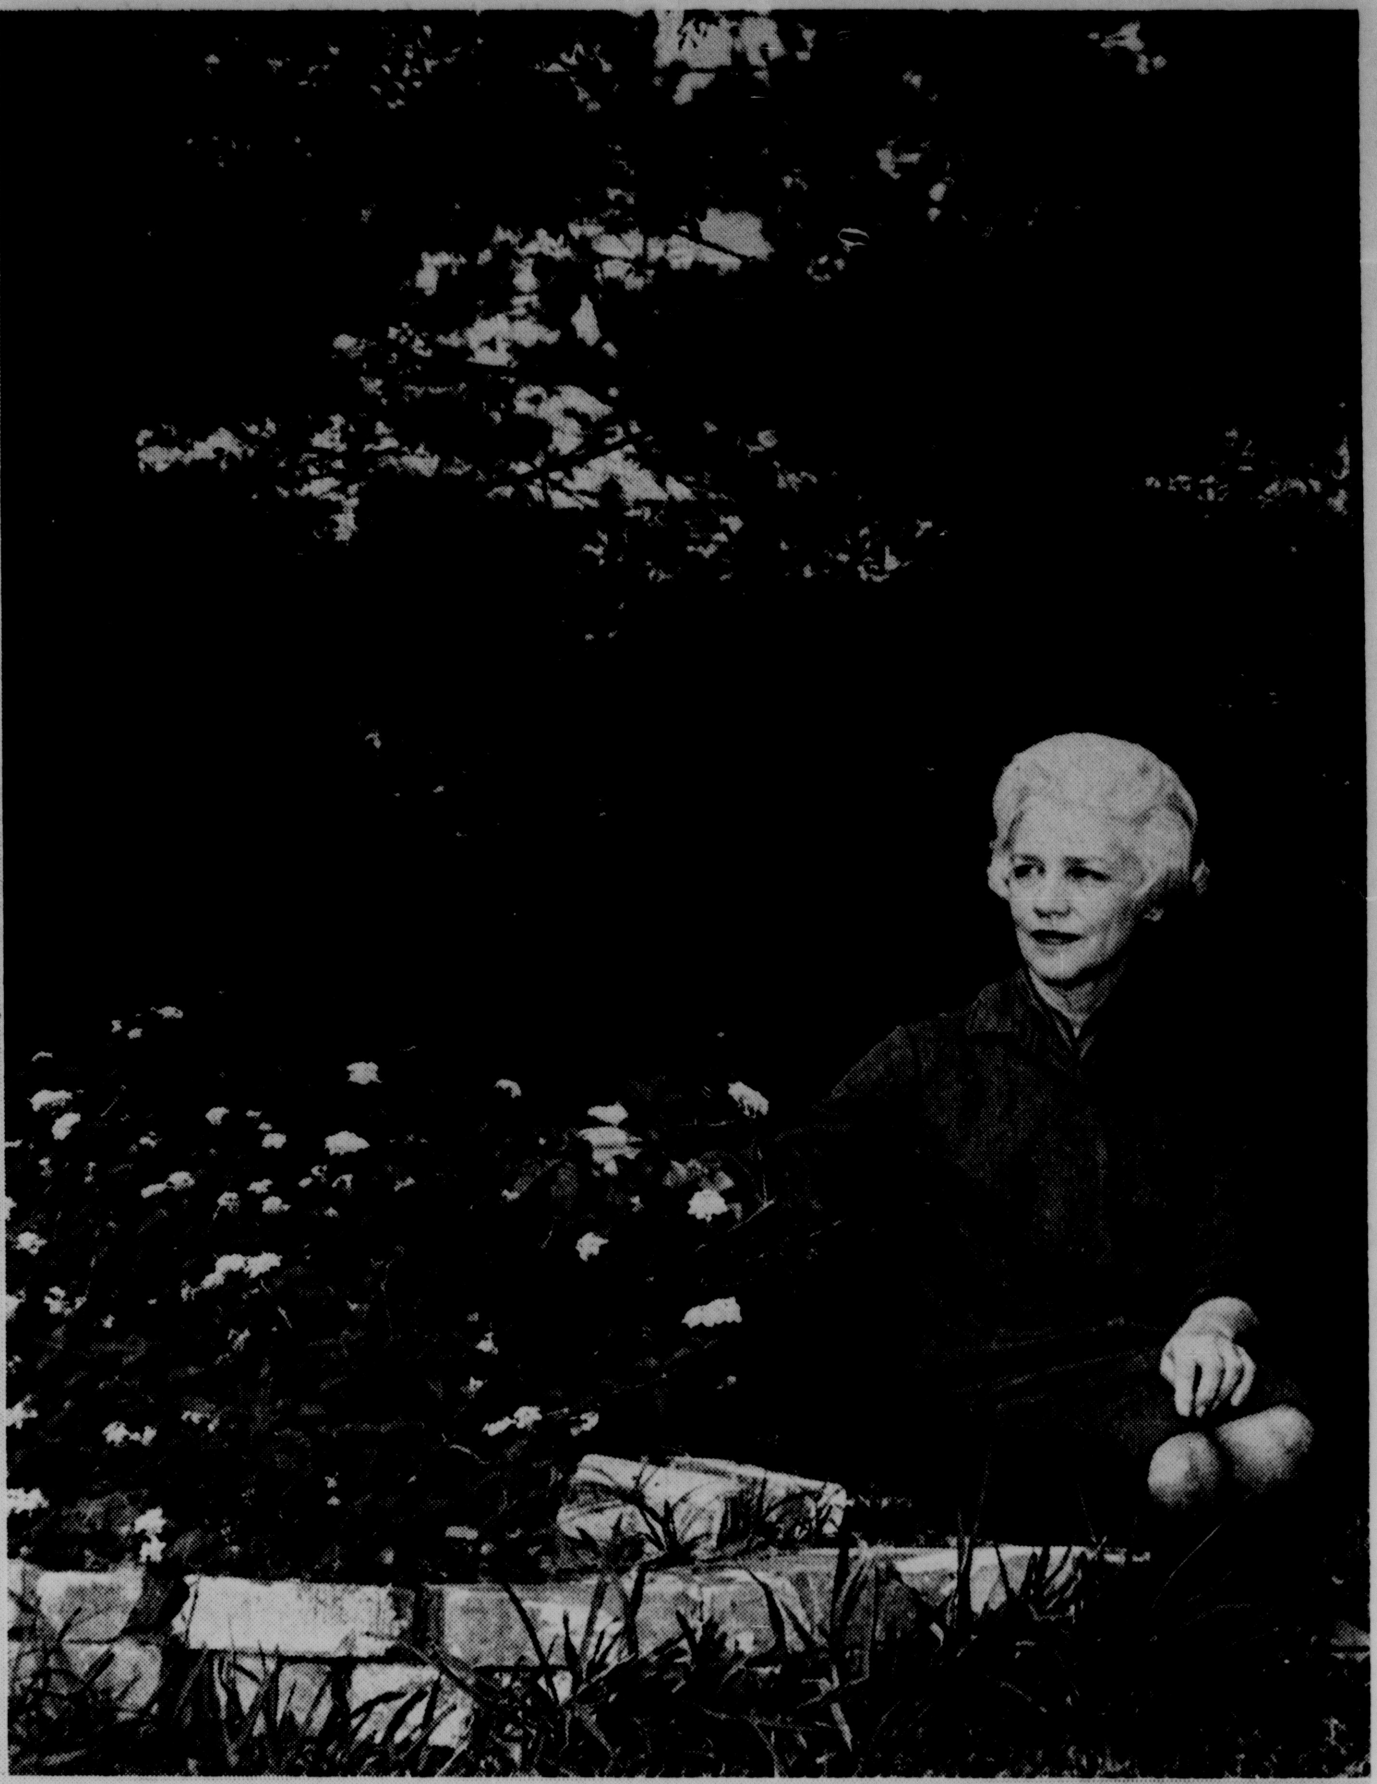
The World For WOMEN

October 31, 1965

Synonymous with autumn are pungent golden-hued chrysanthemums which vie for splendor with trees whose leaves are turning to brilliant autumn hues as the golden days of October draw to a close. A year around scenic spot is the spacious garden overlooking Bayou DeSiard at the G. L. Morgan home, 2801 Pargoud Blvd. Mrs. Morgan is pictured on the sunny patio where golden yellow chrysanthemums are blooming in massive brass urns.



Splendors of autumn with warm sunny days and crisp nights offer a new incentive for spending leisure hours out of doors. Typical of the outdoor lovers at this season of the year is Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, 2604 Beloit, pictured here on a low brick wall surrounding a bed of late blooming lantana in her garden. The Guthries also share many leisure hours in the out-of-doors with family members at the Guthrie farm, located north of Monroe.

Autumn Splendors

Late blooming roses and stately pines provide a picturesque setting around the wide expanse of lawn sloping to the edge of Bayou DeSiard at the Clark Boyce home, 3 Buie Drive. Mrs. Boyce is pictured taking advantage of the pleasant fall days as she picks a bouquet of roses from her garden, where butterfly lilies and coleus are also providing a colorful background of blossoms.

With the coming of autumn is the harvest of pumpkins to be carved into Jack o'lantern faces for Halloween as October makes its exit. Costumed for the gay door-to-door trek in search of tricks or treats are the young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lauve, 1408 Emerson, pictured here with their mother, and a grinning pumpkin jack o'lantern to greet guests tonight. They are Mary Morrison Lauve, 1 year old, at left and Katherine, 2½, costumed as witches, complete with miniature brooms.

MRS. JAMES GRAVES THEUS

Kathryn Louise Trimble, James Graves Theus Wed In LSU Campus Chapel

Saint Alban's Episcopal Chapel on LSU Campus in Baton Rouge was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Kathryn Louise Trimble, daughter of The Rev. and Mrs. William Bradley Trimble, 501 Erin Ave., and James Graves Theus, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford Theus, Loop Road, Monroe, on Friday, October 22, at 11 a.m.

Flanking the altar cross were the office lights, Eucharistic candles and twin arrangements of white roses, chrysanthemums and gladioli in brass containers. On either side of the chancel were white standards holding similar arrangements of chrysanthemums and roses.

An organ prelude of nuptial music by Bach was presented by Michael Rudd, who played Purcell's Trumpet Voluntary for the processional and Now Thank We All Our God for the recessional.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. At the chancel steps The Rev. Robert M. Cooper heard their marriage vows at which time the bride's father vested and met them at the altar where he solemnized the marriage. The Rev. Urban T. Holmes celebrated the Nuptial Eucharist after which Father Trimble gave the nuptial blessing. John Blackman of Monroe served as acolyte.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of pale ivory silk satin with Empire bodice accented by a banding of Rosepoint lace. The lace pattern was repeated on the three-quarter sleeves. Side and back fullness of the bell shaped skirt swept into a chapel length train. Her mantilla style veil of Venetian lace fell the length of her train. She carried a white lace covered Prayer Book topped with a colonial bouquet of white roses and orchids. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Mimi Hebert of Plaquemine attended the bride as maid of honor. Her gown of camellia pink taffeta was fashioned with a moulded basque bodice, bateau neckline and full length belled skirt. She wore a matching coif and carried a single white chrysanthemum.

Mr. Theus served his son as best man. Ushers were Terry Miller of Baton Rouge; Paul Harvey, Harvey Perry and Edwin Theus, all of Monroe.

Mrs. Trimble chose for her daughter's wedding a mint green brocade suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Theus, mother of the groom, wore a gown of toast colored silk brocade with accessories to match and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

WEDDING LUNCHEON

A bridal luncheon following the ceremony was held at Baton Rouge Country Club for members of the wedding party and families. Arrangements of white and gold chrysanthemums, stock and fern formed the decor.

For their wedding trip to New Orleans the bride changed into a mauve tweed mohair dressmaker suit with cutaway coat, bound with bronze satin. Her accessories were of brown lizard and she wore a hat of matching suede, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Baton Rouge where both will continue studies at Louisiana State University. Mrs. Theus is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Everett Finch of Malvern, Arkansas and of Mrs. Charles Nelson Trimble and the late Mr. Trimble of El Dorado, Ark. A graduate of Neville high school, she attended Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg, Virginia, and was pledged to Pi Beta Phi at LSU. Also a graduate of Neville high school, Mr. Thèus is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity at LSU. The groom is the grandson of Mrs. James Quarles Graves and the late Dr. Graves and of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford Theus Sr., all of Monroe.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Charles Nelson Trimble of El Dorado, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Michael Gregory of Columbia, S.C., sister of the groom; William King Stubbs Jr., New Orleans; Miss Carol Hester, Lake Providence; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McDonald, Brookhaven, Miss., Mrs. Haydn Cutler, Picayune, Miss., Mrs. Hiram Hebert, Plaquemine and from Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Alex B. Myatt, Mr. and Mrs. William King Stubbs Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Breard and Sally; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Shafto, Miss Paula Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Theus.

Hints Offered Party-Givers

Fall is the season for gala parties and to make certain that your first party of the season is a success, be sure to plan it well in advance.

Your first consideration should be your guest list. Don't try to "kill too many birds with one stone" by inviting everyone you owe invitations to. Invite only as many people as you can serve comfortable. Be certain that your guests fit together well conversationally and make sure to include a few good talkers to get the party going.

It is up to the host and hostess to set the mood of the party. It is imperative that both be at the door to greet arriving guests and that their welcome be cordial and warm, making their guests feel they are glad that they came.

Candlelight Vows Unite Couple In Sicily Island

The wedding of Miss Judith Gayle Krause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krause and Kenneth Wayne Bird, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Bird, all of Sicily Island, was solemnized Saturday, October 23 in Sicily Island Methodist Church.

Candle trees alternated by large ferns and pedestal baskets of feathered chrysanthemums, dahlias and greenery were placed at each side of the altar. Large lace ferns were also used on the altar, above which was a lighted cross to form a background for the ceremony at 7 p.m. performed by Rev. L. W. Taylor.

Miss Joy Taylor presented an organ prelude and accompanied the soloist, Miss Teresa Young.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie with bodice of Chantilly lace featuring fitted sleeves tapered to points at the wrists. The bell shaped skirt with scalloped hem cut away in front and terminating in a back train. Her short veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls and sequins and she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Identically gowned in gold peau de soie were the bride's attendants, Miss Diana Chambless of Houston, her cousin, as maid of honor, and Miss Melanie Krause, her sister as bridesmaid. Their street length dresses were styled with fitted bodices, shell necklines and belled skirts. They wore gold satin circle headdresses with matching tulle veils and carried bouquets of bronze carnations and gold streamers. Each wore a tiny silver cross, a gift of the bride.

Steve Crawford served as best man for Mr. Krause and groomsman was Dallas Batey Jr. Ushers were Lynn Evans and Sam Labrano.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a pink knit suit with pink feathered hat, black patent accessories and a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother chose a blue and white silk coat dress with white hat, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the home of Mrs. Vivian Enright. Hurricane lanterns lighted the walk leading to the entrance where the bridal party received guests. At one end of the hall Miss Doris Cotton presided at the guest book table which was covered with a white satin floor length cloth, overlaid by white net and ornamented by a gold candle stick and candle.

In the dining room the bride's table was covered with a gold cloth, overlaid by white net falling in ruffles to the floor. Nosegays adorned the edge of the round table. Two large rings entwined in greenery and small gold chrysanthemums, crested with white doves formed the centerpiece for the table.

The bride's cake was served by Miss Charolotte Mason and Miss Dianne Albritton and presiding at the crystal punch bowl was Miss Peggy Krause. Floating hostesses were Mrs. Willey Knight, Mrs. O. O. Krause and Mrs. Enright.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a cranberry knit suit with matching hat, bone lizard accessories and a white carnation corsage. They will be at home in Jonesville, where both are employed by a chemical company. Both are graduates of Sicily Island high school and Mrs. Bird attended Louisiana Business College of Monroe.

Textures Tamed For Fall's Flat, Flattering Fabrics

Flat. At first glance it may not seem very appealing, but that's the trend for fall's fashion fabrics. And a second look reveals that a more apt term might be "flattery."

Textures have tamed down, as loopy, curly effects give way to boucle looks — woven closer to the surface and, yes, flatter. Pebbly tweeds now take a restrained and refined view of surface interest.

Even bigger news is the fashion diversity of smooth and rich or crisp and lightly-textured interest.

Men's wear worsteds, twills, random ribs, diagonals, nappy shetlands, discreet fleeces, melons, coverts, ottomans, sharkskins, present a texture so tasteful, it's almost an illusion — and therefore very appropriate to this fall when the Op art influence has brought on a deluge of fool-the-eye patterns of every sort.

In many fabrics, suppleness is the key to fall's soft look. Crepes and chiffons shape up in fashionably feminine style. "Naked" wools, light as a whisper, soft as a sigh, loom up as fabric favorites. Pliable jerseys and knits of all kinds sketch pretty silhouettes.

Open, airy textures express the light-hearted young feeling of the season — for instance, crochet - like weaves with the hand-knit look. Knits generally continue along the path to greater and greater fashion importance.

Stripes, plaids, checks often have a shadowy air. However bright the colors, textures are generally smoothed down in a smartly-classic way.

For evening, too, classicism prevails, in satins, brocades, floaty silks. Surface interest appears in cloque and other fabrics with light, puffy textures.

"Durable press" fabrics have impact, particularly in sportswear, men's wear, children's wear. These are the fabrics that due to new processes, are said to retain pleats and creases after washing, with no ironing or touch-up required.

WRINKLE-FREE COWBOYS

Now your little range - riders and denim-dudes can catch cattle rustlers and run the stage coach through Indian country without getting too wrinkled in the process. A dacron - cotton denim fabric has been developed for manufacturers of Western and dress-up jeans. It comes, says Textile World, with a no-iron permanent-press finish that stays wrinkle free for the life of the garment.

MISS DOROTHY DALE HERNANDEZ

New Styles In Furry Fun

Holey furs is designer Jacques Kaplan's idea of fun, fun, fun at a price that may not seem as laughable to husbands paying for them.

Holes the size of port holes turn mink and persian lamb coats and dresses into something that looks like the victim of cannon target practice.

The holes can be filled up with something else. "You can fill the holes with marabou or ostrich and be part bird, part beast," Kaplan says.

A nude body stocking may be worn under them for shock effect, or the see-through may be plugged up with other furs, creating a three - dimensional effect.

Other zany styles whipped up by Kaplan from animal skins included a space cape and helmet in yellow Chinese kidskin; a white Mongolian lamp ice-cream cone, the eyes being the only part of the woman that shines through; as well as a Swakara white broadtail wedding dress with 10 feet of train.

Dorothy Dale Hernandez Plans December Wedding

Engagement of Miss Dorothy Dale Hernandez and Carl Frederick Jory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jory of Eunice is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Eugene Hernandez, of Leesville.

The wedding will be solemnized Saturday, December 18 at 8 p.m. in the First Methodist Church, Leesville with Rev. Kirby Vining officiating.

Miss Hernandez has chosen her sister, Miss Ava Frances Hernandez as maid of honor and her cousin, Mrs. Kathie Ewing of Monroe, as matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Nancy Kay Brown of Oak Ridge, also a cousin of the bride-elect; Miss Ellen Gail Jory, of Eunice, sister of her fiance; Miss Annette Ashley of Greenville, Miss., Mrs. William Walton Howell, Little Rock, Ark., Miss Patricia Padgett of Opelousas and Miss Jo Anne Rogers of Grande Cane.

Mr. Jory will attend his son as best man and named as ushers are Donald Russell Jory, brother of the future bridegroom; James Kirk Salter Jr., of Eunice; William Walton Howell, Little Rock, Ark., Joseph Oliver LaPrairie Jr., of Bunkie; Billy Barnes Works, Ruston; Phillip Webster LaHaye Jr., and Veil David DeVillier Jr., both of Eunice.

Serving as flower girl and ring bearer will be Miss Krista Katherine Ewing and Robert Ewing IV, daughter and son of Mrs. Kathie Fleischmann Ewing and Robert Ewing III, both of Monroe.

The bride - elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Jesse Jones Nolan of Oak Grove and the late Mr. Nolan and of Mrs. Peter Felix Hernandez of Leesville and the late Mr. Hernandez. She is a graduate of Louisiana State University where she received her B. S. degree in education in 1965 and is a member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Miss Hernandez, a finalist in the Miss Louisiana pageant, reigned two years as West Louisiana Forestry Queen, was Sugar Bowl maid of honor, a representative from Louisiana to International Lions Convention, was chosen as Miss Central Louisiana, Mardi Gras Queen and a member of Holiday in Dixie Honor Court.

While at LSU she was a Circle K Calendar Girl and Cover Girl, Electrical Engineering Queen, National Pershing Rifle Sponsor, a member of Kappa Sigma Dream Girl court and a Darling finalist for three years.

Mr. Jory is the grandson of James Robert Johnston of Eunice and the late Mrs. Johnston and of Mrs. Harry Jory of Knoxville, Tenn., and the late Mr. Jory. He attended Tulane University, was graduated from LSU and now attends LSU School of Medicine in New Orleans, and is a member of Kappa Sigma and Nu Sigma Nu Medical fraternity.

Following their wedding the couple will reside in New Orleans where Mr. Jory will continue his studies in medical school.

Op Art Shades New In Home

If you install some of the new "op art" window shades, be sure that none of the spots before your eyes are caused by dirt and smudges.

These shades, which feature distorted dots, slanted stripes, and other off - beat patterns, need to be sponged off occasionally with soap or detergent suds even though the soil is not as visible as on a plain surface.

MISS JUDITH ANNE GUTHRIE

EVENING PAJAMAS

A stunning one-piece "'evening pajamas" costume, shows the beauty of bias cut softness held to a slender flowing line. This has blouson bodice, slender hipline and full-flowing "divided skirt" with hemline as wide as a dance dress. This, in fluid white wool crepe of "candle white," caught at the waistline with a knotted rope of white crystals.

Oklahoma City Girl To Wed Leo McStravick Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. George William Guthrie of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith Anne to Ensign Leo Joseph McStravick Jr., United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Joseph McStravick Sr., 610 Hilton Street, Monroe.

Miss Guthrie attended Barat College of the Sacred Heart, Lake Forest, Illinois for two years. She presently attends Oklahoma City University where she is working toward her Bachelor of Arts and Science degree and teaching certificate in elementary education.

Ensign McStravick graduated from the University of Notre Dame in 1965 with a Bachelor of Arts Degree. He is at present stationed at Pensacola, Florida in naval aviation training.

The wedding will take place in Oklahoma City on December 28.

Stretch, Deep Pile Favorite Leisure Wear

Women's fashions for fall and winter 1965 reflect the tremendous freedom given designers in the past few years. Increased leisure, increased spending, the influence of Mods, Rockers, Courreges, skiing, the Frug, the Twist, the Monkey — all inspired greater individuality in women's fashions, even whole new designs.

Two fabrics that have helped the designers achieve their goals are "Actionwear" fabrics and deep pile fabrics.

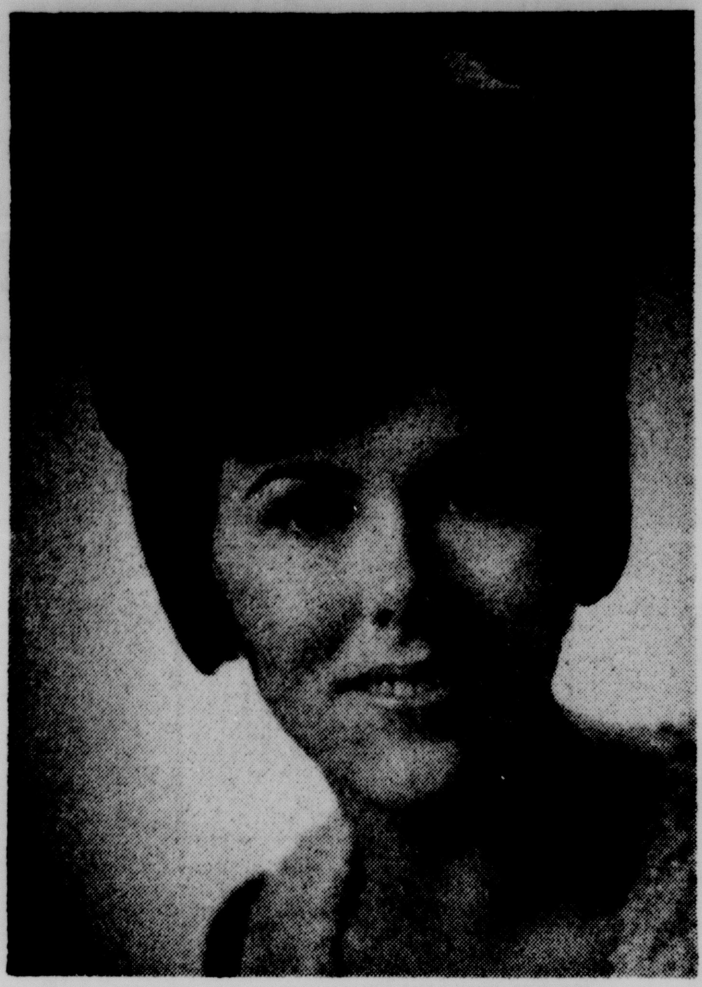
"Actionwear" is being applied everywhere, to pants, tops, sweaters, slacks, dresses, everywhere where comfort, ease, stretch-and-recovery are needed.

Pile is used outside as well as inside nowadays — in great, big fuzzy fabrics or sleek trim ones — but all warm, lightweight, colorful.

Folk Art Is Ageless

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A young child punching and pounding a bit of clay into rough shapes is entering an experience as old as history and as new as today, according to Dr. Edward L. Mattil, head of the Department of Art Education at Penn State University.

"Folk art or crafts exist in every country, at every period," Dr. Mattil said. "Folk art most often grows out of the need to produce a useful object. In Greek museums, I saw ancient crafts in the form of beautiful, gold drinking cups dating back to classical times."



ENGAGEMENT of Miss Jan Gentry and Larry Steven Green is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gentry, 415 Audubon, West Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Green, Jonesboro Road, West Monroe. The wedding is planned for December 18 at 6 p.m. in Ridge Avenue Baptist Church; West Monroe.

Fall Rainwear Doubles In Fashion, Function

Today's homemaker is a woman-about-town. Her hectic, almost non-stop activities mean that some days there's no time to check weather forecasts or social calendars. Among her firmest fashion allies are rainwear manufacturers, who have broken through design stereotypes to produce coats that blend weather-wise features with smart styling. The new coats travel through rain, snow, sleet and sun, from supermarket to PTA to afternoon tea, spotless and unwrinkled.

Most of today's coats have been designed to transcend the rainwear category and serve as transitional weather coats. They are the perfect fashion answer to September's crisp days and October's showers. The unlimited range of styles and down-to-earth prices make it possible for any woman to add a well-designed raincoat to her wardrobe. When it comes to selection, the sky's the limit. Some of the latest innovations in rainwear:

—The "slick" look, imported from France and interpreted in traffic-stopping colors and patent-leather like materials. These coats — in jet black, fire engine red, Ming yellow, polar bear white — are favorites for the junior set and young suburbanites.

— Raincoats that emerge again after dark as evening coats fill dual purposes. In brocades, twills, rich colors and fabrics, these coats with a dressed-up look lend zest to the rainy-day scene and double beautifully as theatre coats at night.

— New fabric finishes such as "Scotchgard" rain and stain repeller have brought about the all-weather coat. Wools, gabardines, cottons, even nubby fabrics so treated will resist raindrops as well as pills and stain, even oily ones. When liquid hits this fabric, it beads up on the fabric and can be blotted away — or in case of a raincoat it will roll right off. Because of this type of fabric finish, manufacturers now offer women coats that can travel through clear or rainy weather, and even go out in a snow-storm and preserve their good looks.

— The "avant-garde" look is the new look in rainwear. Rainwear has become a testing ground for new coat design, and any woman who has the urge to dress "daringly" can let herself go in the rainwear field. Among the newest coats seen: capes with ruffled collars, Op art fabrics, embroidered coats, appliqued coats, coats in every shape and color.

— The rainsuit has been making news. Fashion designers have equipped women with rainsuits that can stand on their own, without coat or umbrella. Rainsuits are made of fabric that can shake off raindrops, so there's never danger of the "drenched" look replacing the chic look.

Today's Costume Jewelry Has International Flavor

Jewelry that meets the mood of today's spirited young girl on the go is the look of a lively new collection of costume jewelry.

Created for the growing number of young individualists who range between the ages of 15 and 20, plus, and may be in school, married, or in careers, the jewelry reflects the discriminating taste of its wearer, and originality.

Today's Worldly girl has wide vistas. the designers have combed the cultural corners of past and present history to bring a highly international flavor to its premiere collection this fall.

Necklaces, bracelets, pins, rings and earrings flash with captivating freshness, to cover a wide range of activities, interests and fashion fads:

Marvelous Buddhas, Roman heads dramatize rings and stand stylishly in relief on big three inch key pins and chain pendants, jade Buddhas bare the influence of India with carved figurines, while the palate of France is personified with a wonderful wine keeper's key and chain design that can be worn as a dashing 30" necklace or swashbuckling belt. Even today's architectural look inspired by Courreges will be found in cleverly designed A-line animal pins with satin toned pewter and brass finishes and a futuristic look all their own.

Scotland is having a real highland fling in fashion infusing the colorful influences of its many clansmen. Kilt pins kick up the biggest style story with enameled emblems.

Stamps also get into the jewelry act just to be sure our girl - about - the - world doesn't forget to write home. Authentic old issues have been shellacked to shiney newness and serve as eyecatching charms that dangle from bracelets, bar pins and pendants.

All part of the light touch that will be found in the collection called "47 West".

FROST GLASSES

For a party at which you are serving fruit compote, you might like to put the compote in frosted sherbet glasses. Dip the edge of each sherbet glass in lemon juice, then in granulated sugar; chill in the refrigerator so the frost will "set."

Pants Costume Dominates Lounging Scene

The pants costume dominates the lounging scene this fall with bell - bottom trousers the sweeping rage. Shaker knits add rich texture for evening wear with see - through crochet yoke and sleeves, teamed with both day and evening length skirts. Soft glittering brocades and heavy rich crepes are also essential to the evening silhouette.

Hats this season hug the head and are predominant in colors to complete the total took in fashion.

In footwear, toes are rounder on mid and short heel styles, while high heels still have a gentle fingertip feeling. Heels are definitely getting lower in all styles with a trend to straps, ties and lots of buckles, buttons and bows providing a dressmaker touch. Color is the news in shoes, spotlighting brassy browns, pale taupes, bronzy greens, with white appearing as an outstanding neutral for ensemble interest.

Quick Sunday - night supper soup: add milk and diced cooked ham to creamstyle corn and heat to serving temperature.

Christmas Comes Early At B&PW Charm Show

By BETTE ELLEN SMITH

With Christmas more than seven weeks away, one group of local women, working singly and together, has completed a fabulous display of handmade decorations for the home and articles for gift-giving.

Members of Monroe Business and Professional Women's Club, with their annual Charm Show scheduled for Tuesday, November 9 at the Paragon Supper Club, hope to spark interest in the upcoming holiday season with their displays of handmade articles and gift ideas.

Many of the members have been working since last Spring on the unique pieces of handicraft for the show, in the hopes of conveying to those attending, ideas for making their own decorations and gifts.

Planned in conjunction with the handicrafts display is a style show, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Fashions for the holidays will be presented by Silverstein's, Field's, Letha's, Sorkins, Allens and The Palace as well as children's holiday wear by Dee Dee's.

A holiday table will also be displayed by The Palace and Trend House will provide a living room setting to furnish a background for the fashion show, as well as a table for gift wrapping and candle exhibit.

Other local firms planning displays for the show are Howard Griffin Toys, the Flower Shoppe, with flower arrangement and decoration ideas; Mittell's Art Shop and exhibits by House of Light and Gene's Sporting Goods. Wigs, in styles created for holiday wear, will be displayed by Roselyn's and Temple of Beauty and of interest to men attending will be a private gun collection as well as a private coin collection.

The club members' displays of decorations and gift ideas will range from hand-painted china to Christmas tree skirts, of felt, elaborately decorated with sequined appliques of trees and snow scenes.

Also included in the dazzling array of handicraft will be porcelainized, flower arrangements, hand knitted doll costumes, laundry bags in the shape of angels to hang on a little girl's door, a framed picture embroidered on burlap, and a lamp base of chipped glass in greens and blues.

For home decor ideas there will be tiny snow figures of sequin-trimmed felt in bright shades, Christmas mobiles, and brilliant jeweled trees, created with discarded jewelry on a styrofoam base and anchored in inexpensive compotes. Numerous other Christmas ideas to intrigue the viewer will be on display.

Also planned for entertainment during the Charm show is a talent show by local performers and refreshments will be served during the evening.

Mrs. Lorraine Keith is president of the B & PW club with Mrs. Elizabeth Burdeaux serving as Charm Show chairman and Mrs. Mary Gene Lea, chairman of the handicraft displays.

Newly Formed Harding Group To Meet Here

North Louisiana Chapter of the Associated Women of Harding College will meet Tuesday, November 2 at Julia Wossman Recreation Center in Monroe, starting at 7 p.m.

All new members at this date will be considered charter members. Combined membership of this North Louisiana Chapter, which was organized September 7, 1965, now totals 80 women. Purpose of the organization is to work for christian education and the support of Harding College, at Searcy, Arkansas.

Officers chosen at the initial meeting, include Mrs. Ann Paylor, president; Mrs. W. L. Howard, first vice-president; Mrs. Mabel Meeks, second vice - presidnnt; Mrs. Lydia Kilkenndy, third vice - president; Mrs. Marie Yingling, secretary; Mrs. Geneva Chambliss, treasurer; Mrs. Hazel Turnner, reporter and Mrs. Ann Lee, historian.

GINGERSNAP CRUST

Add soft butter to gingersnap cookie crumbs and press over bottom and around sides of a pie plate. Bake in a moderate oven for five to eight minutes. Cool and fill with vanilla pudding - and - pie fillings. Garnish with poached apple slices and whipped cream for a different and delicious dessert.

Dresses Keep Step With New Trends

Dresses take their ease this fall in bloused and biased shapes. They're reed-slim — or dirndl - skirted. They're smock-shaped, with high yokes accented by braid or smocking, with high-tied belts counter balanced by low - placed pockets, with soft bows or self scarves to enhance necklines.

They're costume components — shifty and sleeveless to accompany a coat, or full and flowing of sleeve and active of skirt to pair with a little bolero, perhaps in a furry-like fabric. They're costumes in themselves — two-piece styles, showing off the biased, bloused, smocked and pleated trends, or coat dresses, newest with side closings.

FASHION FOREFRONT

They're English dandies, with the London look of crisp white bibs or ruffled fill-ins. They're made for movement — daytime or discotheque, in simple, supple styles that make the most of crochet-look suits, "naked" wools, fluid crepes and jerseys.

Dresses, in short, partake of all the ladylike elegance and young verve that characterize the fall '65 fashion season.

For daytime, the soft, easy silhouette leads. Basic simplicity may rely on color, fabric and fluidity of line for fashion, interest, or the softening influence of ruffles, lace, bows, scarves may appear.

SLEEVES ARE NEWS

When sleeves are present, they are important indeed. The long, full sleeve with buttoned cuff and the flared, kimono-like sleeve take their place in the fall dress picture.

Along with softness and ease, dresses also express the strict and spare "Courreges" look. Almost always, however, the soft touch is apparent.

A graduate of Ouachita Parish high school she received her degree from Northeast Louisiana State College at graduation ceremonies at end of the summer 1965 term.

Grandparents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shipp of Bosco and Mrs. J. A. Long and the late Mr. Long of Riverton. A graduate of Ouachita Parish high school Mr. Long is a senior at Northeast Louisiana State College where he is a member of Pi Sigma Epsilon fraternity.

Demure Or Daring Look For Holidays

Top designers for the swinging set have created fashions that are bound to be in the swim at any discotheque, to the tune of the coolest combo or at big occasions during the holiday season. There are clingy crepes, crisp knits of Celanese Arnel triacetate and sophisticated brocades and ottomans for top priority dates.

These datesetting fashions come with buttons and bows, pleats and playful ruffles adding up to a look that is demure or daring, mod or marvelously feminine. There are shifts, fitted and free, the nightshirt look in crepes and jerseys, pants with flirty flaring flounces. Skirts are short, short-short or flatteringly full - length.

The Miss Datesetter collection of danceable, wearable date dresses chosen by a panel of college men, has taken the latest cues from Paris at its young news - making best with black and white shifts in a Mondrian motif or the opulent look of maribou on white brocade.

HEART TROUBLE

Are you headed for heart trouble?

Well, if you — a man — dislike helping your wife with the dishes, chafe under the idea that you could be doing something more important, bothered by slow drivers, try to win when playing games with your children, and feel that time is getting away from you, then the answer is yes.

According to Dr. R. J. Kositchek, member of a team of heart specialists at St. Joseph's Hospital in Burbank, Calif., a recently completed survey indicated yes answers to such questions were clues to the presence of threatening fats in the blood.

The experiments were conducted over a period of six years and required blood samples from more than 30,000 persons.

Curved Toes, T-Straps Prominent In Fall Shoes

NEW YORK — Don't point! That's the newest rule of etiquette for leather footwear this fall.

The well - bred foot will be wearing round - toed shoes of soft lightweight leather, elegantly bared or pared for a fresh fashion approach. This roundness may be defined in terms of half - dollar or quarter arcs, spreading out from the shoe tip in a generally wider contour. From moccasins to mules, reports Leather Industries of America, every type of leather footwear will toe the line in a new direction — toward the curve.

Illuminating the fall footwear collection are leathers combining beauty, strength and pliability. Tried - and - true textures include smooth, grained, suede, brushed and patent leathers. Among the newer leather finishes are sporty waxed leather, distinctive embossed and antiqued leathers, "op art" printed leathers, and velvety - textured reverse calf. With leather's "breathability" to guarantee dryness and a continual flow of fresh air — plus its ability to mold itself to the foot — an all-leather shoe is a boon to grace and comfort as well as to fashion.

Here is the Fall - Winter '65 slate of style highlights to guide you in your shoe - shopping for the new season:

DAYTIME SLINGS AND STRAPS: Sling-backs and strap-shoes — the most feminine of footwear—slither into autumn in rich - looking yet rugged leathers. Float through those busy fall days in new variations on these styles fashioned from smooth, suede, patent, brushed and embossed leathers.

The tender strap takes many forms from the split to the sabot (wide and sporty) — also T, double - T, instep, vamp. It may grace a pump, a sling, or a sandal. The equally versatile sling - back may expose most of the foot, half the foot or merely the heel. Slings curve freely from their starting points or are secured by tiny supports at side or back. In width, they range from skinny to almost shoe-deep. Many are elasticized to hug the heel.

PUMPS ON PARADE: Prominent in the fall footwear parade are leather pumps sheared to a sleek new shaping. Low back and sides, and foreshortened vamp, are part of this silhouette, while cut - outs at instep or sides may reveal the foot discreetly. Sometimes you will find important up - front fashion detailing — a high sweep of leather, an outside buckle or bow, or lacing from toe to top. Weightless leather linings provide pumps with a smooth inner surface to protect against discomfort and stocking snags, plus porosity to prevent foot moisture.

THE BIG BOOT: The busy boot — now worn indoors and out, in sunlight and snow—looks forward to another banner year. Crafted from every kind of leather, most popular boot this season is an untrimmed calf-skimming beauty with rounded or blunt toe — it's the perfect height to balance today's shorter skirts. When decoration is used, it's mostly confined to zippers, lacing, gored inserts or stitching. For ingenues from sixteen to I've - got - a - secret, there's the Courreges-look boot with open toe and - or circular cut - outs through which may be seen textured hose.

Low on the leg but high in favor are ankle bootees and boot - shoes in a stunning line-up of leathers. Embellished with fur, bows, laced eyelets and openings of all kinds, these junior - boots may play a dressy or casual role in your wardrobe.

When winter zeroes in, be prepared to boot out Jack Frost with a cozy shearling-lined leather boot. Recently developed tanning techniques have resulted in weather - proof finishes that will keep your boots unmarked and new - looking longer. And when your leather boots need renewing, a damp cloth will remove city dirt, country mud and salt stains — without sacrificing foot - molding pliability, softness or good looks.

THE SPORTING LIFE: The sports and casual corner of your shoe closet will be well - stocked with handsome leather walking shoes, moccasins and ties. You'll marvel at the many variations in moccasin leathers and styling. This casual favorite comes in classic and up - dated versions with handstitching, kiltie fringe, straps, double - leather combinations, even sling-backs.

Let's take a new-fashioned walk in the latest leather walkers. Winsome tie-shoes with lacings, ghillies and all types of ties are rapidly catching up to conventional spectators and oxfords. Many feature combinations of leather textures, as brushed leather with embossed leather trim or smooth and suede leathers. Comfort is covered from top to bottom, where the leather sole flexes with your foot action while insuring necessary support and safety.

AT-HOME LEATHERS: When playing the "stay - at - home," your feet won't mind if they're shod in pretty leather loungers. Boot - shoes and slippers, fetching low - heeled flatties and sandals, and glamorous mules will keep you elegantly at ease, whether you prefer the role of hermit or hostess. One bare-heeled beauty, cut bootee-high at the instep, highlights two tones of leather and a curvy little heel. Another version of the mule has a lower - cut front, but laces around the ankle. Sandals and flatties favored for the leisure life are cut and curved from soft lightweight leathers and decorated with jeweling, braid, flowers or bows.

GALA LEATHERS: Bringing their own glow to after - five festivities this fall are exquisite evening shoes in smooth, suede, lustre and embossed leathers. These stripping sandals, slings and slinky pumps are color-cast to delight the eye in black, soft pastels and rich jewel tones. Tasteful trim includes the largest or littlest of buckles, jeweling, nailheads, and cut - aways at vamp or sides. Higher heels are on the rise in this late-day and evening category, though slim mid - heels are still plentiful.

Early Winter Care Of House Plants Pays Off

How you treat your house plants now decides how they will do for many months.

Inspect your plants. Any that show signs of insects — including small, flat, brown or white scales on the leaves — spray at once with any good house plant spray, following directions carefully.

Wash leaves to remove dust or mud spatterings. Traditionally, this is to keep the pores from being clogged — most of them are safely underneath. More important, it lets sunlight reach them.

Loosen the soil. If you don't, water can't get in, liquid plant foods are wasted an the interchange of air and gases necessary in soil cannot take place. For this use a stainless steel Green Thumb potting tool.

If the plants have not had new soil for a long time and they show it, repot into a good, commercial plant mix.

Finally, those plants that show signs of wanting to grow, keep active with sufficient water and food as directed. Those that want to rest, give a minimum of water, keep on the cool side and do not feed.

Now for some notes on plants: Cacti and their cousins want peace and quiet until February. Then give a warm, sunny window and when in growth give as much water as ordinary plants.

African violets should be active practically all year round. If they do not bloom, move to different windows until you find the right one, neither stuffy nor drafty and 70 to 73 degrees by day.

Begonias, flowering sorts usually bloom October to June. Give a fair amount of sun, preferably not over 70 degrees and feed occasionally. Fancy-leaved sorts can do with a little less light.

Lush, Deep Colors Noted In Winter Coats, Suits

Away with the old subdued Fall tones. Enter cheery colors. Fashion says, "let's be lively and lovely whatever the season." An executive of National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry says, "Elegance, the theme of our festival is in line with the national drive to beautify our country."

The range of colors is greater than ever. Lush, deep colors. Rose, raspberry and wines go to one's head and suit. Blues, ginger and coppers are rich. Greens, oranges and reds are bold. The more conservative will have their share of beauty-new greys, coffee browns, black.

Skirts are the focal point of interest. They highlight dirndl softness — lightly gathered all around or only in the front. Often, a pair of slit pockets is incorporated in the dirndl look.

Pleated skirts are again on the scene in this year of motion. Pleats appear at each side with wide front and back panels — or they go all around. When skirts are slim they are eased — and for the truly avant guard, they have a border which sometimes matches the suit jacket.

Jackets aim to flatter and go to every length to do so. Short longer, slim jackets, tunics.

Closings vary, too. The asymmetric closings with buttons following through to the side is slimming. A double - breasted squared - off jacket inspired by Courreges is great over a pleated skirt. The short, shaped jacket — cutaway and fly - front are new favorites.

Fur trims are here again. Fur bands and borders — particularly those of sable take honors. Detachable collars and cuffs are smart and practical.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES F. GREER

Greer-Beasley Nuptials Read In Church Setting

Baskets of blue carnations and blue candles in branched candelabra entwined with ivy formed a setting in the First Methodist Church Chapel, West Monroe, for the wedding of Sue Hamilton Beasley, 1427 Woodland, and Charles F. Greer, 403 Gulpha, both of West Monroe, on Friday, October 22.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hamilton of Downsville and Mr. Greer is the son of Mrs. E. M. Mundy of Augusta, Ga.

Rev. Kenneth McDowell performed the double ring ceremony at 6 p.m. following a program of nuptial music by Mrs. Tommy Spurlock, organist and Mrs. Arnold Kilpatrick, soloist.

Candles were lighted preceding the ceremony by Jack Beasley.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length sheath of ice blue crepe designed with tapered sleeves and fitted bodice coming to a point in front of the slim skirt. Her headdress of matching blue crepe held a blue shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses encircled with blue carnations and showered with blue and white velvet ribbons.

Mrs. Henry Hamilton, matron of honor and Mrs. Jack Hamilton, bridesmaid, were dressed identically in teal blue crepe sheaths in afternoon length, with matching veiled pillbox hats. Each carried a single long-stemmed white rose.

Serving as best man for Mr. Greer was Henry M. Hamilton and ushers were Chris Benton and Jack Hamilton.

Flower girl was Miss Sherry Hamilton, who wore a full-skirted frock of teal blue crepe and carried a white basket of blue pompons.

For the occasion Mrs. Hamilton, mother of the bride, wore an ivory silk and lace suit with blue velvet flower hat, blue gloves and a blue carnation corsage.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the social rooms of the church where the guest book was presided over by Mrs. Donald Ware. Covered with a white linen cloth the reception table was centered with a pedestal arrangement of blue carnations.

Mrs. Earl Hendricks presided at the crystal bowl of blue punch and the pale blue tiered wedding cake adorned with swans and wedding bells was served by Miss Bobbylea Evans. Tea girls were Mrs. Jim Beard and Miss Sue Russell and distributing rice bags were Miss Susan Hamilton, Miss Lael Kilpatrick and Miss Mitzi Hamilton.

For travel when the couple left on a wedding trip to Branson, Missouri, the bride was wearing a magenta wool suit with matching feather hat, black kid accessories and a white rosebud corsage. They will be at home at 1427 Woodland in West Monroe.

Mrs. Greer was graduated from Northeast Louisiana State College where she received her B.A. and M.Ed. degrees. Mr. Greer attended the University of Alabama and is now employed in Monroe.

LATE DAY FASHIONS

Among the striking short-length fashions for late-day-into-midnight wear, is a stunning example from Junior Sophisticates. This directed to the "young, young" look gives miniature checks of lime green and white a solid all-over scattering of glistening diamondettes in matching green. From yarn-thin shoulder straps, the dress cascades to a full-flaring "A" line — utterly simple in silhouette, dramatic in wool checks set ablaze with a solid cover of dancing green stones.

Woman Executive Offers Advice To Job Seekers

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—"If you have to ASK for a raise, there's something wrong with you—or your boss."

That's a woman at a top management level speaking, a woman who determines salary levels for her company's employees from the $60 a week man on up to the $30,000 a year man.

Theda M. Hollinger's answer to the eternal question, "How do I get a raise?" is, "work for it."

"The employer knows the market," she contends. "He should know what he must pay to keep you. . .

"At the skilled worker level, the market is tight nationally."

Mrs. Hollinger, 50, is the chief wage and salary administrator for the Bell & Howell Photo Products Group, Chicago. She sets the wage pattern (the company is not unionized) for 4,000 employees, about half of them women. Wage rates are determined by her staff's surveys of what similar jobs are paying in similar communities around the nation—"finding out what the job is worth," she explained.

The employees range from the shopmen on up through foremen, supervisors, the middle executive and administrative levels. She is not concerned with a "special" payroll, the presidential and vice - presidential levels.

Mrs. Hollinger, tall, blonde, gray - eyed, has been with the company since 1947 when she started as a junior wage coordination clerk. As far as she knows, she's the only woman in the kind of position she holds today and credits three things:

—"I happened to be at the right spot at the right time."

—"If I've had a bit of success, much of the credit should go to my husband, Walter, who understands that a lot of your personal life goes into work."

—"I couldn't have done it without the people around me. I've never been discriminated against because I'm a woman."

Mrs. Hollinger said she was reluctant to give advice to anyone seeking to progress in a job. But she did list some do's and don'ts. Don't be sloppy in attitude toward your performance. Don't attack a job with just personal credit in mind. Your employer is paying you to think for him. Don't be afraid of hard work. Do think that everything you learn will help eventually.

If it's the first job you're looking for, read up on the company or companies to which you're applying before the job interview. Don't have the "well, world, here I am" attitude after college. "Go in a little humble," she said. "The fringe benefits are important, yes, but you also have to gain experience somewhere."

And her advice to young women, no matter what their liberal arts education is, "Work in some secretarial training somenow, but it's always a skill you can brush up on," said the executive who started her career where. You may not need it as a secretary.

GRAPE TONES

Color is bright for day, although stone and gray are equally important. The aubergine or grape tones look the newest, especially in lace and satinback crepe.

And a spooky Hallowe'en to you, too! Goblins have been abroad in the Twin Cities this weekend, with tricks and treats the order of the day — and evening. The entire month of October has been stimulating, with the weather inspiring everyone with more get-up-and-go.

We spoke earlier in the month of meetings which would be hard to follow. This week there was yet another: that of Monroe Literary club, held Wednesday at the home of ELNA TRIMBLE on Bon Aire drive. MARJORIA PHILLIPS, chairman, planned a style show for the meeting, to which members invited guests. Clothes from the Palace reflected the theme, "Versatility in Fashion". Using only three models, each of whom wore three dresses with various changes of accessories, Marjoria showed a variety of costumes for every occasion.

DIBBLE PATE narrated the show. She was wearing an elegantly simple little black skimmer, with jewel neck and three - quarter length sleeves. A double row of jet buttons followed the beautiful lines. She wore a twist of Autumn Haze mink.

Opening the show, CHARLOTTIE DENT showed a shift of bright red double knit wool, accented with buttons on the front yoke and a low, loose belt. Her matching double breasted coat was of covert cloth; her hat, a tall crown cloche of grey velour with red band . . . Also for day wear was the suit worn by CAMILLE WOOD. A wonderfully smooth gray green wool tweed was used for the slightly A-line skirt, double breasted jacket and great coat. A colorful blouse of wool challis and a fine leather belt completed the ensemble.

Textured black silk was used for the dress shown by MARILLYN TAYLOR. The sleeveless model featured a bow at the neckline. With this, she wore first a jacket and hat of natural dark ranch mink . . . For less dressy occasions, the dress could be worn with a high styled coat of black imported shirred wool knit; a toque of stitched imported French velvet.

A basic dress of real distinction was the Italian silk in the new winter navy, modeled by Charlottie. Attention focused on the double cowl neckline, which could be accessorized with a gay scarf, or a brilliant pin. . . Charlottie also showed an all occasion dress in Nile green "naked wool". This versatile model was designed with a cowl of wool edged with a detachable boa of white mink. Charlottie wore a white mink pill box hat.

Demonstrating her own versatility, Camille sang for the group a selection of songs from "Carnival" and "West Side Story." She was wearing a black silk cocktail dress, a crepe sheath topped with flowing panels of silk chiffon. A giant bow of beige silk satin pointed up the low front neckline.

For evening parties or the theatre, Marillyn showed a strapless sheath of black velvet. This she wore first with a back - buttoned fishnet jacket studded with rhinestones. For a mix - and - match change, the same basic dress could be worn with a mink collared ribbon knit sweater.

White, so good this year, was chosen for the cocktail dress modeled next by Camille. Made of Alaskine, the dress was cut on simple princess lines, flaring into fullness with low box pleats. Camille chose an amusing ostrich boa as her accessory accent.

For really elegant evenings at ball or opera were the two costumes which closed the show. Marillyn wore a floor - length outfit of petal pink silk satin, with long sheath skirt cut with a new wide godet. With this could be worn a beaded shell and-or the matching jacket with stand - away collar and three-quarter length sleeves. A regal opera coat of dubonnet velvet lined with pink satin completed the picture.

Charlottie's gold lame floor length skirt cut on narrow lines, with back split for walking ease. The shell bodice was heavily fringed and sequined in gold. A sumptuous coat of beige delustred satin brocaded in gold was worn with this dress.

Music for the show was provided by VELMA WILLEY at the piano. Elna's co-hostesses were DOT KLEPPINGER and BESSIE KITE. About fifty members and guests attended.

Home again after a wonderful trip to Washington, D.C., are JEAN and D. A. STRICKLAND, who got back last weekend. They went to the capital city to attend a meeting of the Supreme Council, Thirty-Third Degree Scottish Rite Freemasonry, Southern Jurisdiction, U.S.A. D.A., who is Sovereign Grand Inspector General in Louisiana, acted as Grand Master of Ceremonies for the council meeting. The program for the group included a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon, luncheon at the House of the Temple with Harold Lloyd as special guest; and a dinner honoring J. Edgar Hoover at the Mayflower Hotel.

A separate schedule for the ladies included fashion shows, luncheons, visits to art galleries and theatre parties. Jean attended a performance by the National Band of New Zealand and the Maori Dancers, and Marcel Marceau, the French pantominist.

Also underway in Washington at the same time were festivities marking the seventy-fifth anniversary celebration of the founding of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. Jean, who is a member of Ft. Miro Society, DAR, here in Monroe, was able to attend some of the events. The schedule included a concert given by the National Symphony orchestra; a Diamond Jubilee Banquet; and a trip by mule-drawn barge on the old C & O canal. The ladies travelled by chartered bus for an all-day tour of Maryland, visiting old Fort McHenry, Baltimore City, and Annapolis.

Jean was particularly impressed with the collection of buildings owned by the National Society, DAR. This is reputed to be the largest construction ever undertaken and maintained entirely by women. The buildings house all administrative offices, as well as the museum with its collection of over 12,000 items of historical interest. Period rooms are maintained by the various state societies.

A highlight of the entire trip was the concert given in Constitution Hall by the National Symphony orchestra, Howard Mitchell conductor. Van Cliburn was soloist for this concert. Jean was privileged to be in the party in Box 11 reserved for the President-General of DAR. Box 12 is reserved for the party of the President of the United States. On the occasion, the Hubert Humphries represented the president.

Following the performance, Van Cliburn was honored at a reception in the President Generals suite. The Humphries also attended this party, as well as the Hands. Jean reported it a "wonderful experience for a country girl".

Two more of our Monroyans were in Washington, and got together with the Stricklands last week. LAURA JOHNSON and LUCILLE TURPIN went up on a business and pleasure trip. After a few days in the capital, they went on to New York for some shopping and theatre going. Then back to Washington, where Lucille, as president general of National Society, Colonial Dames XVII Century, presided at the national board of management meeting Thursday.

Speaking of New York, JOY and BEN MARSHALL returned Friday from a week in the city. Ben attended a professional meeting, while Joy shopped and visited art museums. They saw "Barefoot in the Park", "Funny Girl," the new "Skyscraper", and "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever".

Also back home are ELAINE and FRED MILLSAPS, LORRAINE and LOUIS KUSIN. The foursome were gone a week, visiting Blowing Rock, North Carolina, and New York. They saw "Hello, Dolly!" and "Half a Sixpence."

For Hallowe'en, here is a goblin-type poem, entitled "The Hag," by Robert Herrick:

The hag is astride
This night for to ride,
The devil and she together;
Through thick and through thin
Now out and then in,
Though ne'er so foul be the weather.
A thorn or a burr,
She takes for a spur,
With a lash of a bramble she rides now;
Through brakes and through briers,
O'er ditches and mires,
She follows the spirit that guides now.
The storm will arise
And trouble the skies
This night; and more for the wonder,
The ghost from the tomb
Affrighted shall come,
Called out by the clap of the thunder.

DRAMA GOES TO SEA

NEW YORK (AP)—Drama-at-sea is being tested as an entertainment innovation for trans-Atlantic travelers.

A condensed version of Noel Coward's "Quadrille," done at alternate performances in English and French, has been presented daily during autumn trips of the liner, France.

The company said that stage plays previously proved popular on curises and it was decided to insert them on regular crossings into the usual shipboard array of movies, television and bingo.

Active Men Get Fewer Heart Attacks

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. — Ladies, lead your husbands to the golf course.

A recent report from the American Heart Association indicates that physically active men get fewer heart attacks than their desk or TV-bound brothers. They also have a two or three times' better chance of surviving a heart attack than their less active counterparts.

Dr. Charles W. Frank, of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, in New York City, who directed a study of 55,000 men between the ages of 25 and 64, explained that the leisure activities of men, as well as the kind of work they do, were graded. "With reduction in work hours and increase in leisure and vacation time," the doctor said, "off-job activities are becoming an increasingly important fraction of the total life pattern."

Automation, the automobile, power tools, elevators, even electric tooth brushes all conspire to cut down on physical activity, says the physician, and "the resultant physical inactivity may be a significant factor in the currently high incidence of and death rate from heart attack."

Tips Help You Care For Dishes Made Of Plastic

CHICAGO (UPI) — Break-resistant melamine dinnerware is in use in almost 15 million search studies show. American homes, opinion re-

The Melamine Council suggests these hints for care and cleaning:

—Use soap or detergent but do not scrub with harsh pads or gritty cleaners or use chlorine bleaches that will mar the surface.

—Melamine can be washed safely in an automatic dishwasher.

— Wash and rinse promptly after using so food and coffee stains do not adhere to surface. Staining agents do their worst work on all types of dishes when left to accumulate in the soapy residue that remains after "once - over - lightly" washing.

If coffee or tea stains appear in cups after long use, a piece of soft cloth dampened and dipped into baking soda usually will remove them. For more stubborn surface stains which can result from careless washing, several very good special-purpose cleansers are on the market.

As a glaze for ham, you may use a combination of light brown sugar, white wine and pineapple juice.

Colors Create Interest In New Fall Fashions

Fashion for fall revolves around color, with virtually every shade in the spectrum coming in for attention. Pale or bright, deep or bold hues are on view, plus new-looking neutrals such as the Oxfords and other charcoals.

Shades mix madly — pales with brights or muted tones with dashing, dramatic hues, in the same costume. Two - tone ideas appear — gray paired with taupe, white with coffee.

Greens, bright and sparkling, pale and delicate, or deep and rich forest tones, gain special interest. Blues range from light to dark, and merge into violet, grape, magenta. Heather hues are prominent.

Spice tones — gingers, cinnamons — add variety.

Reds from rosey to radiant color fall striking. Reds mix with reds, in shades tinged with pink or brown. True reds and oranges are part of a brilliant fashion season.

Vintage wines lend their colors to a bevy of bluish reds. Golds, coppers take on polish.

Color and pattern blends create special excitement for the array of new fall styles.

Courreges Effect Marks Rainwear

The welt seaming, saddle shoulders and double-breasted closings of the Courreges influence mark many of the slimly shaped raincoats for fall.

Coats, however, are not the only way to keep dry this season. The man-tailored, longish norfolk or pea jacket and other stormy-weather jacket styles stand ready to provide fashionable weather protection. Poncho toppings enjoy favor too.

Jacket, coat or poncho may often be part of a rain suit, companioned by weather-proofed pants or skirt.

Your Problems

Art Lover Objects To Objectionable Art

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: You've written some mighty good advice for teen-agers in the past and now I hope you will do one more thing. Please write a booklet on manners for teen-age boys.

This may sound like a silly request but honestly, Ann, boys need help with manners just as much as girls — maybe even more. My best friend and I decided to teach our boy friends a few of the every-day courtesies and it has made all the difference in the world. Now they open the car doors for us, help us with our coats and stand up when an adult comes into the room.

I am sure the reason some teen-age boys appear to be rude is because they just don't know any better. How about that booklet, Ann? — LOVE 'EM ANYWAY

Dear Love: I'll file your suggestion under "One of These Days." At the moment I'm swamped, Sugar. A low bow to you two girls for teaching your boy friends the A.B.C.'s of every-day manners.

I hope other girls who read this will follow your example. A girl who is interested enough in a boy to do this for him pays him a high compliment — and she does him an enormous favor.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law gave us a painting for our anniversary. I know good and well that piece of junk has been in her basement for six years. It's a monstrosity that looks like a vacuum sweeper having its tonsils removed. When I opened the carton our 4-year-old became frightened and began to cry.

I don't want to hang the ugly thing in our home. My husband says his mother will be terribly hurt if we don't hang it and he does not want to risk offending her.

I think it was a dirty trick to saddle us with a picture she didn't want to hang in her own home. It was also cheap of her to send us something she had sitting around. What is your opinion? — LOVER OF ART, NOT GARBAGE

Dear Lover: Thank your mother-in-law for the gift and tell her you will hang it when you and your husband agree on a "suitable place."

If you cannot agree on a "suitable place" you will, of course, NEVER hang it.

Dear Ann Landers: Please help me figure something out. I am mystified. My brother married later in life than most men. The woman is a widow about 38 years old and she is a delightful, gracious person. But, Ann, she gets absolutely stoned on one drink. Is this possible? Nobody can figure it out.

When she arrived at our home Sunday for dinner she was charm itself — lovely, bright-eyed and bubbling over with witty conversation.

Then she had a cocktail — just one — and within ten minutes she was drunk as a skunk. When dinner was announced she walked straight into the clothes closet.

A similar thing happened at my sister's house last week. We cannot figure out how a person can get so loaded on one cocktail. What do you make of it? — INQUIRING SISTERS

Dear Sisters: Often the person who gets plastered "all of a sudden" has had a head start somewhere else. However some people cannot tolerate even one drink without falling on their faces — and your brother's wife may well be one of these.

To solve some of the frustrations, disappointments and disillusionsments of married life, send for Ann Landers booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of Monroe Morning World enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women More Vulnerable To Headaches Than Men

NEW YORK — Women suffer more headaches than men, according to medical scientists.

What's more, there is evidence that their headaches are more severe and recur more often, and they are brought on by a greater variety of stress situations. In any event, women purchase more headache remedies than men.

Of all the afflictions that human beings are heir to, headache is unquestionably the most universal. "More than half the people who see a physician have a headache as one of the complaints," observes Dr. Arnold P. Friedman, head of the internationally - famed Headache Clinic at New York's Montefiore Hospital. Many people with ordinary headaches don't see a doctor, seeking relief through one pain - killer or another.

Medical investigators in recent years have concluded that the female of the species is particularly prone to the condition called headache. In the great majority of cases, it's either migraine or "nervous tension" headache. Migraine, which is usually throbbing, chronic and familial, affects at least twice as many women as men; some scientists say it's nine times as frequent in females. But far more common is the nervous tension type, which accounts for seven out of ten headaches.

In a tension or "muscle contraction" headache, the head feels as though it's in a vise, the pain is often dull and steady, muscles tighten at the back of the head and neck, and in the shoulder. Pain may be short or go on for days and weeks, returning repeatedly. Unlike migraine, this kind of headache occurs during the immediate period of anxiety or tension, rather than following it.

For specific reasons — physiological and psychological — women experience more than their share of nervous headaches.

Nervous tension headaches, as the term implies, stem from assorted pressures, anxieties and tensions in daily life. In virtually every instance, an emotional component is involved. Researchers report that women get more headaches because they react more emotionally to everyday stress.

Dr. Joseph C. White, Assistant Director of the Department of Neurology at the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, points out: "The mechanics of the female headache are the same as the male, but it is the endocrine glandular process of the female that intensifies her emotional reaction and gives her headache some subjective differences apart from the male. These differences are: a wider variety of causes can bring on a headache; it is triggered more easily; her system responds more severely; this severity of suffering causes her to tense up and experience even more pain; and her headaches come back more frequently."

Medical doctors and social scientists point to a wide variety of reasons for nervous tension — and headaches — among women. These range all the way from boredom and loneliness to menstruation, pressures of raising children, inadequate emotional outlets, monotonous chores and lack of outdoor recreational activities. A housewife must cope with innumerable problems — as wife, mother, housekeeper, shopper, hostess, chauffeur, teacher and home nurse. Says Dr. Margaret Mead: "The new equipment in the home has combined with other trends in making the life of the American homemaker not easier but more exacting." Frustrations and anxieties are often inevitable, especially if she is overconscientious.

WOMEN MORE VULNERABLE

Physiologically, women differ from men in some obvious and some not - so - obvious ways. A man's body is built for prolonged, physical activity. Woman's characteristics and bodily changes tend to make her generally more emotional. Her five senses are sharp: she will hear slight noises at night, will vaguely "smell something burning."

Bodily functions (homeostatic mechanisms) which tend to keep a person's body stable, are more variable in women. Women show more fluctuations in body temperature, they are more likely to flush and faint, glandular imbalances are more common, their involuntary nervous system is more sensitive and they respond more readily to weather conditions — and weather often influences headaches.

Psychologically, "females are higher on anxiety than males," report Drs. R. B. Cattell and I. H. Schier in their study of neuroticism and anxiety. Other researchers find evidence that women have "greater inner turmoil. . . feel a greater controlled rage. . . tend to be more fearful."

Socially, women appear to have a greater desire for approval than men. The appellation "housewife" no longer carries any semblance of prestige or glamour, so they tend to develop restlessness and frustrations which may cause tension headaches.

Once a headache comes, women evidently suffer more. Dr. MacDonald Critchley, a well - known British authority, maintains that women have "a greater sensitivity to pain." Put another way, Dr. E. David Sherman says: "Women have a lower threshold to pain than men."

"Women out - number men in seeking relief from headaches in ratio of about three to one," declares Dr. B. J. Alpers, in his book, Clinical Neurology. "Possibly this is because the condition is more severe in women than in men."

In light of the evidence of distaff vulnerability to nervous tension headaches, it's not surprising that they are the largest purchasers of pain relievers. As more is learned about the nature and causes of headaches in women, the belief has grown that ordinary analgesics do not attack all phases of the problem.

Dr. Friedman has stated that we must treat not only the perception of pain but also the emotional reaction to it: "Tension headaches are usually of moderate intensity, as compared to migraine headaches. Hence aspirin, or a similar non-narcotic pain reliever, combined with a tranquilizer or sedative, is the most effective remedy for the majority of headaches. They respond far better to these combined agents than they do to a pain reliever alone."

Aware that women's headaches are different, and believing that they should be treated differently, Sterling Drug, Inc., the leading manufacturer of analgesics, has assigned a research team at its Sterling-Winthrop Research Institute to develop a non - prescription product that will meet these requirements.

Plumper Furniture 'In' For Leisure Living

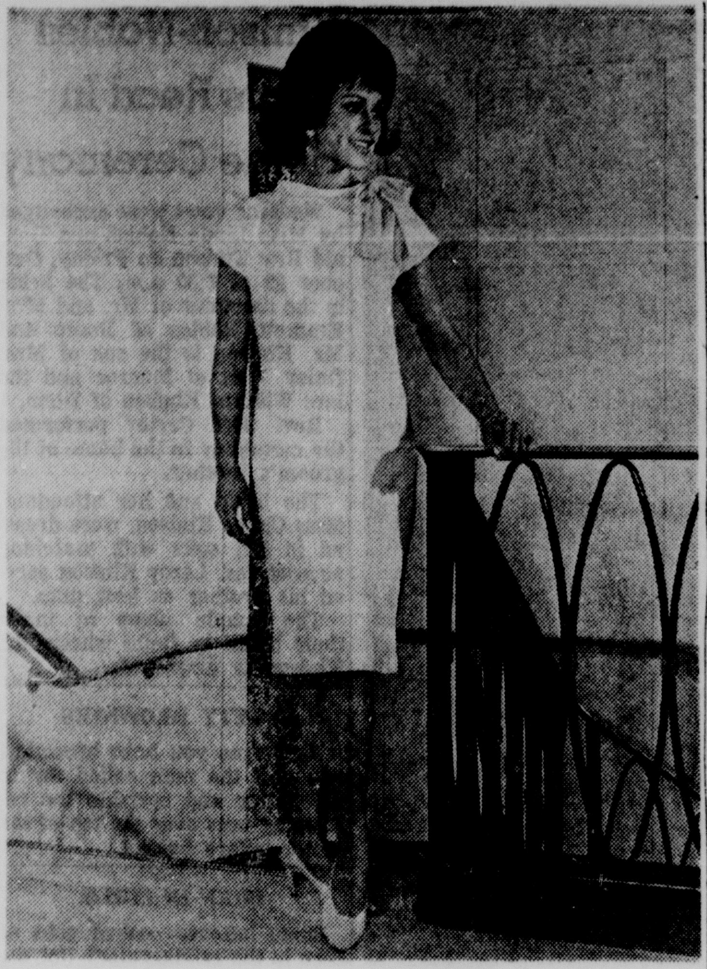
Today's leisurely living may well be the reason for the excessively comfortable new designs in upholstered chairs and sofas. New living room furniture offers extra plumpness that is decidedly conducive to a state of complete relaxation, a far cry from the prim horsehair rigidity of the past. Those were the days when people sat bolt upright. Now they lounge in soft, sink-in luxury, their bodies weightlessly suspended on cushioning of soft new materials such as latex foam rubber.

This new plump look is seen in chairs, sofas, recliners, chaises, hassocks, ottomans, pouffs and throw pillows. It is the new rounded silhouette and occurs in all styles of furniture whether traditional or the most extreme modern. It is seen in the new country casual pieces that fairly bulge with cushioning, with thickly napped fabrics to add to the leisurely feeling. The newly revived "modern" of the Thirties is similarly overstuffed. The upholstery fabrics are high pile and velvety to suit this new softness. The "Velvet" look is gaining, emphasizing the opulent treatment of the new furniture. Corduroy, suede cloth, deep textures . . . they all lend their quota of sensuality to the voluptuous upholstery.

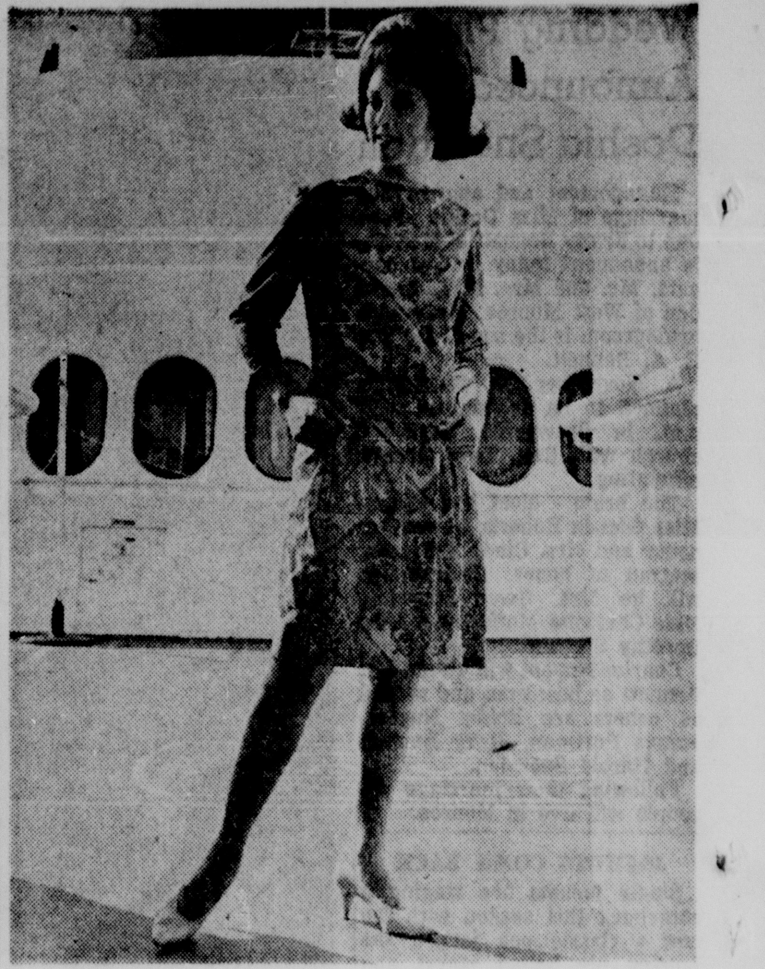
In better furniture, designers achieve the plump look with five - inch - thick crowned foam rubber cushions. Economy models use urethane plastic foam wrapped in synthetic fibers to give surface softness.

Much of the seating is closer to the floor as well as extra-size and extra soft. The pouffy cushioning helps to accentuate the low pitch. The younger generation's preference for floor seating may be responsible for this new low in seating. It certainly has a lot to do with the popularity of throw pillows that are seen in use more and more as extra seating devices. As a matter of face, pillows are "in" as never before! Extra pillows are everywhere, as bolsters at the arms of sofas, cushion between the seat and back (how leisurely can we get?), even cushions to pile in back of the head for soft support! Small extra decorator - type pillows are sometimes sold with the chair or sofa. Couches and sofas abound with throw pillows . . . they are simply loaded with them in all colors and decorations. There is quite a new fad for piling a collection of pillows onto a studio bed, for instance. Many a college girl this fall will proudly display her collection of unique pillows that she has trimmed herself with fringe, embroidery, appliques and by-products of her imagination.

Obviously, the "in" look is bilowy, pillowy and plump . . . for upholstery cushioning.



THE GLOW OF PEBBLE crepe in soft candlelight is revealed in this R & K fashion for holiday and resort wear. A wonderfully narrow dress has an easy bow perching on the shoulder and the slightest stand-up collar. Two diagonal stitched bands break the bodice and skim the dress downward.



FULL OF FASHION news is this little paisley printed dress in two parts, by R & K Originals. This charmer of soft arnel jersey for now and through the holidays, features a draped neckline, slightly longer sleeves and soft gathers in the skirt front.

Sun, Beach Colors Seen In Lightweight Wools

"Clothes to Cut Classes In" is the way The Wool Bureau playfully describes the new college fashions, quickly adding for the serious-minded that these California creations include "Styles for Studying between Surfing." Among them are lightweight "Naked Wools" that are comfortable whether the weather is hot or cold.

The new wave of pure wool fashions, set in motion by a lively group of California innovators, is roaring toward the nation's campuses. World famous for sports and swimwear, West Coast designers now add excitement to college wardrobes.

Reflecting the appetite of youth for quality and originality, they use pure wool in all its varieties of color and texture to make fashion news: body-skimming silhouettes, simple shapes that are functional and unadorned, skirts with swingy pleats or snappy flares at the knees.

Lineal patterns are flavored in these pure wool college fashions, featuring checks, plaids and stripes. Beach colors - sand, hemp, seaweed greens - mix freshly with white or with each other. In plaids white is the basis, but not basic when scrambled with black, browns and ginger or with gray flannel. Sun colors heat the scene in accents of orange-red, yellow-orange, sharp pinks.

For any time of day this tide of wools brings in a defined look. "Granny" knits in afghan stitches or brilliant, strictly striped pull-down sweaters top untapered pure wool jersey pants. Bell bottoms flare - look up-to-the-minute worn sailor style with matching pea coats.

High noon brings a high tide of balanced, proportioned day clothes. Little dresses, awash with color, drop from Empire waists (or, even higher, from curved bustlines) in weightless "Naked Wool" or wool jersey. Short short suits of pleats below belted jackets, or widen into dirndls under cropped coats.

Squared off patterns and textures steer a straight course toward crisp orderliness in land colors: Wild-bird browns and taupes, ginger, russet reds, city gray flannel.

Sportswear brashly takes to a flood of pattern. Stripes, tattersalls, polka dots and argyle designs are layered top to toe, mixed or matched, from tattooed leg to op-art scarves.

With the moon the streamlined look is exchanged for inncent, ingenue dirndls that just skirt the ankles in the richest novelty wools.

Discriminating young sirens who will settle for nothing less than pure wool then assembling their college wardrobes now can ride a crest of exciting wool fashions from the surf capital, California.

Currently Used Terms In Home Decor Defined

By MARGERY McELHENY

CHICAGO (UPI) — How is your home furnishings vocabulary? Have you ever gasped over a gimp or girandole?

William Burton, design stylist for the United Wallpaper Co., said these currently used terms will make home decorating projects less puzzling.

Atrium — the central main room of an ancient Roman private house. Now the atrium is an open courtyard for modern town houses, providing maximum privacy for garden areas and a view of the garden from many sections of the house.

Bibelot — a small article of curiosity, beauty or rarity. Can also be a knick - knack of questionable value.

Crewel — crewelwork embroidery is done with a long-eyed, sharp needle to form a rope-like stitch. The effect is of a rich tapestry.

Dado — the lower part of the wall. The area between the baseboard and chair rail which has been treated with material that separates it from the upper part of the wall. A dado can be made of wood with the wall above it covered with wallpaper. It also can be papered or painted in contrast to the area above.

Espalier — a trellis or framework on which fruit trees or shrubs are trained to grow flat.

Fretwork — an interlaced, angular design of bands within a border. It is especially popular in ancient Greek designs.

Frieze — part of an entablature between the architrave and cornice, commonly ornamented with sculpture. Or, any similar decorative band or feature on a wall.

Gimp — the trimming used to finish curtains and upholstery. It is a flat, braidlike trim along the edge of upholstered surfaces.

Galoon — a narrow gimp.

Girandole — a mirror, framed and hanging on the wall, with branching candlesticks from the base of the frame, forming part of the design.

Lavabo — in many medieval monasteries, it was a large stone basin from which the water issued by a number of small openings around the edge, for the performance of ablutions. Currently interpreted as a brass or pottery planter flanked by cherubs.

Toile — a scenic design originally executed on fabric at the famed textile factory in Jouy, France, in the 18th century. Toile patterns frequently are used with French Provincial and Early American furniture.

Trapunto — quilting which outlines a pattern in a fabric, giving the design a raised or sculptured effect. Often used to give chintz more durability as an upholstery fabric. Also used for bedspreads, curtains, cushions and slipcovers.

BELTED IN FASHION

Small or large, buckled or tie, belts are everywhere for fall. Large belts accent hip line skirts on long - waisted dresses. Small tie belts help give the new London look to high-bosomed dresses, suits, coats and many separates.

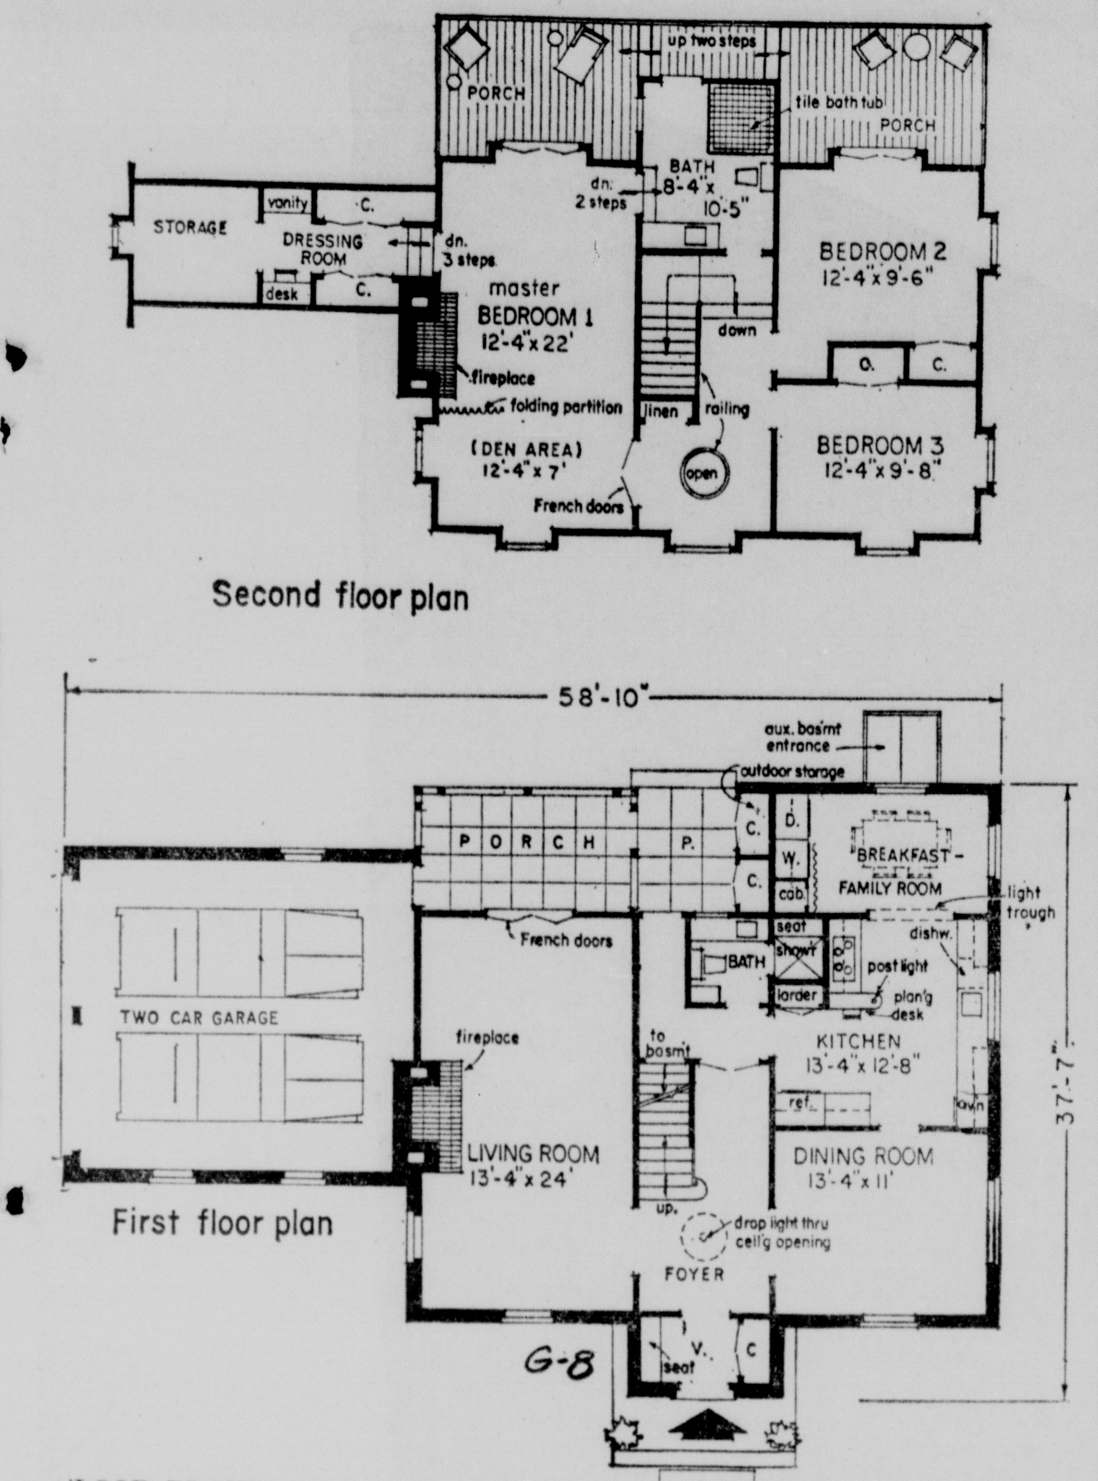
THE DELIGHTFUL appearance of this three-bedroom French Provincial can be traced back to the early 17th century, when architect Francois Monsart designed a two - slope roof that would permit flat, high - ceilinged rooms on the second floor.



FLOOR PLANS: Spaciousness is the keynote of this room layout; especially note the long living room, the length of the combined kitchen-family room, the giant upstairs bath and the features of the master bedroom suite.

French Provincial Contains New, Old Design Elements

By ANDY LANG

The newest House of the Week, an elegant French Provincial, has a roof design originally created to avoid the payment of high taxes! But the roof's practical advantage of permitting larger, higher - ceilinged second-floor rooms has kept it popular through the centuries, with many variations making their appearance in this country.

Back in the 1600's, in France, two - story houses were taxed at a high rate. In order to get a lower rate for their clients, French architects built many one and a-half story houses, with resultant cramped upstairs rooms of the garret type. One architect, Francois Mansart, found a loophole in the regulations that enabled his customers to avoid the high tax rate and yet have spacious quarters on the second floor. By keeping the roof eaves just above the first-floor windows, as specified by law, he was able to have his houses classified as one and a-half stories. But by redesigning the roof with two slopes, the lower one very steep, he was able to offer much more living space on the upper floor.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan G-8.

MANSARD

This type of roof is now known as a mansard, the "t" at the end of the French architect's name having been changed to a "d" somewhere along the line.

Besides the mansard roof, many other exterior details of our house this week are authentic French, among them stones set in the corner brickwork, eyebrow dormers, full - length shutters with panels below the windows, casement sash, chimney pots and plant urns at the front entrance. By locating the garage doors at the side, the garage appears from the front as an additional living area.

On the inside, architect Rudolph A. Matern has intermingled additional French touches with all the modern conveniences American families have come to expect. Typically traditional is the large center foyer, with the living room on one side and the dining room on the other, as well as an entrance vestibule with closet. The foyer ceiling is pierced by a small, round, railed opening through which drops a light fixture from the second-floor ceiling.

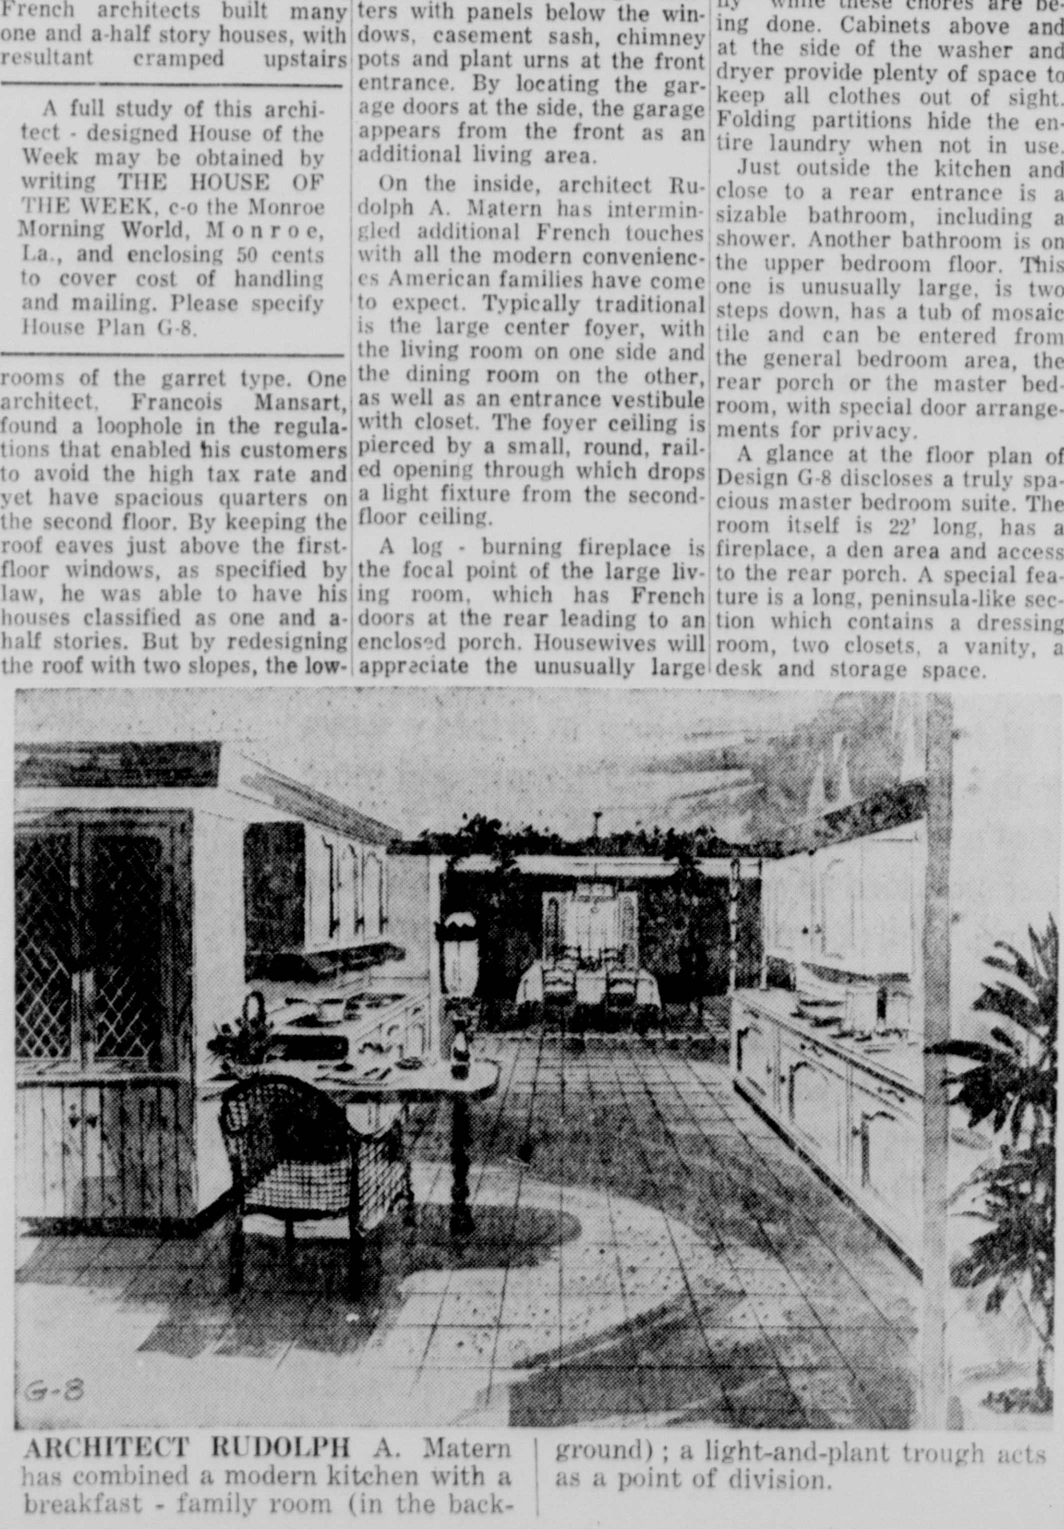
A log - burning fireplace is the focal point of the large living room, which has French doors at the rear leading to an enclosed porch. Housewives will appreciate the unusually large amount of living room wall space for effective furniture placement.

OPEN SPACE

The combination kitchen-family room is an open 20' of space, with the demarcation of the rooms being left to a light- and - plant trough and turned poles. Features of the area are the larder, small desk with a post light, and the laundry tucked into the corner. The laundry location allows the homemaker to be "part of the family" while these chores are being done. Cabinets above and at the side of the washer and dryer provide plenty of space to keep all clothes out of sight. Folding partitions hide the entire laundry when not in use.

Just outside the kitchen and close to a rear entrance is a sizable bathroom, including a shower. Another bathroom is on the upper bedroom floor. This one is unusually large, is two steps down, has a tub of mosaic tile and can be entered from the general bedroom area, the rear porch or the master bedroom, with special door arrangements for privacy.

A glance at the floor plan of Design G-8 discloses a truly spacious master bedroom suite. The room itself is 22' long, has a fireplace, a den area and access to the rear porch. A special feature is a long, peninsula-like section which contains a dressing room, two closets, a vanity, a desk and storage space.



ARCHITECT RUDOLPH A. Matern has combined a modern kitchen with a breakfast - family room (in the background); a light-and-plant trough acts as a point of division.

Garden Center Notes

Fall Motifs For Home

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

"Fall Arrangements for the Home," by the members of the West Oak Garden Club of Monroe, was the feature of last Wednesday's Garden Center program. The nine lovely designs contained both fresh and dried plant materials combined with colorful pyracanthia berries, or marigolds and other blooms now available in the fall garden.

Roses, also, took a leading role in one of the designs made by Mrs. Roy Colquette. This was a horizontal design made in a pink ceramic basket container with the pink polyantha (Fairy) roses forming the main line. The lacy "Rose of Montana" blooms blended as a complete filler with larger pink roses for contrasting size and form and color shading. Roses are a real treat now for our homes.

The blooms seem so sturdy and the colors are richer this time of year. Even the odor seems more pungent. This design was so ideal for the ladies luncheon or tea party.

RICH COLORS

Mrs. Dale Cronk, the club's president, made two designs for the program. One featured the rich green canna foliage for the triangle line in a low green bowl. For color contrast she used the rich orange pyracantha berries. Later on these will become a brilliant red. For her second design she used all green material. The variegated euonymous formed the asymmetrical line in a tall greyed green compote container. For focal interest a cluster of the rosette type sansivera was used. Both designs would be long - lasting and enjoyed most any place in the home.

Straw flowers are available now in many colors. Mrs. William Mobberly used these as the main flower in her massed pyramid design in a lovely wooden compote. The colors blended from pink into wine tones accented with gold. For background "filler" she used the frilly star thistle which dries beautifully. Some of this was dyed a soft green for contrast.

Mrs. Norm Perry very cleverly used a potted ivy as the basic for her design. The ivy formed the diagonal line. Into the potted soil she placed the stems of pyracanthia berries following the established line. For focal interest a cluster of variegated marigolds was placed (stems in orchid tube). It was very clever use of potted plants. A natural wooden chop board from the kitchen served as a base.

JAPANESE PLUM

Mrs. August Danti used the rich dark brown leaves of the Japanese plum for the asymmetrical triangle design in a soft brown container. Within this line she placed yellow into gold Marigolds with the foliage and buds as the colorful contrasting focal interest. Large colorful croton leaves were added to the basic part of the design for added interest and color. A camphor burl base added proper balance.

Simplicity was the keynote for the design made by Mrs. Jim Heimgartner who used the variegated ivy for a diagonal line in a brown ceramic pitcher. Three soft yellow roses formed the center of interest. From day to day the roses could be replaced with other blooms or fresh roses making this a very versatile arrangement, suitable for the dining room or kitchen nook.

Mrs. Leslie Clark created a dramatic design using the dried garlic blooms for the interesting diagonal line in a rich brown pottery bottle. The fragile dried grape leaves were used low in the design giving just the right blend in texture and color for added interest and weight. One dried garlic leaf swirved around the bottle onto the black footed base creating good rhythm. The complete design was placed to one side on a straw woven mat which blended with the tan tones of the garlic blooms.

CLIPPED PINE

The last design was made by Mrs. L. T. Harper. The Hogarth line made of clipped pine in a tall green compote formed the background for bronze dahlias with graded sizes into buds. It would be lovely for a tall, narrow wall space, or to one side of a mirror on the mantle or hall table.

An important date to remember — Tuesday at 1:30 p.m., at the Temple Baptist Church in Ruston, the Suburban Garden Club will present Dr. John Wright as lecturer - demonstrator of modern abstract flower arrangements. Dr. Wright is in demand for this type program all over the country. In fact, he will leave for Iowa immediately after this program to do a similar program there.

Since this is the trend for future arrangers we should all take advantage of every opportunity to observe, learn, and practice abstract design creative art in arranging as often as we possibly can. We learn that abstraction is certainly not a new thing, but old as art itself. There is a degree of abstraction in all artistic work. Broadly defined, abstract art is a form of expression in which flower arrangements seek to organize elements to express feeling rather than depict fact or objective reality.

It stresses the unconventional and presents things distorted by the mirror of our minds, rather than reflected as our eyes sees them. Our flower show schedules will feature this type assignment in the near future. So get ready and meet the challenge. With all the talent that our clubs offer we are bound to cope with this successfully.

Club members and non - club members may take advantage of this lecture. The fee is one-dollar per person. Make your reservations with any member of the Suburban Garden Club — come early and get a good seat. Make this a club project. Hope to see you there Tuesday.

Wednesday, the program will be presented by La Petite Maison Garden Club of Monroe, of which Mrs. C. A. Petrus is the president.

Make a note on your date calendar for the Conservation Conference to be held in Farmerville, November 10, at the American Legion Hall.

Japanese Persimmons

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

When the remarkable Dr. Kaempfer went to Japan at the end of the Seventeenth Century, he found the Japanese growing very large persimmons. He said that they considered them a delicacy and that they had several different kinds which they cultivated to eat and some other kinds which they used, amazingly enough, to moisture-proof both cotton and silk. Perhaps we of today are not quite as clever as we had thought.

The small trees of Japanese persimmons cover themselves with their large apple size fruits in the Fall. They used to be more popular than they are today. Southern nurserymen carried them every year in their lists of fruit and nut trees. Most of us have seen one or two of these little trees in someone's yard, and today they are becoming popular once again.

BEAUTIFUL FRUIT

Even if you do not care for persimmons to eat, the Japanese persimmons are beautiful to look at, especially at this time of the year when the bright orange fruits color up. When they start to ripen, they do so in a hurry. They must be eaten right then or stored in the refrigerator. Most people eat them with a spoon as a breakfast fruit.

Our native persimmons have a somewhat stronger taste than the Japanese kinds. The two can be mixed to make excellent persimmon pudding . . . especially if you do not have enough wild ones. In Japan, over a hundred varieties of persimmon are cultivated to eat, and, at one time, Southern nurseries like the old Fruitland Nursery at Augusta, Georgia, and the Royal Palm Nursery at Oneco, Florida, listed a good many varieties. Then, they settled down to two varieties: Tane - Nashi, large to very large, light yellow changing to orange and then red. Fuyugaki, medium sized, sweet and non-astringent. These nurseries recommend picking the fruit before frost and allowing it to ripen in the house.

VARIOUS USES

We Americans have not used much imagination with either the Japanese or our native persimmons. Of course, persimmon and locust-and-persimmon beer are familiar to us and seem to have staged a big come-back in recent years. One can safely say that there is literally nothing on earth like either one of these beverages . . . and they are never quite the same from any two runs.

The American Indians dried persimmons and stored them as a sort of persimmon leather the same way they did all fruits. Travellers who ate this food in winter said that it was good. It, like peach leather and plum leather, was all the Indians had to contrast with their heavy diet of meat and nuts in the winter.

Machines In Almost Human Role

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

As machines become almost human, people are in danger of being dehumanized by their products, says Henry Dreyfuss, president of the Industrial Designers Society of America. But on the other hand we are nearing the time when the home can almost run itself.

". . . You can have just about anything if you can get someone to build it," he explains. Soon we'll be able to serve whole meals by pushing a button . . . put dirty dishes right into a closet and remove them clean. . . stove and freezer may be one unit. . , clothes will be removed wrinklefree and clean from a closet (and may even be disposable). . .our houses may be cleaned in electrostatic manner. . ."

AUTOMATIC COOKER

Dreyfuss already has designed an automatic cooking machine for a drive-in (designed for American Machine and Foundry).

"You give your order, a girl pushes a button and a machine makes a hamburger, slices a roll, puts the meat on the fire, cooks it and drops it on a conveyer belt. Fried chicken goes from a ferris - wheel conveyor into hot fat. The machine can also mix drinks," he explains.

The interior of a supersonic airliner he is designing (for Lockheed, due 1975-1980) will need to speed-feed 250 people who make the 1½ hour flight across country.

Because of the steep half-hour ascent and half-hour descent, eating must be done on the half - hour level flying.

A slim rolling cart that scoots along the floor attached to a rail at the top of the plane will have tray compartments stacked up like drawers. A magazine rack and bar service will move along the same way. A cleaning device will also attach to the rail as the $20,000,000 plane must be unloaded, cleaned, fueled and reloaded within a half hour in the interest of economy. Cleaning plans will change, he says, as new ideas become available and perhaps we'll have electrostatic cleaning by then. Ashtrays will have foil liners for emptying. Polaroid will be used at windows and there will be no curtains to clean.

COMFORT ELEMENT

Comfort is evolved by using Dreyfuss charts, "The Measure of Man," long years of study recorded in a collection of anthropometrical, environmental and other data that has enabled designers to fill gaps between human behavior and machine design in designing anything that must fit people.

For his studies he knows how hard a hand can squeeze and how much pressure the average foot can comfortably exert on a pedal, the reach of an arm and head sizes. They have figures to 1980.

"An interesting development is that in 20 years man has grown 1.9 inches and gotten heavier. Woman is taller, but she had lost 7 or 8 pounds. In 20 years we don't expect this figure to vary much. This generation has realized their development potential by better diet and exercise than their parents enjoyed," he says.

COLOR SCHEMES

In ships (he worked on the Constitution and Independence) and trains (the 20th Century) or in planes we don't use mustardy yellow or yellow green. Clear colors are better for planes, he says, although he has designed a red interior for the 7 passenger "bus" type commuter plane that American Airlines will use on short flights.

In his 36 years as an industrial designer he had turned out just about everything including radar equipment and the newest telephone with a dial headset. He once took a seven - week sewing course to redesign a sewing machine. He leaves something of the past in his new models.

"Things made by machine should look as if they are made by a machine, but I think machines have done something pretty bad because everything looks alike," he says.

"But if Paul Revere and Cellini lived today, they wouldn't make things by hand. They'd probably be industrial designers," he says.

Make Plans For Roses

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Many gardeners have called about moving roses, pruning and fertilizing. It's much better to wait on these jobs now and do this in February. However, this is an excellent time to make plans for roses. So start making the beds in November.

Remember to select a place for rose beds that gets full sun exposure and well drained soil. Elevate the bed if the area selected is not well drained. Break the soil to a depth of 10 to 12 inches and add peat moss or leaf mold. Coarse builders sand helps if the soil is heavy clay. Get the bed prepared now, but wait until February to put the plants in the bed.

RYE GRASS

This is an excellent time to plant rye grass. It's not too late. In fact, November is the month recommended for planting rye grass in this area. You probably will not have to water as much if the seed is planted in November rather than October. Use about five pounds of seed per 1,000 square feet of Lawn. Before planting, mow existing turf about one-half inch shorter than you usually mow. An even distribution of seed is a must for a pleasing appearance.

Lift and store dahlia tubers in a cool dry place as soon as a light frost kills the top. Be careful not to bruise tubers. Allow the tubers to air dry for about a half-day and then place them in sand or peat moss. If left in the open air, the tubers will shrivel.

STATE COUNCIL MEETING

Seems that your Home Demonstration Agent is really on the go these days. Just returned from the National Convention of Agricultural Extension Home Economists in Kansas City, Tuesday, and will leave for Baton Rouge with four Home Demonstration Club members to attend the State Council meeting. The following will make the trip: Mrs. E. W. Earle, president, Mrs. A. C. Goodling, first vice-president, Mrs. Bill Dunn and Mrs. Ernest Grubbs. We'll return Thursday.

PARISH COUNCIL MEETING

Friday, November 5, will be a big day for the Home Demonstration Club members of Ouachita. The reason it's Parish Council meeting, the day for awards. One of the clubs will be awarded a silver coffee service from Tyner Petrus Company for the best club work performed during the past year. Another club will be awarded $10 for the best attendance at the Council meetings. This award is given by the Ouachita Valley Fair. The Best Club Scrapbook will be awarded $5. So you, Mrs. Home Demonstration Club member, be on hand to witness this big event. The following clubs will serve as hostess: Logtown, Cheniere, Swartz, McGuire, Watson, Cadeville.

COLORS IN FASHION

This fall brings in ruby red, a blue cast to red, persian blue —close to peacock blue, dark green of the forest and two new neutrals, bronze and oyster white. There are also spicy shades such as gold, orange and a new shade of fizz pink, not fuchsia, but in that area. This season you, Mrs. Homemaker, will see a brighter shade teamed with a neutral or a pale shade with a stronger tone or a brighter shade and another bright shade. For instance you will see ruby red used with oyster white, the new bronze with oyster or persian blue with bronze. Many new combinations of colors, like unexpected colors used together. They are different combinations from before, but new for a modern look.

NEW CLOSURE

The "Bonnie Clasp" a new type of closure first introduced in brass last fall, is now available for home sewing. Called the EZ "Bonnie Clasp" it comes in three sizes and can be dyed at home. The closure consists of two parts which slide together smoothly and hold with a positive locking action, yet which can be released with a simple one-handed operation. The smallest closure about one-third the size of a thumbnail is designed for neck openings, replacing the hook and eye. The medium size is for shorts, slacks, jackets, and children's clothing, while the largest one, which is adjustable, is ideal for belts and skirts.

A THOUGHT

Conscience is that which gets credit for what often really belongs to cold feet.

House Siding Materials In Same Finish

AP NEWSFEATURES

Look at the siding on a house these days and you can't tell whether it is made of wood or aluminum or plastic or cottage cheese.

Factory-applied paint coatings give a look-alike appearance to most sidings, no matter what they're made of — and there are very few materials that haven't found their way into the building market as residential siding. The theory seems to be that home owners are willing to use almost any material if they're convinced of its advantages, but they still don't want it to look too individual.

FAMILIAR MATERIAL

A familiar material gaining popularity as a house siding is galvanized steel, clothed in acrylic enamel colors of white, ivory, biege, yellow, light blue, gray and green. The panels are 12½ feet long and 8 inches wide, with a thickness of .017 inches. Because they weigh only 6½ pounds each, they can be handled by a single installer, either a professional or a do-it-yourselfer.

The manufacturers of steel siding guarantee the surface against chipping, peeling and flaking for 20 years. They say such a guarantee is possible because of the zinc coating on the steel. If the surface of galvanized steel is scratched, exposing the bare steel, zinc has the unique quality of "healing" over the exposed surface to protect it. This attribute has given zinc the nickname of "a sacrificial metal." The protective phenomenon occurs even after the zinc-coated panels have been painted.

Steel siding is naturally termite-proof. Also, say its adherents, it expands so slightly that rapid temperature changes do not cause it to produce strange noises. Because of its ability to withstand impacts, it does not require "backer boards" during installation.

Home handymen capable of installing siding can get instructions on the minor changes necessary for the use of galvanized steel, such as the importance of using zinc-coated nails and the grounding of the lowest course with copper wire

STOCK AVERAGE in new high — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks forged ahead for the 10th consecutive week to a new historic high, closing at 355.0 from 351.5 a week ago as shown in chart. The commodity index finished this week at 17055, unchanged from the preceding period. Gains and losses were about evenly diverted. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Stock Mart Goes For New Highs

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved to new highs again last week, as trading cooled off a little and emphasis seemed to be shifting gradually from the high-flying galmour stocks to more sedate Blue Chips.

Wall Streeters were once again murmuring about what once seemed to be the millenium — "Dow 1,000" — but this now seemed to be a reasonable goal.

In the week just ended the Dow Jones industrial average rose 8.40 to its latest record high of 960.82. In the month of October the Dow industrials advanced 30.24 points.

Since the reactionary low of 840.59 reached in June, the average has soared 120.23.

Buoyed by news of greater earnings, higher dividends, stock splits and other bullish corporate reports, the market last week touched new historic highs in all three popular averages.

The Associated Prsss average of 60 stocks last week rose 3.5 to a record 355.0. During October the AP average advanced 11.1.

Many analysts commented on the cooling-off in many of the fast-rising electronics, office equipments and others, which have featured the latest phase of the bull market, and the beginning of a more investment-type approach to the list.

Volume simmered down to 36,007,860 shares from 43,205,860 the previous week, and was the smallest turnover in three weeks.

The list emerged with a slight gain on Thursay when stocks were buffeted by conflicting influences. One was news that American Telephone, the most widely-owned issue on the Big Board, faced investigation of its rates by the Federal Communications Commission.

The other was news that Chrysler had reported record profits and was doubling its dividend.

On the New York Exchange corporate bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $64.78 million, compared to $76.74 million in the previous week.

Wheat Futures Stage Rallies On Board Of Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures played the star role on the board of trade last week, staging rallies that carried the price of some contracts into new high seasonal ground on each of the last three trading days.

The December and September corn contracts moved in the opposite direction, posting seasonal lows.

With a record corn crop being harvested, corn futures prices remained under steady selling pressure most of the week.

Soybean futures plodded back and forth over relatively narrow trading ranges.

Wheat finished the week 1¾ to 2¾ cents a bushel higher than the preceding week, December $1.63¼; corn ¼ to ⅝ lower, December 1.14⅜-⅛; oats ¼ to ¾ higher, December 67½ cents; rye ¼ to 1⅝ lower, December $1.22⅜, and soybeans ⅛ to 1 cent lower, November $2.47⅞-48.

A variety of bullish influences helped wheat prices. The cereal was generally firm on the basis of a government report that wheat stocks in all positions on Oct. 1 was 5 per cent less than a year earlier and 21 per cent below average.

ENGINEERING GRANT

Freeman E. Smith, district sales supervisor for Humble Oil in Monroe, took part in the presentation of a $2500 unrestirctive grant from Humble Oil Education Foundation to the University of Mississippi School of Engineering.

The award was presented to the university's chancellor by James W. Carr Jr., of the Esso Research Laboratory in Baton Rouge.

VICE CHAIRMAN

One of five vice chairmen of the Educational Committee of the National Association of Insurance Agents is Charles E. McKenzie of Monroe.

Chairman of the committee, recently re-appointed, is Seymour Nogi of Scranton, Pa.

AUTO SHOW

A show sponsor at the 1966 Southern Automotive Show at Miami Beach, Fla., to be held next April 27-30, will be R. F. Talton of 105 N. 9th St., Monroe, representing the Engine Service Co.

The four - day event will afford an opportunity for the automotive parts and equipment wholesalers of 16 southern states to keep abreast of the automotive market, in tune with new trends and aware of the latest trade practices and business innovations.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

A dividend of 42½ cents per share on the common stock of United Gas Corp., Shreveport, was declared by the company's board of directors at a meeting in New York, according to Ed Parkes, president.

The dividend is for the fourth quarter of 1965 and is payable on Jan. 1, 1966 to shareholders of record on Dec. 10, 1965.

SHAFTO CITED

Monroe life insurance man Wesley S. Shafto has been cited by Mutual of New York for "outstanding sales and service."

He ranked fourth in sales results in the company's southwestern region, according to the latest year - to - date tabulation.

WINS WINGS

Elizabeth McKoin of Jones has "won her wings" and is now a stewardess with Delta Air Lines.

She is a 1965 graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College where she was a member of Phi Beta Club.

SERVICE PINS

Two employees of Louisiana Power and Light Company in the Monroe area recently were awarded company service pins.

Richard F. Watkins of West Monroe, stores accountant in the Northern Division accounting group, received the 35-year pin.

Victor E. Welch of Choudrant, a mechanic in the maintence and repair section of the Northern division, also received a pin for service.

STUDENT TOURS

Students from the Lincoln Elementary school in Monroe and the Riser Elementary School in West Monroe recently toured Louisiana Power and Light Company's Sterlington Steam - Electric generating Station.

Nation Links Up In Returning To Standard Time

NEW YORK (AP) — About half the nation joins the other half today in returning to Standard Time.

Daylight Saving Time is observed in 31 states, but not uniformly. In most areas it began April 25.

Some states already have turned the clock back an hour and in other states only some areas observe Daylight Time.

At 2 a.m. today, Standard Time returns to New England, the middle Atlantic states, the District of Columbia, the upper Midwest, Colorado, Nevada, the Pacific Coast and parts of Virginia, Alabama and Kentucky.

Cotton Futures Prices Move Up; Trade Limited

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices on the domestic market moved irregularly higher this week in limited trading.

They closed up 65 cents to down $1.50 a bale. Last week futures were up 10 cents to off $2.00 a bale.

The Census Bureau reported 6,516,000 bales of cotton were ginned through mid - October, compared with 6,265,000 bales last year. There were reports many gins were operating on a 24-hour schedule, and that gin yards were crowded with cotton trailers.

Relatively poor harvesting weather in Texas and much of the eastern belt reversed previously favorable conditions, but progress was good in other sections of the belt.

COLLEGIATE ENTERTAINERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two girls working at Jules Podell's Copacabana night club spend their days attending college.

Production singer Diane Leslie goes to New York University where she is majoring in music. Chorine Pamela Privette is a student at Columbia University. Her major is political science.

FIRST COFFEE BREAK?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stoughton, Wis., claims the original coffee break. There, on Coffee St., unofficial name of Hillside Ave., working women took breaks from their tasks in a local tobacco warehouse over a century ago.

The women would leave in pairs to tend their youngsters, ending their brief rest periods over coffee.

CURTAIN CALL

"Trick or treat" will be resounding through the night air as children pursue their traditional Hallowe'en calling and many a bag will be filled with treats for the stomach before the evening is over. But to give a child a treat for the imagination, nothing could be better than to make sure he or she attends the Little Theatre production of "Winnie-The-Pooh" on either of the next two weekends.

The stage version of the famous A. A. Milne fantasy opens at Strauss Playhouse for two performances this coming Saturday and Sunday at 2:30 p.m. which will be repeated the following weekend. The box office on Lamy Lane will be open from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday on both weekends.

Tickets for "Winnie-The Pooh" at 75 cents for students and $1 for adults may be secured during those hours by calling 323-1235 or visiting the box office in person. They may also be ordered by mail by writing the Little Theatre, Lamy Lane, Monroe, and enclosing the proper payment. If any seats are left at curtain time, they will be sold at the door, but as always we caution parents not to leave children at the playhouse without making sure they have tickets.

SEATING BASIS

Seats are on a "first come, first served" basis except for birthday parties, so if you have a group to be seated together, please notify the box office in advance. Punch and cookies will be served at intermission. To forestall empty seats the first weekend and disappointed youngsters the next, we urge all who can do so to request tickets for this coming Friday and Saturday as long as they are available, freeing the last two performances for those who could not attend at the beginning.

The cast of "Winnie-The-Pooh" consists largely of children attending the Theatre School who have put in many hours of rehearsal under director Murray Burfford in order to give a polished performance. The costumes designed by Frank Fragala will delight all who see them. This show is a treat no child should miss.

TITLE ROLE

Marillyn Taylor has been chosen for the coveted title role in "Everybody Loves Opal," where she will utilize the comic talent displayed as Vera Charles in "Auntie Mame." Bill Blythe, Capt. von Trapp in "The Sound of Music," and the enormously funny Sgt. Gregovich of "The Teahouse Of The August Moon," will play Sol. John Filhiol returns to our stage as Brad after a long absence since "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

Marcia Mitchell, a Northeast student and a newcomer to Strauss Playhouse, will be Gloria, Jack Easterling the doctor, and Curtis Rape the policeman. Curtis is back following completion of military service for his first role since "Bye, Bye Birdie."

President Barbara Easterling, Jack, and executive director George Black return to town today from attendance at the Southwest Theatre Conference in Midland, Texas. Next Sunday we hope to have a report on this interesting and informative meeting.

DALLAS THEATRE

The Dallas Theatre Centre, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, opened its fall season with a glittering production of "The Tempest," directed by Paul Baker. The specially created costumes were magnificent and the technical effects most remarkable. Our only quarrel was with the portrayal of Caliban as essentially a comic figure.

The Jackson Little Theatre occupies a handsome new 382-seat building in the Mississippi capital where it has just opened its new season with a mystery, "Catch Me If You Can," to be followed by "Never Too Late." Its 4,000 members enjoy a schedule of five shows, including a musical, for which they offer only one type of membership at $12 ($10 if secured before the end of the previous season). As at Baton Rouge, membership requires attendance on a specific night of the run, or taking a chance that vacant seats will be available on a different night.

DONALD DOCUMENTARY

NEW YORK (UPI) — America's most famous duck, named Donald, has turned ironmaster in his latest film, a 30-minute documentary to be released in October after almost two years' production.

The film, "Steel and America," was produced for the American Iron and Steel Institute by Walt Disney Productions. It tells the story of how America and steel grew up together. The movie is a combination of animation and live action.

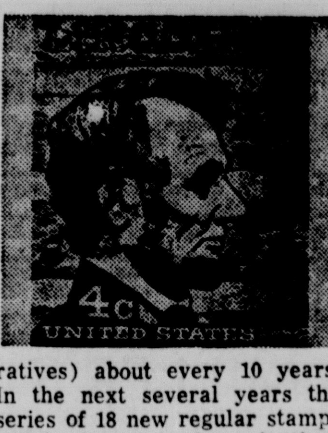
Abe Lincoln Depicted On New Issue

Abraham Lincoln, whose face has been depicted on many U.S. stamps, will replace himself on a new issue. The first in the new "Prominent American" series of regular stamps will bear a portrait of the former President and will replace the familiar 4 cent lavendar Lincoln stamp which has been in use since 1954. The new 4 center is black and white.



It is postal policy to redesign regular stamps (noncommemoratives) about every 10 years. In the next several years the series of 18 new regular stamps will be issued in denominations ranging from 1 cent to $5.

DESIGNER

The design of the new Lincoln stamp is by Bill Hyde of San Francisco. He based the portrait on a Mathew Brady photograph of a Lincoln profile. In the background is the side of a log cabin and on the top log is a crude carving of the word "Lincoln."

The stamp will be issued with first day ceremonies Nov. 19 in New York during the American Stamp Dealers Association show.

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations should send envelopes addressed "First Day Covers Lincoln Stamp," Postmaster, New York 10001. It must be postmarked no later than Nov. 19.

Since first-day covers are considered first class mail, collectors must allow for the 5-cent rate in submitting their orders. A one-cent stamp will be affixed by the New York Post Office; or collectors may affix their own additional postage to the envelopes, leaving the necessary space in the upper right hand corner for the new 4-cent Lincoln stamp.

Delta Air Lines Elects Officers

ATLANTA, GA., (Special) — Delta Air Lines' board of directors have elected C. E. Wollman of Atlanta, one of the company's founders, to the position of board chairman and chief executive officer, effective November 1, 1965.

Charles H. Dolson, 59, also of Atlanta and formerly executive vice president - operations, succeeds Woolman as president. David C. Garrett Jr., 43, of East Point, Ga., moves up from assistant vice president to vice president - operations. All other company officers were re - elected.

Richard W. Freeman of New Orleans, Chairman of the Board since 1954, remains on the board and will serve as chairman of the finance committee.

All action was taken Friday at the regular quarterly meeting of the board, held at Delta's general offices here.

Introduction of the DC - 9 twin Fanjet in early December carries forward Woolman's list of firsts. They date back to the world's first crop dusting outfit and continued into the jet era. He was the first airline executive to introduce the Douglas DC - 8 jet to scheduled commercial service. First with the Convair 880 and now first with the Douglas DC - 9.

This will bring Woolman the distinction of being aviation's only man to introduce three different jetliners to commercial service.

Dolson, a native of St. Louis, moved into management after his return from World War II, in which he served as operations officer for the NATS Pacific Wing. In 1947 he was elevated to vice president - operations and was promoted to executive vice president - operations in 1959.

Garrett, native of Pickens, S. C., is a graduate of Furman University and holds a Masters Degree in Industrial Management from Georgia Tech.

He was named in 1956 to head the scheduling of all phases of Delta's jet program; three years before the DC - 8 was placed in service.

He later was promoted to director of methods and training, then to assistant to the executive vice president - operations in February 1960. In October 1963 he was elected assistant vice president - operations.

The board of directors voted a two for one stock split to be distributed December 13, 1965 to stockholders of record November 19, 1965.

This action, with each stockholder receiving one additional share for each share presently held, doubles the present 3,187,500 common shares now outstanding.

The board announced a first quarter dividend of 25 cents per share on the new shares (6,375,000 outstanding), payable December 13 to stockholders of record November 19, and added its intention to continue this amount after issuance of the additional shares.

This is the equivalent of $2.00 per share on the present 3,187,500 shares outstanding. The new dividend rate, it was pointed out, represents an effective increase of 25 per cent over the past rate.

Woolman also announced the authorization to purchase three additional DC - 8 Fanjets, valued in excess of $20 million. Delivery dates will be the late months of 1966.

In his quarterly report, Woolman said net income of $6,489,000, equal to $2.04 per share, for the first quarter of its new fiscal year; a 49 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year.

For the same period last year, net income of $4,344,000, equal to $1.36 per share, included a special item of $256,000, or eight cents per share from the disposition of flight equipment.

Earnings for both quarters were based on 3,187,500 common shares outstanding.

Operating revenues for the quarter were $70,311,000, up 18 per cent while operating expenses rose only 13 per cent to $57,953,000.

Youth Dies In Gas Explosion

MEXICO CITY (AP) —Explosion of a gas pipeline near Coatzacoalcos late Friday killed a 10-year-old boy and injured 24 persons, a spokesman for the government-run Pemex Oil Co., said Saturday.

Initial reports from the scene, on the Gulf of Mexico 300 miles southeast of this city, had said "as many as 100 people" might have been killed.

The blast, its cause undetermined, damaged about 24 feet of the pipe and set off a fire that burned uncontrolled for 16 hours.

PRETTY MARSHALL Boudreaux of Baton Rouge holds one of the new 1966-67 Louisiana license plates which go on sale Monday. The green and white passenger plates will be available for renewals only and cost $6. The new plates have larger numerals and smaller letters than plates for previous years. Renewals will be issued only to car owners presenting a current pink registration slip or title with the correct 1964-65 license plate number on it.

Navy Doctor Aids Russian Ship Captain

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Atlantic Fleet headquarters said Saturday a U.S. Navy doctor went to the aid of the skipper of a Russian merchant vessel 700 miles east of here in the Atlantic Ocean Friday.

The Navy said when the Russian ship pulled away to continue her run to Havana, Cuba, the Russian crew lined the rail and shouted 12, in a mixture of English and Russian:

"Long live the United States Navy."

Lt. H.F.P. Maser, a Navy doctor, went aboard the Russian merchantman Mexhgorie after it overtook an American squadron of vessels.

Lt. Maser said the problem of the 38-year-old captain, identified by the name Zhdnaov, was a kidney stone and that he was in no immediate danger.

Nonaligned Countries Feeling Out Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Nonaligned countries are trying to find out whether Communist China would attend a world disarmament conference if the U.N. General Assembly should call for one.

Diplomatic sources said Saturday the question was raised at a private meeting of such countries here last Wednesday and referred to those on good terms with Peking to be passed along to that capital.

They said the main idea was to discover how to draft a resolution for the conference that would insure Communist China's attendance despite that country's pronounced hostility toward the United Nations.

Any such resolution would be taken up first in the assembly's main Political Committee, which is expected to get around late this week to the question of a world disarmament conference.

The Cairo summit meeting of 57 nonaligned countries in October 1964 urged that the participating countries work in the assembly to convene "a world disarmament conference under the auspices of the United Nations to which all countries would be invited."

The main object of such a conference would be to bring into disarmament talks the two nuclear powers not yet involved — France, which is boycotting the Geneva negotiations, and Communist China, which was never invited to those negotiations and does not have a U.N. seat.

Before the Cairo summit took place, Communist China had proposed a world conference for a specific purpose — to ban and scrap all nuclear weapons.

When Indonesia announced its withdrawal from the United Nations at the turn of the year, the Chinese Communists began a campaign of abuse against the United Nations that culminated in the charge that it had become "a tool of the United States" to facilitate aggression.

So when 36 nonaligned countries introduced a resolution for a world disarmament conference in the U.N. Disarmament Commission here last June, they omitted the reference to U.N. auspices.

At the same time, the resolution recommended that the question get "urgent consideration" in the fall session of the assembly, which was prevented from dealing with the subject last year because of a big power dispute over U.N. peacekeeping finances.

The commission adopted the resolution 89-1 on June 11. Of the nuclear powers represented, Britain and the Soviet Union voted for it but the United States and France were among 16 countries abstraining.

Now that the assembly is about to take up the question, the United Arab Republic has drafted a tentative resolution, which was shown last Wednesday to delegates from other countries that attended the Cairo summit.

The informants said that to remove the conference from the direct purview of the United Nations, the resolution would leave the arrangements in the hands of a preparatory committee.

They said the first idea was that this should consist of the 18 members of the Geneva disarmament committee including France and, in addition, seven other countries including Communist China. However, they explained, it was agreed at the meeting to leave the composition of the committee for later negotiation.

Diplomats generally expect that the assembly will call for a world disarmament conference to be held toward the end of 1966.

Junior Leaders Meeting Held At Farm Station

HOMER (Special) — Thirty-five members of the Claiborne parish junior leader organization attended a meeting at the Experiment Station recently and elected officers.

Chosen to head the group for 1965 - 66 were Jerry Burnham, president; Tommy Davidson, vice president; Jan Torbet, secretary; Duffy Gandy, treasurer, and Jerry Abercrombie, reporter.

Brenda Simmons presented the suggested list of activities and the projects were chosen for the year. Junior leaders will devote a day to help with schools for retarded children in the parish. To encourage junior 4-H club members, a parish-wide party will be held for them. Later this year junior leaders will again honor graduating 4 - H members.

A committee was named to work on finances for these projects. The organization voted to hold a parish - wide talent show to help raise funds.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR FOLKS:

Recently, while taking a Sunday drive, I noticed the most unique way that I have ever seen to utilize a dead tree!

And . . . if you have never tried to dig up the stump of a big tree, then you are in for a big surprise and weeks of work, no matter what method you use. (My husband has tried, and it's awful. Takes weeks to finish the job).

This couple had cut the tree off, leaving a stump about 18 inches high. They then cemented the top of the stump and put bricks (two deep) around the edges, making a darling planter box. It was filled with flowers of the season.

Another neighbor had planted ivy in her stump-planter and allowed it to drip down the sides. Beautiful.

Heloise

TWO-PART CEREAL

DEAR HELOISE:

I set my baby's bowl of warm cereal on top of a cup of hot coffee!

This keeps the cereal warm and when she is through, I can relax with my already-poured cup of tempered coffee. I am very careful to keep the hot coffee out of reach of the baby.

Barbara Morris

THE LIGHT TOUCH

DEAR HELOISE:

I was becoming unhappy with my flashlight batteries going dead when I did not use the flashlight, so I decided to do something about it.

I inserted the last battery in reverse position. Then when I want to use the flashlight, all I have to do is to turn the battery to the right position.

Now I always have a good light.

Mrs. L. Lovett

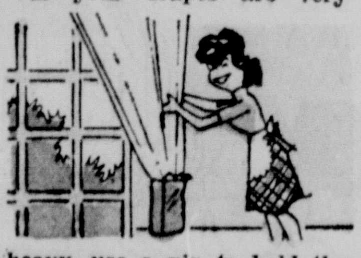
NO-DRIP DRAPES

DEAR HELOISE:

I have floor-length drapes in all my rooms, and before I wash my floors and wax them, I draw my drapes all the way back, fold the bottoms up a bit and stick the loose bottoms into a large brown grocery sack to prevent their getting splashed or soiled!

The drapery holds the bag off the floor and the sacks hold the drapery out of the way of my broom, mop, water, etc.

If your drapes are very heavy, use a pin to hold the sack in place.



Irene Halick

CLOTHESLINE TRICK

DEAR HELOISE:

Never throw away your old shower-curtain rings or pins. They are handy for so many things.

Keep some of the curtain rings on your clothesline at all times. Then if you want to dry something on a hanger, place the hanger hook through the shower pin and bend the hook a little, and the hanger will never blow off the line.

To hang up venetian blinds to dry, hook the pins over the rod in the blind fixture, one on each end. Wonderful.

Pants stretchers hook into them nicely, too.

Last but not least, after you wash your lamp shades, hang them on the shower pins. I could not do without them.

Keep up your good work, Heloise.

Mrs. C. J.

HANDS OFF THE OLIVES!

DEAR HELOISE:

It helps to fasten a menu note to the refrigerator door when you are giving a party so relishes or the like don't get overlooked.

Also, a dire warning fastened to the door might prevent refrigerator-raiders from helping themselves beforehand.

Margy Clark

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS

DEAR HELOISE:

To clean artificial flowers, put them in a paper bag with one-half cup of corn meal and one-fourth cup of salt. Close the bag and shake well but gently.

It sure cleans the flowers quickly and beautifully.

Mrs. M. C. Archer

FOR WANT OF A NAIL . .

DEAR HELOISE:

An extremely useful gift for a friend is a dollar's worth of assorted nails.

These nails will remind the friend of you almost every day for months and months and months . . .

PROP-ER IDEA

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a hint that I think may help all mothers with small babies.

I found that my baby kept slipping to the side of his stroller even when he was reclining. Then a friend showed me this trick:

I took a receiving blanket the baby had outgrown, folded it in half, rolled it up and fastened it with three rubber bands.

I made two of these blanket rolls and put one on each side of him whenever I took him out in the stroller, and later when he needed bolstering in his high chair. This makes all his furniture fit him and prevents many bumps.

P.S.: Your column is great, and, as a young wife and mother, I don't know what I'd do without it!!

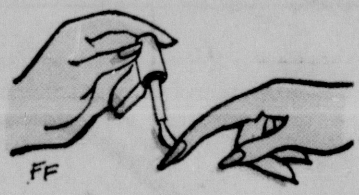
Sandra Otterstrom

HIDDEN CLAUSE

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's one for the career girl who tears or splits a fingernail.

Paint the nail with polish in the normal manner, then press a small piece of gauze bandage over the split or tear. Since the polish is wet, the gauze will adhere to the nail. (One can use plastic adhesive tape after applying one coat of polish.)



Let the polish dry, then repeat the polish-and-dry process three or four times.

When the last coat of polish is thoroughly dry, the "bandage" can be filed along with the nail.

You can keep your long fingernail indefinitely in this manner . . . in fact, until it finally grows out.

Best of all, no unsightly bandage or tape shows on the finger.

Liz

GET THE POINT?

DEAR HELOISE:

The best way to protect an ice pick is to use a cork. The cork stays on, and can be used over and over.

Theresa Ouslander

* * *

Yes, and these corks can be taken from any type or size bottle. A sure protection from that sharp spike.
